The Food and Drug Administration on Friday added a warning to patient and provider fact sheets to the Moderna and Pfizer vaccines indicating that they pose risk of myocarditis and Pericarditis heart inflammation.

This comes after 300 million Americans have gotten vaccinated for COVID-19 as of June 11, according to the CDC.

According to the FDA Coronavirus \(COVID-19\) Update on June 25, 2021, the FDA has officially called for changes to the patient and provider fact sheets for the Moderna and Pfizer jabs to include a warning of an increased risk of heart inflammation. “The FDA is announcing revisions to the patient and provider fact sheets for the Moderna and Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccines regarding the suggested increased risks of myocarditis (inflammation of the heart muscle) and pericarditis (inflammation of the tissue surrounding the heart) following vaccination.”

Myocarditis is an inflammation of the heart muscle that can reduce the heart’s ability to pump, causing rapid or abnormal heart rhythms. A severe infection can weaken the heart, causing the rest of the body to not get enough blood, leading to a stroke or heart attack. Pericarditis is swelling and irritation of the thin tissue surrounding the heart, causing sharp chest pain which occurs when the irritated layers of the pericardium rub together. Severe cases can last as long as 3 months.

“The warning in the Fact Sheets for Healthcare Providers Administering Vaccines notes that reports of adverse events suggest increased risks of myocarditis and pericarditis, particularly following the second dose and with onset of symptoms within a few days after vaccination,” the news release continues. “Additionally, the Fact Sheets for Recipients and Caregivers for these vaccines note that vaccine recipients should seek medical attention right away if they have chest pain, shortness of breath, or feelings of having a fast-beating, fluttering, or pounding heart after vaccination. The FDA and CDC are monitoring the reports, collecting more information, and will follow-up to assess longer-term outcomes over several months.”

More than 1,200 reported cases of myocarditis or pericarditis have affected people mostly around the ages of 30 and under who received the COVID-19 vaccines, according to the CDC. Prior to the FDA release of the heart inflammation warning for the Moderna and Pfizer COVID-19 vaccines, nearly 300 million Americans have already received COVID-19 vaccines as of June 11. Health officials maintain that the conditions are rare and still urge Americans to get vaccinated for COVID-19.

National File has reported on the links between the COVID-19 vaccine and heart conditions since late May. On May 25, National File reported “The Center for Disease Control revealed over the weekend that it has opened an investigation into multiple reports of myocarditis (inflammation of heart muscles that restricts the organ’s ability to pump blood effectively) in young people and adolescents.” The report was falsely labeled as “misleading” by Twitter despite the facts and continues to be labeled as such to this day. On June 21, National File reported “A 13-year-old Michigan boy has died just three days after receiving his second dose of the Pfizer brand COVID-19 vaccine. Preliminary autopsy results indicate that following his vaccination, the boy’s heart has become enlarged and surrounded by fluid, a symptom similar to those documented in other teen boys who have experienced severe and potentially lethal side effects following their COVID vaccination.” After the report was posted on Twitter, the social media giant suspended the National File Twitter account for 12 hours for “spreading misleading and potentially harmful information related to COVID-19.” After the account was restored, a Twitter spokesperson claimed the suspension was “in error.” (READ MORE: BREAKING: Twitter Restores Account of National File’s Hadfield after Social Media Backlash over Reported Vaccine Death Story)

As the Biden administration, corporations, and the global elite push for forced vaccinations in the US and abroad, Congressman Thomas Massie and even President Donald Trump have warned against forcing young people to get the vaccine, National File Senior Reporter Patrick Howley reported.

Republican Kentucky Congressman Thomas Massie said that human beings should not be forced to take the Coronavirus vaccine, citing numbers showing the prevalence of the heart condition myocarditis among young vaccine recipients. Massie's comments echo President Donald Trump's recent assertion that "the vaccine on very young people is something that you've got to really stop."

There is no way that 300 million have had the vaccine in the USA.

Sid6.7 → Shitappens • 20 hours ago

The current population of the US is about 330,000,000.

So 300,000,000 million vaccinated would be 90%.

It might be a first dose. It's not like the CDC is actually against messaging numbers for the benefit of the powers that be.

That many have probably been exposed to the spike protein being shed by those who have been vaccinated, which is more deadly than the virus.

