

How the Censorship Industry Works, and How We Can Stop It

Analysis by Dr. Joseph Mercola

✓ Fact Checked

June 25, 2023

STORY AT-A-GLANCE

- › The internet was likely not intended to remain free forever. The intention for it to be used as a totalitarian tool was baked in from the start
- › Google started as a DARPA grant and was part of the CIA's and NSA's digital data program, the purpose of which was to conduct "birds of a feather" mapping online so that certain groups could be neutralized
- › All of the early internet freedom technologies of the '90s were funded by the Pentagon and the State Department. They were developed by the intelligence community as an insurgency tool – a means to help dissident groups in foreign countries to develop a pro-U.S. stance and evade state-controlled media. Now, these same technologies have been turned against the American public, and are used to control public discourse
- › In the past, censorship was a laborious task that could only be done after the fact. Artificial intelligence has radically altered the censorship industry. AI programs can now censor information en masse, based on the language used, and prevent it from being seen at all
- › One of the most effective strategies that would have immediate effect would be to strip the censorship industry of its government funding. The House controls the purse strings of the federal government, so the House Appropriations Committee has the power to end the funding of government-sponsored censorship

In this video, I interview Mike Benz, executive director for the Foundation for Freedom Online. Benz started off as a corporate lawyer representing tech and media companies before joining the Trump administration, where he worked as a speech writer for Dr. Ben Carson, the former U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and President Trump.

He also advised on economic development policy. He then joined the State Department as Deputy Assistant Secretary for International Communications and Information Technology. There, he ran the cyber desks at state, meaning all things having to do with the internet and foreign policy.

“This is toward the end of 2020, which was a really fascinating time to witness the merger, in many respects, of big government and big tech companies themselves,” he says. “I had grown up, I think, like many Americans, with a belief that the First Amendment protected you against government censorship.

The terms of engagement that we had enjoyed from 1991, when the worldwide web rolled out, until 2016, the election in the U.S. and Brexit in the U.K., which is, really, the first political event where the election was determined, in many respects, by momentum on the internet.

There was that 25-year golden period where the idea of being censored by a private sector company, let alone the government, was considered something, to me, very deeply anathema to the American experience.

What I witnessed at the State Department – because I was at the desk, basically, that Google and Facebook would call when they wanted favors abroad, when they wanted American protection or American policies to preserve their dominance in Europe, or in Asia or in Latin America.

And the U.S. government was doing favors for these tech companies while the tech companies were censoring the people who voted for the government. It was a complete betrayal of whatever social contract typically underlies the public-private partnership."

The Internet Was Founded by the National Security State

Ostensibly, the rapid expansion of censorship started post-2016, but you can make a strong argument that the internet was never intended to remain free forever. Rather, the intention for it to be used as a totalitarian tool was likely baked in from the start when the national security state founded it in 1968.

The worldwide web, which is the user interface, was launched in 1991, and my suspicion is that the public internet was seeded and allowed to grow in order to capture and make the most of the population dependent upon it, knowing that it would be the most effective social engineering tool ever conceived. Benz comments:

"I totally agree ... A lot of people, in trying to understand what's happening with the net censorship, say 'We had this free internet, and then suddenly there was this age of censorship and the national security state got involved at the censorship side.'

But when you retrace the history, internet freedom itself was actually a national security state imperative. The internet itself is a product of a counterinsurgency necessity by the Pentagon to manage information during the 1960s, particularly to aggregate social science data. And then, it was privatized.

Opening it up to all comers in the private sector, it was handed off from DARPA [the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency] to the National Science Foundation, and then went through a series of universities on the infrastructure side.

And then, right out of the gate in 1991, you had the Cold War coming to an end, and then simultaneously, you had this profusion of Pentagon-funded internet freedom technologies. You had things like VPNs, encrypted chat, TOR.

All of the early internet freedom technologies of the '90s were funded by the Pentagon, the State Department, and developed by the intelligence community, primarily, as a way of using internet freedom as a means to help dissident groups in foreign countries be able to develop a pro-U.S. beachhead, because it was a way to evade state-controlled media.

This was, basically, an insurgency tool for the U.S. government, in the same way that Voice of America and Radio Free Liberty, and Radio Free Europe were tools of the CIA in the Cold War, to beam in, basically, pro-U.S. content to populations in foreign countries in order to sway them towards U.S. interests. It was a way of managing the world empire.

The internet served the same purpose, and it couldn't be done if it was called a Pentagon operation, a State Department or CIA operation. But all of the tech companies themselves are products of that. Google started as a DARPA grant that was obtained at Stanford by Sergey Brin and Larry Page.

In 1995, they were part of the CIA and NSA's [National Security Agency's] massive digital data program. They had their monthly meetings with their CIA and NSA advisers for that program, where the express stated purpose was for the CIA and NSA to be able to map so-called 'Birds of a feather' online ... so that they could be neutralized."

How It All Began

As noted by Benz, the idea of having the intelligence community map political "Birds of a Feather" communities in order to either mobilize or neutralize them was (and still is) justified in the name of counterterrorism. Nowadays, as we've seen during the pandemic, it's used to control public discourse, suppress truth, and promote propaganda angles.

