Contagious Horror: The Results of Vaccines & Nonlinear Vaccine Propaganda

Author's Note: Please consider saving this evidence - before the powers that shouldn't be show it down the memory hole.

This pandemic is so scripted and contrived you can practically see the puppet strings at work in nearly all of the participating politicians and media outlets.

Given that they are winding down the virus propaganda machine just in time for spring and summer - we can be sure that the crisis actors will be gone after right no but - let's put those scripted fear-mongering lies under a microscope and examine them in order to arm ourselves with the knowledge we need to guard ourselves against the next wave of deception.

These are not science terms and phrases. They are hypnotic chants meant to induce an audience into a suggestive state of mind - this is why they are repeated over and over again.

Furthermore, masking has historically been an integral part of an initiation ritual into the initiation into the "new normal" the globalists have planned for us.

Put another way—all of this was one giant world-wide psychological operation. Here is a collection of authorities admitting this with its horrific effects woven through them. Take the time to read through this—the crimes are horrific:

- He said this could lead to them infecting the same cell, and swapping genes
- There are very few examples of this happening with Covid so far, scientists say

A new super-variant could be created if Omicron and Delta infect someone at the same time, one of Moderna's bosses has warned.

Covid infections normally only involve one mutant strain, but in extremely rare cases two can strike at the same time.

Dr Paul Burton, the vaccine maker's chief medical officer, warned the high numbers of Delta and Omicron cases currently circulating in Britain made this more likely.

He told MPs on the Science and Technology Committee that it was 'certainly' possible they could swap genes and trigger an even more dangerous variant.

The chance for a new world order

By Henry A. Kissinger
Published: Monday, January 12, 2009

As the new U.S. administration prepares to take office amid grave financial and international crises, it may seem counterintuitive to argue that the very unsettled nature of the international system generates a unique opportunity for creative diplomacy.

5 facts you need to understand the new global order

To get to grips with the seismic shifts taking place, consider these five facts.

1) China is in the process of surpassing the US economically.

2) China is leading the largest urbanization and infrastructure development scheme on earth.

3) China is set to become a global green powerhouse.

4) China is also setting the global pace on a digital economy, including cashless payments.

5) Chinese universities are also vaulting to the top of the international rankings.

All the while, the west seems to be asleep at the wheel.

Faced with threats ranging from climate change to massive technological advancement, the world is in desperate need of stable and able global governance. And yet there is surging opposition to liberal governance due to rising inequalities and frustration with the perceived failures of the liberal order.

If we are to survive the global geopolitical transition, we must first accept that the era of US hegemony is over. Instead, the world is shifting to a new multi-polar order with the US and China at its centre. We need to restore and rebuild stable institutions and rules that acknowledge the changed context. They will need to be more inclusive, representative and legitimate.

All of this will be hard to swallow for stalwarts of the global liberal order. It will also need to be explained to a public that is accustomed to linear change. The current transformations are both non-linear and increasingly exponential, processes that are hard for humans to grasp. We are fixated to the forward march of democracies and the underlying principles on which they are based, yet we must learn to compromise and accommodate multiple value systems.

The next order will be more complex and potentially more precarious, but that is the brave new world we face.
