McCullough WAS THREATENED. It's time to move on from him. There are other whistleblowers who won't bend to pressure or coercion.

Momentum for war crimes tribunals is building steadily. It won't be long before there are just two choices: vigilante justice or arrests & trials for crimes against humanity.

Once the former kicks off, the window of opportunity to initiate the latter has closed. Either way, death awaits those complicit in GENOCIDE! The People will have JUSTICE!

This is such a 180 degree turn for Dr. McCullough. It would appear that he has been threatened or has been promised that he will be reinstated into his previous academic positions and that the American College of Cardiology and the American Board of Internal Medicine will reinstate him. As far as forgiveness is concerned, forgiveness requires admission of wrong doing, a sincere apology for having done it, but it does not include amnesty. A person might be very sorry that he killed someone, and actually sincerely apologize but that does not mean he gets amnesty. People were killed by these jabs, many people, it doesn't matter if it was intentional or not, people died and continue to die as a result of them. In spite of all of these deaths and the massive number of injuries incurred, the people behind these jabs continue unabated in pushing them. I am very disappointed and feel betrayed by Dr. McCullough's reversal. Money talks and bullshit walks.

McCullough's position from the outset has been bleeding obvious to me, crowing out loud "he" was a world expert - so very very concerned that a couple of things that may help ppl's health were being denied use-of ! while all of the time ignoring glaring lack of any scientific proof of any "virus" at play - to me - anything medical he elaborated on, then, was of no consequence scientifically. I heard of both he and Malone still being in-the-system and on very big payments . He wouldn't even entertain others' arising discoveries into more aspects of what is at play...to present. Seems like MR nice guy? just an annoying mozzie buzzing on a hot summer's night to me.

Absolutely. A medical doctor is generally speaking, insufficiently educated in Aristotelian/Thomistic philosophy/Theology to be taken seriously with respect to war crimes and crimes against humanity. His assessment on guilt/culpability of perpetrators is grossly inadequate and should be rejected. Public crimes/sins must be publicly repented of and punished appropriately, a truism that was once understood by the masses.

I didn't follow McCullough enough to realize he was on the, "vaccine is a bioweapon" camp. But the timing is interesting - Baylor just dropped their lawsuit against him, and/or the judge dismissed the case. If I were guessing, I could see McCullough be offered a choice: lawsuit dropped, get your life back if you stop with the bioweapon rhetoric - which COULD be considered out of his skills set - or share cells with all the other uncharged political prisoners rotting away in prison.

I am TOTALLY fine with this. McCullough has paid enough of a price. He is doing good work. His nattokinase products are helping people with vaxx damage. I am not expecting MDs to fall on their swords for this cause. Let them thread their needles to maintain an income yet limit the damage Pharma is doing. I am a school teacher. I wore the mask incorrectly and told my students to cheat on it so that they could BREATHE. These are initial steps in what is shaping to be a protracted battle. The whole of our artificial social system is CORRUPT.

Ahhh, to pick apart the logic chain in his argument. But why bother now? I didn't believe he was CO, unlike some others with prominent roles. But in the democratised resistance - or what will soon be - we don't need self-appointed 'leaders' from within The Monster. We need networks, in our communities. That is where the war will be won or lost, not at globe-trotting conferences attended by special people.

The entire point is to fight against centralisation, the collectivist Agenda that will further enslave us all, to go back to our roots and establish balance instead. That can only be local.

Short argument: If it wasn't supranational malice behind the curtain, the government psychopaths wouldn't have been acting in lockstep and they wouldn't have continued the bioweapon deployment while blinding themselves to the harms caused. They wouldn't have been hiding the damning statistics from the public. They wouldn't have the 'medical countermeasures' just waiting for an outbreak to deploy (what luck! Or is it luck, when the cure pre-patent-dates the disease?). They wouldn't have waved through bioweapon gene therapies as vaccines using fraudulent trials and data. They wouldn't have jabbed any recovered people. That alone was insane. Treatments would have been supported NOT demonised. They wouldn't have injected children or pregnant women. What flashing red warning light is Peter not seeing?

There are about a billion layers of what the Monster did that was at variance with what a healthy system would have done. Were someone to map it out, literally every decision made over years had the same evil vector, pointing towards a democide that will eclipse all before it. They were all pointing directly away from human flourishing.

That doesn't happen by chance. That is enemy action. An enemy that has been running the Bolshevik playbook from day 1. A play in which is the co-option of opposition elements. The slow-roll is an integral part of their plan slow-motion is an integral part of their plan.