The technology used to control public discourse is an artificial intelligence (AI) technique called natural language processing (NLP). It's a way of aggregating everyone who believes a certain thing online into community databases based on the words they use, the hashtags, the slogans and images.

"Emerging narratives, all manner of metadata affiliations, all that can be aggregated to create a topographical network map of what you believe in and who you're associated with, so that it can all be turned down in a fast, precise and comprehensive manner by content moderation teams, because they're all birds of the same feather," Benz explains.

"The fact that this grew out of the U.S. National Security state, which is running the show, essentially, today, to me says that there's a continuation between the internet freedom and internet censorship. They simply switched from one side of the chess board to the other."

What Is the National Security State?

For clarity, when Benz talks about the "National Security State," what he's referring to are the institutions that uphold the rules-based international order. Domestically, that includes the Pentagon, State Department, Department of Homeland Security (DHS), certain aspects of the Department of Justice (DOJ) and the 17 intelligence agencies.

Of those, the Pentagon, State Department and the intelligence community (IC) are the three central ones that have managed the American world empire since the 1940s. None of them are supposed to be able to operate domestically, but in a sense their power has expanded so much that they essentially control domestic affairs.

As explained by Benz, the Pentagon, State Department and IC are not supposed to be able to operate domestically. “But in a sense, they really control domestic affairs, because their power has expanded so much that they've developed an extraordinary laundering apparatus to be able to fund international institutions that then boomerang back home and effectively control much of domestic political affairs, including discourse on the internet.”

As for the CIA, it was created in 1947 under the National Security Act. It was created as a cloak-and-dagger mechanism, to do things the State Department wanted done but couldn't get caught doing due to the diplomatic repercussions – things like election rigging, assassinations, media control, bribery and other subversion tactics.

The Birth of Hybrid Warfare

Benz continues his explanation of how and why internet censorship emerged when it did:

“So, there's the U.S. National Security State, and then there's the transatlantic one involving NATO. The story of Western government involvement in internet censorship really started after the 2014 Crimea annexation, which was the biggest foreign policy humiliation of the Obama era.

Atlanta's School of Foreign Policy was deeply inflamed by this event and blamed the fact that there were these breakaway Russia-supporting entities in Eastern Ukraine and Crimea on a failure to penetrate their media, and this idea that hearts and minds were being swung towards the Russian side because of pro-Russian content online.

NATO then declared this doctrine of so-called hybrid warfare – this idea that Russia had won Crimea not by a military annexation, but by winning, illicitly in a sense, the hearts and minds of Crimeans through the use of their propaganda. And the doctrine of hybrid warfare, born in 2014, was this idea that war was no longer a kinetic thing.

There hadn't been a kinetic war in Europe since World War II. Instead, it had moved sub-kinetic into the hearts and minds of the people. In fact, NATO announced a doctrine after 2014 called 'From tanks to tweets,' where it shifted its focus, explicitly, from kinetic warfare to social media opinions online.

Brexit, which happened in June 2016 ... was blamed on Russian influence as well. And so all of these institutions that argued for control over the internet in Eastern Europe said, 'Well, it needs to come now. Now it's an all-of-Europe thing.'

When Trump was then elected five months later, explicitly contemplating the breakup of NATO, all hell broke loose. This idea that we need to censor the internet went from being something that was touchy and novel, in the view of Pentagon brass and State Department folks, to something that was totally essential to saving the entire rules-based international order that came out of World War II.

At the time, the reasoning was, Brexit, in the U.K., was going to give rise to Frexit, in France, with Marine Le Pen and her movement there. Matteo Salvini was going to cause Italexit. In Italy, there'd be Grexit in Greece, Spexit in Spain, and the entire European Union would come undone, just because these right-wing populist parties would naturally vote their way into political power.

They would vote for working-class, cheap energy policies that would make them more closely aligned with Russia naturally, because of the cheaper oil prices, or cheaper gas prices. Then, suddenly, you've got no EU, you've got no NATO, and then, you've got no Western military alliance.

So, from that moment, after Trump's election, immediately, there was this diplomatic roadshow by U.S. State Department officials, who all thought they were getting promotions in November 2016. They thought they were going to get promoted from the State Department to the National Security Council. Turns out, they all got fired, because someone with a 5% chance of winning ended up winning that day.

So, they took their international connections, their international networks around the Atlanta Council, the Council on Foreign Relations, the entire think tank, quasi-intelligence, quasi-military, government-funded NGO soup, and they did this international roadshow, starting in January 2017, to convince European countries to start censoring their internet ...

Out of that came NetzDG [Netzwerkdurchsetzungsgesetz, the Network Enforcement Act] in Germany, which introduced a necessity of artificial intelligence-powered social media censorship.

All of that was, essentially, spearheaded by this network of State Department and Pentagon folks who then used their own internal folks in the government to procure government grants and contracts to these same entities. Eventually, they all rotated into those tech companies to set the policies as well."

Threat From Within

So, to summarize, the infrastructure for worldwide internet censorship was largely established by IC veterans who were forced out by the Trump administration, and that infrastructure was then used to catalyze the international censorship response during COVID in late 2019, early 2020. Benz continues:

"Right. And those veterans were not alone. The full story is not just the shadow security state and exile. The fact is this. The Trump administration never had control of its own defense department, State Department or intelligence community.

