InPower Episode #1: A Mass Action of Liability (2017)

The InPower Docu-Series illustrates a powerful new method to restore social justice and accountability. Episode #1 focuses on solving the ‘smart’ meter problem: how we can prevent and reverse the installation of this dangerous technology, through holding corporate executives and government actors financially accountable — for the first time ever. And in so doing, we can restore safety in our homes, and bring balance to our world.

Hi Ivan,
The NOL will work in nearly all countries that use the UCC 'modern' legal system. There are a few countries such as North Korea, and some middle eastern countries who's courts operate outside this system. Even in countries that don't use UCC, you can go against the corporations themselves that are incorporated in countries that utilize the Uniform Commercial Code.

For those of you new to In Empowe Movement you have no idea of the power the NoL has that Cal and Josh concocted. It's power far outways any of the options you probably have been offered anywhere else in my humble opinion. I have been and continue to be a student at common law for over 7 years. I have studied under some pretty phenomenal well known Common Law experts and I'm telling you nowhere else have I found a process and documents like the NoL process Cal and Josh have uncovered and put together for all of our... Read more »

Do you only want 4 respondents? There was a remark "we are standardizing to 4 respondents." We have 6: State Senator, State Representative, Governor, Congressman, CEO of Electric company and Chief of Public Utility Commission. We had to go to a second page to list them all. Let us know if we should eliminate two of them. Thanks, Nancy List

Hi Nancy, Yes, you can do more than four. Who you've listed sounds very appropriate, I think the idea was to make the docs as universal as possible, with the caveat being not to send it to masses of respondents so that it would not appear to be malicious or unfocused. Please consider joining the Ground Crew and keeping us up to date on your progress, where your at, and letting us know if we can share your contact info with others who may be looking to hook up in your area. This is truly a crowd-sourced movement and power... Read more »