~5B humans are likely to be dead between now and the end of the decade. Even if the nukes don't fly as part of the psyops/plan.

How is anyone associated with any part of it not on their knees begging forgiveness? That is the dog that didn't bark. Because the killer is the dog's owner.

Peace.

NEVER in the history of mankind has injecting poisons into your body given you better health. Quite the opposite. They've ALL maimed and killed. Read and learn the history of this barbaric act:

There are many others, they're just a few. Finding the truth isn't that hard.

We've known for well over 150 years the concept of vaccination is a fraud concept. And the criminals that pose as our elected officials are in on the take and are raking in millions, and will NEVER stop the madness that is called vaccination. And neither will doctors who are being PAID handsomely for jabbing and lying to their trusting patients. If you've been jabbed then your death will be influenced by and/or directly caused by said jab. People should quit thinking it's coincidence. That's propaganda talk. And yet the populace of today (being dumbed down by design) have their heads buried in the sand and believe the corrupt media's story of blaming these deaths on everything else under the sun except the obvious. What a pity.

So did the military leaders of Germany have to confess and repent before being prosecuted at Nuremberg?

The efficiency of brutality on a global scale was made possible by modern weapons of war. Its history must be reassessed with a new set of lenses untainted by 'education' and other manipulated media.* Viewing history and current events in this way creates a healthy skepticism that can be lifesaving. But he didn't help with Operation Warp Speed. He put the military in charge of the US and stripped all your rights. Big Pharma had the jab ready to go once the "outbreak" ripped across the world. It was packaged and released. Why? Because they created the problem and offered the solution - depopulation for the sheep who had zero critical thinking skills. Most of the worlds population today. This is the article that gets written when you don't interview real antivaxers. Mccullough, Malone, and all the others that only arose in 2020 are shills. They were nowhere to be found speaking up for vaccine injured children prior to 2020. He may "arguably" be the voice you'd like to advocate for you, but he is not the voice that speaks for all the antivaxers. Y'all rode on the momentum of our hard work that we parents did for our children. Back when you were mocking and scoffing at us for pushing back against the MMR and chickenpox and Hep B vaccines. Then all of a sudden you seize our community's momentum the moment it was your adult bodies under fire for an untested vaccine. You took the position of "Well I'm no antivaxer but..." to try to distance yourself from us while simultaneously courting us as a demographic to boost your count. Take responsibility for what you're doing. Many of you didn't give a shit when it was our children being vaccine-injured. You only stepped up to the plate when it was your own body on the line. And still today you refuse to look at the pre-COVID vaccines, which, I may add, are also all being reformulated to mRNA versions. Keep trusting the shills that speak softly, have MDs after their names. You'll be disappointed, obviously.

Good points, Angie.

Given the lies, censorship, and concealment surrounding Covid and its injectables, I'm hearing many say they're reevaluating all vaccines.

For example, why have no jabs been compared to placebos not containing adjuvants (e.g., squalene) or preservatives (e.g., mercury)? One cannot detect adverse effects from these without a proper control group.

Why are the vaccine injured ignored and suppressed? Why are doctors who raise important questions, like Andy Wakefield, destroyed? It reminds one of people being imprisoned in Europe for questioning WW2 history. Do the enforcers have commonalities?

I've long been worried about these issues and know other doctors who are too, but it is difficult for them to speak publicly without being ruined. They privately express their concerns to patients, however.

Hoping for a better future. Thank you for your work.

Want to put the hurt on Pfizer right now? Make a Quilt. In the 80's and 90's, in order to bring worldwide attention to the AIDS crisis, families contributed patchwork remembrances to their fallen loved ones that all got stitched together in a giant quilt. It was one of the most effective campaigns in the history of focusing worldwide attention on a critical subject the MSM and science were trying to keep in the closet (no pun intended). Unfortunately, AIDS was the precursor for COVID. It was the same playbook with PCR test used for diagnosing people who were deemed sick but were asymptomatic. Once they had a negative test, they were whisked off to treatment with AZT, which was a toxic drug which wasted their bodies away. The photos of the effects of this drug were then constantly played on television and attributed to AIDS, but it was actually caused by the drug, AZT.

what I see: He now better understands the basic biology. intramuscular transfections can never produce immunity to respiratory virus-like particles. especially not to RNA particles. The virus-like particles can only utilize the cellular machinery to do things the cell normally does on its own.

Everything that is recognized as non-self will be tagged and eventually be destroyed by the immune system. Thus the whole concept of vaccination is nonsensical at it's foundation, at the minimum for RNA.