It was the intelligence community that, essentially, drove his first impeachment, that drove a two-and-a-half year special prosecutor investigation that rolled up 12 to 20 of Trump's closest associates. You had a chief of staff there who was hiding the military figures from the government. The careers at state threatened the political appointees from the inside. I experienced that myself.

This permanent aspect of Washington, with unfireable careers in high places, combined with a turf war in the GOP [Republican Party] between the populist right and the neo-conservative right, with the neo-conservative right having many well-placed Republicans in the Defense Department, State Department, in IC, to thwart the previous president's agenda there, allowed this political network and exile, on the censorship side, to work with their allies within the government to create these censorship beach heads.

So, for example, that's how they created the Department of Homeland Security's ... first permanent government censorship bureau in the form of this entity called CISA [the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency, founded in November 2018], which is supposed to just be a cybersecurity entity.

It was done because of media and intelligence community laundering of a never-substantiated claim that Russia had potentially hacked the 2016 election, hacked the election machines or voting software, or might be able to do so in the future, and so we need a robust armed-to-the-teeth DHS unit to protect our cybersecurity from the Russians.

It's the mission creep of the century. After the Mueller probe ended in June 2019, this unit, CISA, within DHS [Department of Homeland Security] – which had set up all of this, and which is only supposed to do cybersecurity – said ‘Well, if you squint and look at it, discourse online is a cybersecurity threat because if it undermines public faith or confidence in our elections, and it’s done using a cyber nexus, i.e., social media post, then that’s a form of cybersecurity threat, because democracy is essential to our security.’

And so you went from this cybersecurity mission to a cyber censorship bureau, because if you tweeted something about mail-in ballots in the 2020 election, that was deemed to be a cyber attack on critical infrastructure, i.e., elections.

When they got away with that in 2020, DHS then said, ‘Well, if you squint and look at it, public health is also critical infrastructure.’ So, now, DHS gets to direct social media companies to censor opinions about COVID-19.

Then they worked their way into saying the same thing about financial systems, financial services, about the Ukraine war, about immigration. It got to the point where, by late 2022, the head of CISA declared that cognitive infrastructure is critical infrastructure.”

Cracks only appeared after Republicans got a majority in the House of Representatives in November 2022 and Elon Musk acquired Twitter. Public support for government also dwindled as Musk’s release of the Twitter Files revealed the extent of government’s involvement in the censoring of Americans.

So far, though, public awareness hasn’t changed anything. The very entities that once stood for internet freedom, like the National Science Foundation, are still actively funding and furthering government censorship activities.

AI Gives Censors God-Like Powers

Benz first became “gripped by the stakes of what was happening on the internet” in August 2016, after reading a series of papers discussing the use of NLP to monitor, surveil and regulate the distribution of information on social media based on the words used.

“DARPA provided tens of millions of dollars of funding for this language processing, this language chunking capacity of AI in order, ostensibly, to stop ISIS recruiting on Facebook and Twitter,” Benz says.

“As part of the predicate for putting military boots on the ground in Syria, there was a lot of talk about ISIS coming to the U.S., and they were recruiting on Facebook and Twitter. And so the Pentagon, DARPA and the IC developed this language spyware capacity to map the dialectic of how ISIS sympathizers talk online, the words they use, the images they share, the prefixes, the suffixes, all the different community connections.

And then, I saw that this was being done for purposes of domestic political control instead of foreign counterterrorism, and the power that it has. It is what totally changed the internet forever. Before 2016, there was not the technological capacity to do mass social media censorship. That was the age of what censorship insiders like to call the whack-a-mole era. Censorship was reactive.

It was done by forum, by moderators, essentially. Everything had to be flagged manually before it could be taken down, which meant millions of people had already seen it, or it had already gone viral, it had already done its damage, so to speak, and you were just cutting off the backend with an act of censorship.

You could never have a permanent control apparatus in that setting, because there would always be a first mover advantage to whoever posted it. What AI censorship technology breakthroughs enabled after 2016 was a kind of nuclear weapon, if you will, on the censorship side, to be able to end the war immediately.

You don't need a standing army of 100,000 people to censor COVID. You need one good developer, working with one manic social scientist who spends her entire life mapping what Dr. Mercola says online, and what he's talking about this week, what his followers are saying, what they're saying about this drug, or what they're saying about this vaccine, or what they're saying about this institution.

All of that can be cataloged into a lexicon of how you talk. And then, all of that talk can just be turned down to zero. At the same time, they can super amplify the language that they themselves are doing. So it gives a God-like control to a tiny, tiny, tiny minority of people who can then use that to control the discourse of the entire population.

What's also so terrifying about the National Security State's involvement in this is, when they discovered the power of this by mid-2018, they began to roll it out to every other country in the world for purposes of political control there – to the Ghana desk, to the Ecuador desk, to Southeast Asia, all over Europe.”

Can We Get Out of the Grip of Censorship?

At the time of this writing, we're in a lull. The COVID pandemic has been declared over and aside from the Russia-Ukraine conflict, there are no major political crises going on that warrant heavy censorship. The networks and technologies for radical suppression are already in place, however, and can be turned up at a moment's notice.

We've also recently seen just how easy it is for alternative media to be infiltrated and upended, so the fact that there are alternative platforms doesn't guarantee that future censorship efforts will fail.

