Thank you so much Dr. Ana! Just what I wanted to know about the EDTA cream, since I can't do anymore IV's, I am hoping the cream will work as well.

A few years ago I did a heavy metal detox with integrative medicine doctor by Metagenics. Really helped my heavy metal & parasite overload. Painful 2 weeks but very worth it.

I see there is an oral supplement for EDTA. Is that a good idea?

Question: for how many months do treatments need to continue at the recommended topical dosage? At what point can they be reduced to, for example, once per week, or whatever? Understanding that there's no crime in making a profit, we also need to understand that $60 for 24 tsp / doses, ie, one month of Rx, of topical EDTA (EZDtox Cream) is totally unaffordable by the massive majority of the world. The point -- make your profits from the uberwealthy (for the moment, at least) U.S. clients if you need, but then put your expertise where you say your heart is (I'm believing you that your purpose is to glorify God by serving & helping people) and show the world how to make it themselves more (?much more) cheaply. The spirit is willing, but the flesh is oh, so clever at deceiving us (justifying our unspiritual motives). May the spirit win! Please!!

All info is on the website. All websites and products cost money to bring to the market. I follow dirt road, they simply give free information like this video, then tell you where to buy the products they recommend. It's not a one size fits all, what works for some doesn't for others. There are more affordable options like chlorella etc but do they do as good a job as chelation, I think not, we are being bombarded with toxins and it takes a lot to remove them.
