HealthWhys2 1 day ago At last tally Australia is set to have 30,000 excess deaths by year end if not now. I tracked ABS stats to 20,000 people mark and this is if the average per month continues. Horrific! 2 likes Reply

Questnow 1 day ago Thank you. I work with data. Properly reported data breaks through the denial fog. The data is the data. Dowd is sharp. 1 like Reply

WanderingGoose 1 day ago Thank you Naomi and Ed, for your work and courage. As someone who followed the alternative news from the beginning and is unvaccinated, the hardest part to handle is the conversations I can not have with people. The heavy-hearted, unspoken knowing. I watched my friends and family 'excitedly' embrace the "vaccine" and, after a few initial attempts at talking about the risks, all conversations were shut down. It's been heartbreaking to remain silent. Now people tell me they won't take any more boosters, but there is too much fear to speak further. Many of them know they have been royally screwed, and fear or know they have been damaged. But, no one wants to say it outloud! People around me are getting sick and dying. I just pray I have the courage to handle those dinner table conversations when they begin. How the hell are we all going to deal with such loss? 2 like Reply missesj 1 day ago I don't see the left ever admitting to themselves what they have done to themselves and others. They pretty much never apologize, never admit fault, never admit they were wrong... and would rather all humanity die than to admit anything. It's how they roll. They have no God or conscience to answer to. 0 likes Reply