“There are so many threat vectors,” Benz says. “There are a lot of questions about what's going on, for example, at Project Veritas, with how quickly it ousted James O'Keefe after releasing the most viral video ever, on Pfizer. It was about one week later – after their biggest accomplishment, perhaps, ever – that it was totally overthrown.

A similar thing has happened with Fox News with [the firing of] Tucker Carlson, the most popular cable TV host in the country – the guy who gets three times more concurrent viewership than CNN, in the opposing spot. Institutions can absolutely be penetrated and co-opted when enough pressure is applied.”

Transatlantic Flank Attack 2.0 Underway

As mentioned earlier, the U.S. censorship really began with NATO. Benz refers to this as the transatlantic flank attack. Basically, when U.S. intelligence want to impact the internet domestically, they first work with their European partners to enact regulatory changes in Europe first. This then ends up spilling into the U.S. market, and the IC appears to have had nothing to do with it.

The first transatlantic flank attack took place in early 2017 with the NetzDG. We're now under transatlantic attack again, through the Digital Markets Act. This law, Benz says, will make it very difficult for Rumble and other free speech platforms to maintain that posture during the next pandemic. Once these platforms are forced to comply with the Digital Markets Act on the European side, the changes will be felt everywhere.

Cause for Cautious Optimism

While Benz remains hopeful that solutions to global censorship will present themselves, he still recognizes that the forces at play are enormous and the risks are high.

"It's one of these things where the more you see what we're up against, the more sobering it becomes. I think you need to maintain hope in order to maintain energy, to maintain momentum. With momentum, weird things can happen, even if you're not supposed to win. Strange things break, or take a life of their own, or resurface.

All the little weaknesses of the system get tested, simply by a momentum here and there. For example, Elon Musk's acquisition of Twitter is probably the reason that the GOP got over the hump in doing all of these congressional investigations into the government's role in censorship.

They felt like they had an ally at Twitter, that they had billionaire backing. There was a waterfall, cascade impact. So, I am hopeful. DHS is on the run right now. They purged their website of all their domestic censorship operations that they listed and were loud and proud about for two whole years after the catastrophe of the disinformation governance board in April 2022.

They already had a Ministry of Truth at DHS. They just gave one hypothetical board the wrong name. They didn't call it the CISA. They made the mistake of calling it by the right name, and that's what ended the entire political support for the underlying apparatus.

So, the importance of an Orwellian name is essential for maintaining the political support. But I guess what I'm trying to say is, I'm hopeful, and I'm honored to be a part of this rebel fleet of folks trying to take on the empire behind the censorship situation.

But having seen, in so many iterations the toolkit they use, it is a medieval torture toolkit that can do strange things. Pressure can do strange things, even to great people. And so I'm cautiously optimistic."

Essential Internet Backbone Is Not Politically Neutral

In my view, internet decentralization is one key innovation that could break the grip of censorship. That said, other aspects, such as cybersecurity, must also be reinvented.

CloudFlare, for example, a content delivery and cloud cybersecurity service, basically controls the internet because they protect online businesses and platforms from hackers using Denial-of-Service (DoS) attacks. Without it, you cannot survive online if you're a big business. Even with a decentralized internet, CloudFlare might still be able to exert control by leaving sites open to DDoS (distributed denial of service) attacks.

Disturbingly, CloudFlare got political for the first time after 2016, when it decided to remove protection from a site called Kiwi Farms, which expressed anti-transgender views. As a result, the site had to move over to a Russian server to get back online.

Basically, U.S. citizens had to look for internet freedom in Russia because their architecture could not be supported in the U.S. — all because a government-integrated backbone of the internet made a political decision, likely at the behest of the IC.

"If there is another pandemic, for example, and there's a push for certain medical interventions or countermeasures that certain sites don't go along with, the CloudFlare, absolutely, could be a weapon in that respect," Benz says.

"One of the things I found so troubling is that CISA, this DHS censorship agency, after the 2020 election set up a private sector liaison subcommittee for mis- and disinformation policies in the private sector. It was a seven-person subcommittee, with all of the top censorship experts at the University of Washington and Stanford.

Vijaya Gadde, the former head of censorship at Twitter, was a part of this board. I thought it was very troubling that the CEO of CloudFlare was also one of the seven people on the DHS censorship board."

Major Challenges to a Decentralized Internet

Benz continues:

"To proceed to the various challenges to a decentralized internet, when you move up the stack of censorship ... they can move up to cloud servers, to payment processors, and even to things like CloudFlare and your infrastructure protection.

In the early era of censorship, there was a rebuttal by censorship advocates that if you don't like what private sector companies are doing, start your own social media companies. Build your own Google, build your own YouTube, build your own Facebook, build your own Twitter.

And then, what started to happen as censorship got completely insane, when it went from being troubling to disturbing, to saturating ... you started to see these alternative social media platforms like Gab and Parler ... that tried to escape the content moderation policies with Big Tech. But what started to happen is, those social media companies, like Parler, were completely destroyed.

Parler was de-platformed from, basically, the entire internet, when the president had just moved there, after being kicked off Twitter. That was a very instructive moment, and one that censorship insiders have reflected on, I should say, many, times as a moment of, 'Should we have done that? We did it, but it costs us a lot of political capital.'