Then add the emerging understanding of exosomes and a few other things and you can start to see the level stupidity that virology and the vaccine industry is misguided by.

From this perspective you can dismiss the whole industry as mostly useless and try to work towards a pathway to dismiss and abolish all of it without dividing people by hate and fear.

Now if you say that the mRNA transfections are a slow kill bio-weapon, this could only be true to the degree of induced poisoning because of bad manufacturing practice, the use of inflaming LNP and degraded RNA that gets translated into whatever proteins or peptides or shorter parts. This would lead to all the well documented adverse effects and wide range of chronic illness.

The spike protein itself might be the least of all worries, since nanopore sequencing shows how rarely a full replication competent RNA sequence gets transcribed in vivo. But nobody really looks at this in depth.

❤️ LIKED (6) 💬 REPLY (1) ...

I'm not sure Pfizer knows what the vax is doing. Maybe Moderna does.

But there was data that N-1 methylspuedouridine has a long duration of action, yet elimination and protein degradation wasn't studied.

They knew there were exosomes yet nothing mentioned/reviewed

The good biodistribution study was cut short despite guidelines saying you're supposed to monitor until no more signal. Plus it was luciferase not BNT162b2 and biodistribution of LNPs changes based on charge, size, shape, mRNA packing so no guarantee luciferase was a good surrogate marker.

There were differences in the truncated mRNA is both number and quality from the clinical trial batches. And no idea if they are translated or can be in vivo (like say get repolyadenylated as has been recently shown)

And lastly, there is no good assessment of functionality, potency or sequencing of the protein made by the mRNA. It transfects HEK293 cells. Don't think that is good enough imho. With all that codon optimization we don't have a protein sequence or know if it even folds the same or is glycosylated the same. Likely not. And all this is known biology, yet wasn't tested. And the regulators asked.

There is very bad manufacturing, but maybe that is to obscure what is really happening.

Just my 2 cents.

As foretold in 'protocols' written years ago: it is part of an accelerationist policy meant to destroy nation-States (hence DOD involvement as per CLADE X), by undermining our trust in institutions. Confronted with economic depression and faced with such a level of incompetence and corruption, the people will blame their leaders, which is principally meant to subvert, foment distrust, and cause revolt; have the people destroy their own institutions, so the parasitic barbarians can swoop in and impose new ones.

Astute.

Reminds one of this, inspiring trust in American leaders:

Yes, the protocols was definitely somebody's playbook.

And yes, they are trying to set up a global one world government right now the the WHO pandemic treaty and the International Health Regulations. This guy has been warning about what's going on:

There has to be a judgement and the resulting punishment, not only to deter future wrong doing, but as a matter of right and wrong.

Now lawsuits have started to happen, some appear quite promising (see link below). It is possible McCullough and others have toned down their statements so as not to have cases thrown out because of "tainted jury pools." Cases are thrown out because of tainted jury pools, they are a very real danger.

No one fought as hard as McCullough since day one, as did Kennedy, let's wait and see where this goes before deciding they are not legit.

I've always thought it strange that McCullough said he took the shots. Any remotely intelligent person I know did not. It seems perplexing that he did with his level of expertise. And then immediately afterward, came out swinging against them. Same thoughts about Malone, but even more so. How could he have taken the shots knowing what he knows? It doesn't make logical sense. That means someone is lying.

I think they are both paid by you know who.

Did McCullough say he took Covid shots?

Dr. Robert Malone says he did, which is odd given he knows it installs a mechanism for making a foreign, humanlike protein in an uncontrolled dose for an unknown amount of time and was therefore known beforehand to be at least a theoretical setup for autoimmune disease and other problems.

But I hadn't heard McCullough took the jabs.

Yes He did say he had and all of his children, too, right at the outset. He also repeatedly claimed he and his family had "had" COVID too. I noticed throughout 2022 in any interviews, he was always very congested and sniffing too. He has been sick (or detoxing a lot)

Malone said in an interview - that he did the jabs because he knew he'd have to be able to attend international events/conferences.

EGO matters, you know.

I haven't personally seen that, but my dad insists he did, and he does his research. I can check on that for you if you like. I was surprised to hear it.

Seems kind of odd that McCullough doesn't have a readily available info page telling about his story that he's been repeating over the past few years.

I'm not surprised to see this from McCullough. It was always a mystery that he was one of the first doctors who appeared to come out against hospital measures, yet then announced he was duped enough to have two experimental shots injected into his body. How believable is that? It's possible, but I seriously doubt it. Same goes for Malone. I don't believe what either of them say is true.

If it doesn't make sense, someone is lying.