Yeah its written wrong. 300 million doses. So a mix of people who have had both doses and one dose. I think ~50% of the population have received at least one dose. Somewhere around 160Million

The Wuhan Special vaccines correct medical name is Thinning the herd.
 I read an article last week written by a doctor that it will take 2-3 years to determine any bad effects of the Wuhan Special vaccines. I tried to find the article on Lew Rockwell but could not find it .this morning..
 Now it seems we will not have to wait 2-3 years. But I'm sure more "stuff" will be cropping up in the 2-3 yr term..
 By then.. It will be a World Governments mandate to have your Wuhan Special vaccine passport chip implanted.. To travel- buy or sell.
 Or even get to use Mr. Whipple's special scooper.

In the June 24 episode of The Joe Rogan Experience, the podcaster and UFC commentator was joined by comedian Iliza Shlesinger. In a discussion about the social upheaval of the 1960s, Rogan pointed out that America's current state may be more pivotal for the country, and declared that the United States is without a leader to ground it or give it purpose.

"We're unhinged in a lot of ways and we're not anchored down by a real leader, you know, we don't really have a real leader in this country anymore," said Rogan, before turning the discussion to Joe Biden. "I mean you can say Joe Biden is the president, he's our leader, and you'd be correct on paper, but I mean everybody knows he's out of his mind. He's just, he's barely hanging in there."

"I think people are going to be talking about all the changes happening right here, right now, in the future they're going to say it's one of the most tumultuous periods in the history of the country," said Rogan. (READ MORE: Joe Rogan Is Right: Science Shows Young People Have Mild COVID Symptoms, Worse Vaccine Reactions Than Elderly)

The two also discussed the apparent "disconnect" between people required to engage in cancel culture, and compared the current political climate to medieval witch hunts.

"There's a disconnect between other people that's happening when you're attacking someone online." Rogan added, "They're not a human, they're the other. You can attack them in that way. If they get taken down, they lose their job, people like it. It's like you scored a point, you're playing a video game, you killed a bad guy."

Rogan recently seemingly suggested this mindset is leading to the mass exodus of viewers currently being experienced by CNN and other cable outlets after a CNN host seemed to complain about his viewership numbers. "They were describing it as if they're entitled to viewers," said Rogan, who then added, "This is because the market has spoken and your show's f-ing terrible." Rogan continued, "Brian Stelter's show keeps slipping and slipping and slipping in the ratings," and "Same with Don Lemon's. It's the same thing. Everybody knows they're not real. They're not real humans... They're obviously being told a certain amount of what to do."

In another recent episode of his podcast, Rogan warned that leftist cancel culture will lead to an environment hostile to straight white men. "You can never be woke enough, that's the problem," Rogan noted. "It keeps going. It keeps going further and further and further down the line, and if you get to the point where you capitulate, where you agree to all these demands, it'll eventually get to straight white men are not allowed to talk." He added, "It will be, you're not allowed to go outside. Because so many people were imprisoned. I'm not joking, it really will get there. It's that crazy."

The audit of the 2020 election in Maricopa County, Arizona has concluded, with both paper examination and counting finishing on Friday, and the hand count of ballots finishing earlier this month. Full results will be provided to the Arizona Senate, with a preliminary report potentially arriving as early as Monday, June 28.

On June 15, the Maricopa Arizona Audit Twitter account celebrated that "Hand count of ballots was completed yesterday" and noted that, at the time, audit workers were "examining over [100,000] ballots per day!" Then, yesterday, the account announced that "Paper examination and counting are finished today." The account, run by former Arizona Secretary of State Ken Bennett, added, "Thank you to all the amazing Arizona volunteers who made this audit possible!"

The Gateway Pundit reports that early results of the lengthy forensic audit process may be available as soon as Monday. “On Monday we may see a preliminary report, which details the accuracy of the number of certified ballots,” and “We then expect to see a full forensic report which details the forensic images and ballot findings.”

“On Monday or soon after, we will know the true number of ballots that were cast in Maricopa County. If it is drastically different than the number of certified ballots, as expected with the discrepancies found, there will be severe consequences for Doug Ducey and Katie Hobbs,” the publication added.

Arizona Republicans celebrated the day across social media. On Telegram, Arizona Rep. Mark Finchem, who is now running for Arizona Secretary of State, declared, “This is a huge milestone.” Sen. Wendy Rogers wrote, “Arizona is special and goes to show when you have a tireless irate minority of conservatives you can still get things done. We are getting a lot done and fighting for every bit of it. Keep pushing.” Arizona Republican Party Chair Kelli Ward simply celebrated, “Paper evaluation & counting are complete! #AmericasAudit #Arizona.”