Parler was kicked off of Amazon Web Services. They were kicked off of all of the banks. They were banned from email providers. They could not hook to the internet, essentially, to even maintain the ability to post anything there. So, it went from build your own social media company to build your own bank.

Now you need to build your own bank and get a banking license for the payment processors. You need to build your own email distribution. You need to build your own cloud servers.

You need to build your own software service providers. And, eventually, are you going to need to lay your own subsea cables across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans? The social media companies didn't invent the internet. They are superimposed on Pentagon infrastructure."

The House Needs to Defund the Censorship Industry

Without doubt, there will be another crisis, whether it be another pandemic or war or something else, that will send the censorship machine into full gear yet again. Right now we're in a lull, so this is the time to think ahead and get prepared. The question is, what can we do? How do we prepare and fight back?

According to Benz, one of the most effective strategies that would have immediate effect, and could be done right now, would be to strip the censorship industry of its government funding. He explains:

"Right now, there's a Republican controlled House. The advantage of the House is that it controls appropriations, the purse strings of the federal government. If the House Appropriations Committee took seriously the government subsidization of censorship networks in the private sector, you could defund the speech police, even though, on the AI side, it only takes one good coder to be able to take out an entire political philosophy.

The fact is, they can only do that job because of an army of social science folks across 45 different U.S. colleges and universities who get paid. There are tens of thousands of them who are paid through the National Science Foundation, through DARPA grants and State Department grants, to map communities online as a matter of social science, and then provide that to the computer scientist to censor it.

My foundation, the Foundation for Freedom Online, has detailed $100 million, just in the past 18 months, that have gone from the federal government institutions directly into social media censorship insiders. Censorship is not an act anymore, it's an industry, and you can cripple their capacity building.

When you pump it full of money, you go from having a couple of people do it, to tens of thousands of people doing it. The censorship capacity is built on an infrastructure of an industry that relies on government to pay for it, and it relies on government to spearhead their penetration into the institutions.

Right now, there are about eight different congressional committees trying to solve this problem from different aspects. I've personally briefed eight different congressional committees ... But only a few of those committees are taking it seriously enough to pursue the issue deeply, and where that will shake out remains uncertain.

CISA worked with dozens of social media companies and private sector cutouts to launder censorship from the government into the private sector, but the institution I worked with more than anyone was the University of Stanford, the Stanford Internet Observatory in particular.

Jim Jordan's Weaponization Subcommittee just subpoenaed Stanford for what I call the perfectly preserved First Amendment crime scene. Stanford meticulously kept logs of all of its censorship activities with government officials for the COVID-19 pandemic, and for two election cycles.

They detailed 66 narratives that they censored online, having to do with everything about vaccines, efficacy of masks, opposition to lockdown mandates. And then, they had a fourth category for conspiracy theories, basically anything that someone said about the World Economic Forum, or Bill Gates.

They're now refusing to comply with that subpoena. But the stakes keep getting escalated, because who's going to enforce that subpoena? Steve Bannon, regardless of your opinion of him, just got indicted for not complying with a subpoena, but is this Justice Department going to pursue criminal penalties against Stanford, for withholding congressional subpoena for their government?

This is for their government, because they were the formal partners. They had a formal partnership with the DHS. That stuff should be FOIA-able, first of all. You shouldn't even need a subpoena for it. The only reason you can't FOIA it is because they laundered it through Stanford. Stanford holds the records rather than DHS.

I tried to FOIA that from DHS, and DHS says, 'We don't have it, even though they were our communications.' So this is the way the CIA structures in an operation, through a web of cutouts and offshore banks, so you can never really get transparency. They're now doing that for the censorship industry at home ...

Whether they will continue to raise the stakes is now a terrifying open issue. And the fact that it's the inside guys who are running the censorship situation means there may be other tactics that need to be pursued here, which is why I talked about, simply, going to the appropriations committee and zeroing it out, so you don't even need to enforce subpoenas, necessarily."

Building a Whole-of-Society Solution

As explained by Benz, the censorship industry was built as a so-called whole-of-society effort. According to the DHS, misinformation online is a whole-of-society problem that requires a whole-of-society solution. By that, they meant that four types of institutions had to fuse together as a seamless whole. Those four categories and key functions are:

1. Government institutions, which provide funding and coordination
2. Private sector institutions that do the censorship and dedicate funds to censorship through corporate-social responsibility programs
3. Civil society institutions (universities, NGOs, academia, foundations, nonprofits and activists) that do the research, the spying and collecting of data that are then given to the private sector to censor
4. News media/fact checking institutions, which put pressure on institutions, platforms and businesses to comply with the censorship demands

What the Foundation for Freedom Online is doing is educating people about this structure, and the ways in which legislatures and the government can be restructured, how civil society institutions can be established, and how news media can be created to support and promote freedom rather than censorship.

To learn more, be sure to check out foundationforfreedomonline.com. You can also follow his very active Twitter account Benz on Twitter.

Login or Join to comment on this article

Censorship implications with the Pentagon, the Department of State, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), certain aspects of the Department of Justice (DOJ) and the 17 intelligence agencies that should never have a leading role in a rule of law and imply corruption against the rights of the sovereign people where freedom must be defended. Freedom of expression and academic freedom is needed to get people to reach the truth of information and science. The integrity of thought requires the right to liberty and security of the person; the right to a fair trial; freedom of expression; freedom of thought, conscience and religion; the right to privacy and family life; Freedom of association; freedom from discrimination; and surveillance by consent, aspects that have been lost at all professional and academic levels, all of which are long before Covid-19.

The government response to the coronavirus pandemic has finished massacring these fundamental human rights. As Dr. Mercola reported, most of the international news coverage in Western media is provided by three global news agencies: The Associated Press (AP), Reuters, and Agence France-Presse (AFP). Intelligence agencies and defense ministries are well aware of the power of these news agencies and use them regularly. The rest of the technocratic apparatus uses these news agencies in the same way and for the same reasons: to proliferate certain narratives while burying or "discrediting" others.

The Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) of the Department of Homeland Security is associated with a censorship consortium called the Electoral Integrity Association (EIP). Through this consortium, DHS illegally censors Americans. Elon Musk recently called CISA a "propaganda platform." We now know that CISA is associated with a censorship consortium called the Electoral Integrity Association (EIP). The EIP, in turn, is made up of four organizations.

Guillermou

Discovery documents from a lawsuit against the White House 13 filed by the attorneys general of Missouri and Louisiana (Eric Schmitt and Jeff Landry) show that at least 67 federal employees in more than a dozen agencies are involved in this type of intelligence activity. illegal censorship (in the link). As blogger and propaganda analyst Klark Barnes has pointed out, if we want to be free, we must know what propaganda is and how it works. Classical rhetoric is about persuasion through argument. Logic is appealed. Propaganda, on the other hand, is a kind of subrational manipulation that appeals to our most basic instincts.

An informal definition of propaganda is "an organized attempt to get people to think or do something, or not to think or do something." The problem with propaganda is that it is inherently biased and one-sided, which can become downright dangerous if the other party is censored. This is particularly true when it comes to medicine and health.

s3.documentcloud.org/documents/22273739/us-objections-and-responses.pdf..

www.globalresearch.ca/every-facet-government-censorship-business/58049.. (2023)

takecontrol.substack.com/.../government-and-big-tech-collusion (2023) House Foreign Affairs Republicans sent a letter Tuesday to Secretary of State Antony Blinken demanding more information about the department's funding of groups that censor conservatives and free speech.

"We are now forced to question the authority by which the GEC justifies advancing its mission and the direction of its current evolutionary trajectory," the lawmakers added. "Congress originally authorized the GEC to 'support the development and dissemination of fact-based narratives and analysis to counter propaganda and disinformation directed at the United States and America's allies and partner nations.'"

www.breitbart.com/politics/2023/05/03/house-republicans-probe-state-de.. (2023)

Posted On 06/11/2023

Gui, for the average American, this structure from our beginning was sought to be stopped in its tracks before it starts, illegal. It looks like they farmed out activities to slip around guardrails and to most, appearing at a shallow level of awareness, not to exist. A war against the citizens with no bullets. Bullets make it easy for people to pull together being no way to ignore it. This war is deep into a dark forest and fog making it hard for most to see or realize how it all leads to what is looking like an eventual sophisticated form of Solitary Confinement.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Guillermou

Yes, Just, but said dark forest looks like it's being lit with many candles. A Just the News report indicates that the Biden administration, in conjunction with Big Tech, academia and large corporations, is pouring taxpayer money into an AI censorship program that allegedly uses systems once used to wage an information war against the Islamic State. According to a free speech watchdog, "Under the Biden administration, the National Science Foundation is funding the idea that if citizen trust in government cannot be earned organically, then it must be installed by the public." science".

Documents obtained through leaks and lawsuits revealed that government agencies were working together to "mature a whole-of-government approach to mitigating [misinformation] risks, framing which tools, authorities, and interventions are appropriate for the threats they affect." the information environment. " DHS reportedly justified these restrictions on speech and decisions about what information people should be allowed to engage with by suggesting that terrorist threats could be "exacerbated by misinformation and disinformation spread online."

christine257.substack.com/p/biden-administration-and-big-tech?utm_sour.. (2023)

Posted On 06/11/2023

juststeve

Gui, as an individual it is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness. When enough individuals light candles the best path is easier to find and for all to follow out of the forest. Precisely what a Top Down, Power Control structure does not want, but doesn't realize it needs. Strangled information, ideas, discussions and all lead to dead ends. Emphasis on the Dead.

Posted On 06/11/2023

rrealrose

Yes to lighting a candle; however, each individual must understand what's happening AND light a candle. Here's a new? banned? documentary that showed up Friday evening on that topic and a lot more: UNVACCINATED The Documentary. - - www.bitchute.com/.../vM0bb1ibgUqE

Posted On 06/11/2023

Guillermou

Of course, Rose, NO to vaccinations and let's keep lighting candles. CURRENT CRISIS: DANGER AND OPPORTUNITY Dr Trozzi with the New American on the sidelines of the Better Way Conference 2023 Thanks to Veronika Krylenko and her team for holding many important interviews on the sidelines of the Better Way Conference 2023, including this one. Today we have a big-picture, solutions-dense, 16 minute interview to share; about which the New American wrote: Covid policies and mandates unleashed on the world constitute crimes against humanity. Yet those are only a single aspect of the global attack on individual health, freedom, and sovereignty, says Dr. Mark Trozzi of the World Council for Health.

In this interview with The New American, Dr. Trozzi describes how Covid policies, particularly vaccination program and introduction of Covid passes, parallel historic atrocities of , and how the WCH is working to prevent them from ever happening again. There are other alarming totalitarian and deeply inhumane agendas that are being pushed on people, such as CBDC, 15-minute cities, fake foods, transhumanism, and more. Luckily, there is a better way, as detailed by the doctor. drtrozzi.org/.../current-crisis-danger-and-opportunity (06/11/2023)

Posted On 06/11/2023

juststeve

This is the newest version of Fahrenheit 451. Who needs enemies when those in charge behave like the Mafia buying a store, bringing in the goods to sell, but instead steal and send them out the back door to sell, then burn the store down to collect the insurance money? (Credit to Jimmy Dore's observation.) Seriously, why the enormous treasure spent to protect a burnt-out hulk of a once thriving "store."

Posted On 06/25/2023

ChrisColes

Having, for some years now, been under constant surveillance, all phone calls and emails closely monitored by a neighbour employed by my government, I can attest to the dominance of the idea that such monitoring serves to protect the nation; when in point of fact it does nothing of the sort. What we are experiencing is a new form of en.wikipedia.org/.../Coup_d'%C3%A9tat "A coup d'tat (/ k u d e t /); French for 'stroke of state'), also known as a coup or an overthrow, is a seizure and removal of a government and its powers. Typically, it is an illegal seizure of power by a political faction, politician, rebel group, military, or a dictator. Many scholars consider a coup successful when the usurpers seize and hold power for at least seven days." Here in the UK, as also in the US, it is my belief that this coup d'tat started in the 1980's and is thus some 40 years old. Until the full implications of this seizure of power by corporate industry and civil servants is recognized, we will never regain a fully civilized nation; on either side of the Atlantic.

Posted On 06/11/2023

pipblanc

I work on the assumption that we are all being watched all of the time, particularly on the internet. As Chief Seattle wrote: "Man did not weave the web of life, he is merely a strand in it. Whatever he does to the web, he does to himself." A stark warning indeed, not only to the common man but to the Globalist Cabal.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Yes, a new form of coup where governments are easy prey to corporate lobbies and where the WEF and WHO set the course for their interests by promoting the use of censorship in states whose leaders are also implicated. Humanity is now in the hands of billionaire elites who have a stranglehold on the media, the political establishment and all of our important institutions. These unscrupulous oligarchs expand their influence from markets, finance and commerce to politics, social issues and even public health. The impact this group has had in these other areas of interest has been impressive.

We live a tremendous battle, in which there is no bomb but a war against humanity. The enemy is the deep state that wants to subject the world population to its whims. This unknown situation causes consequences at all levels: health, economic, political, demographic, but, above all, it causes consequences at the psychological level. We have the weapons that allow us to fight against deception. Possible answers can be given in human nature, depending on our personality and our knowledge of reality. It is a long history of corruption of humanity, which is fought by a few brave scientists and doctors who believe in freedom and believe in the human soul and the Creator, they do not believe in Gods who can govern the destiny of humanity under their own interests.

humanity. Unfortunately "The New Normal" is the loss of freedoms, global neoliberalism is even stronger thanks to the pandemic and has increased its profits. It has obtained it not only through exploitation, but directly through the social murder of the working class, the increase in the power of corporations, the health of the people, a crisis that will last over time with hunger, inequalities and deaths.

Posted On 06/11/2023

A great list formed under the tutelage of Klaus Schwab in his Young Global Leaders program, which has been fundamental in shaping a world order that wants to end democratic principles. Dr. Vladimir "Zev" Zelenko, told "ReFounding America" host Dr. Peter Breggin that humanity is on the brink of global enslavement by globalists. A process over four decades, which is why we are on the verge of global slavery unless people wake up and reach a higher level of consciousness and choose the freedom they have gained over sociopathic and corrupt governments. Zelenko also said that the WHO, which he also calls the World Homicide Organization, is working in collaboration with the United Nations Organization (UN), and both are subordinate to the WEF, and the youth of the Schwab school Breggin said that China is after all the people in Schwab's "school of global predators." He added that the Chinese virtually control the WHO and the UN.

According to Zelenko, graduates of that class include Microsoft co-founder Bill Gates, Chancellor Angela Merkel of Germany, Prime Ministers Justin Trudeau of Canada, Jacinda Ardern of New Zealand, Scott Morrison of Australia and President Emmanuel Macron of France. among others. It is about the privatization of governments, setting the course of humanity, counting on the main multinational investment management corporations such as BlackRock, led by the WEF's own Larry Fink.

German economist and journalist Ernst Wolff believes that many of the national leaders included in the Young Global Leader program have been selected for their willingness to carry out the lockdown agenda of recent years, and that their impending failure will be used as an excuse to create a new form of Global Government. Since Global Leaders of Tomorrow became Young Global Leaders 2004, partners like the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, Google, and JPMorganChase with alumni of the program have also participated as sponsors.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Guillermou

The ultimate consequence of both public-private partnerships and these target areas is the creation of a largely tyrannical social contract in which the individual has become subservient to these powerful interests with the WEF-UN partnership and implementation of the global objectives (2030 Agenda) through the application of the technologies of the Fourth Industrial Revolution. The influence of the people who created the corrupt system we live in is evident by those who support projects like The Great Transition, started with seed money from Rockefeller. In the hope as Dr. Zelenko says that people wake up and reach a higher level of consciousness and choose freedom and expel from their consciousness the lies that want to lead humanity to tyranny by privatizing sociopathic governments and corrupt.

www.brighteon.com/8ad6c0cc-b01f-41df-b036-62f4920edbd1 .----- www.brighteon.com/b7b68f3d-f0d7-4d9b-9e97-91275e59c26d .----- personas www.weforum.org/.../klaus-schwab .----- forbiddenknowledgetv.net/dr-zelenko-we-are-living-through-a-global-bio.. .----- www.globalresearch.ca/world-economic-forum-young-global-leaders-reveal.. .----

Posted On 06/11/2023

ElizabethHope

JFK's assassination was a secret coup d'etat that plunged us into the Vietnam War.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Yes, ElizabethHope. PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY: HIS LIFE AND PUBLIC ASSASSINATION BY THE CIA In commemoration of JFK's assassination, we repost this article by Edward Curtin A WAR HERO WHO WAS APPALLED BY WAR. It is very important to remember that Lieutenant John Kennedy was a genuine Naval war hero in WW II, having risked his life and been badly injured while saving his men in the treacherous waters of the South Pacific after their PT boat was sunk by a Japanese destroyer. His older brother Joe and his brother-in-law Billy Hartington had died in the war, as had some of his boat's crew members.

As a result, Kennedy was extremely sensitive to the horrors of war, and, when he first ran for Congress in Massachusetts in 1946, he made it explicitly clear that avoiding another war was his number one priority. This commitment remained with him and was intensely strengthened throughout his brief presidency until the day he died, fighting for peace. Despite much rhetoric to the contrary, this anti-war stance was unusual for a politician, especially during the 1950s and 1960s.

Kennedy was a remarkable man, for even though he assumed the presidency as somewhat of a cold warrior vis--vis the Soviet Union in particular, his experiences in office rapidly chastened that stance. He very quickly came to see that there were many people surrounding him who relished the thought of war, even nuclear war, and he came to consider them as very dangerous.

www.globalresearch.ca/president-john-f-kennedy-life-public-assassinati.. (11/22/2022)

Cabochon

No need to explain coup d'état, Chris. We have been discussing same over the last two years on mercola.com and are well aware of technocracy's war against humanity aided by the WEF and our bought-and-paid-for politicians. Their names are listed on the WEF website along with PM Sunak's company Infosys' as a WEF partner. Created in the 1970's, the WEF escaped our attention until the pandemic of 2020 alerted us to the nefarious objectives of the eugenist takeover, that party politics are meaningless and that the people have been disenfranchised for a very long time, as our elected politicians take their instructions from an unelected body of criminals.

We embattled UK citizens are fighting the tyrannical despotism of our local authority in their determination to (a) exclude taxpayers from their own city centres by closing roads, creating traffic chaos, and diverting or cancelling public transport (b) transforming the normally thriving tourist industry into an over-tourism theme park with only coffee shops, restaurants and hotels crowding out the few remaining retailers. Sporting events especially at weekends close major routes through the city centre making it a no-go area for locals especially the elderly. It can take up to three hours for residents to reach their homes by public transport which are not more than a few miles.

All this is in preparation for the 15 minute neighbourhoods imprisoning tax payers to their allotted zones on payment of fines. The over-building of student rentals permission of our corrupt council ensures lucrative returns and for our local woke universities and colleges as well as more pressure on what remains of public transport and health services. Our third public meeting to discuss this coup d'état at local level is tomorrow.

www.technocracy.news/technocracys-coup-detat-exposed-in-mercolas-new-b..

www.technocracy.news/catherine-austin-fitts-coup-detat-is-a-takedown-n..

Posted On 06/11/2023

forbiddenhealing

Zombie thoughtforms of fear/doubt have already been installed in most brains.... You can't stay plugged-in to state media communication vehicles and maintain any contact with reality! How else could anyone view Brandon or Zelensky...Happy-day drug commercials..BLM protests or Pride Parades...or even second hand "news" spin by urban screen-creatures...without wrenching-up their breakfast? Yes, the world is perfect on the interwebs...clickclick and one feels in control of the world...yet many feel the creeping insanity of confusion and the disconnect twixt internet perfection and the filthy decaying environment that surrounds them....twixt daily life and the ghosts that live in their heads! The only world that exists rests atop the Atlas vertebra.. brah.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Guillermou

Yes Randall, we can affirm: "It is sterile and dangerous to believe that one dominates the entire world thanks to the Internet when one does not have enough culture to filter the good information from the bad." ZYGMUNT BAUMAN .-----"The world enjoys the Internet as if it were a toy. However, it is the most powerful weapon created by man." RUBEN SERRANO

Posted On 06/11/2023

weehen

Elon Musk is a wolf in sheep's clothing.

Posted On 06/11/2023

NurseKaren45

I agree! He scares me as much as Bill Gates does. Only Gates is a LITTLE more honest about his agenda of depopulation. Musk has most people completely fooled.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Guillermou

TWITTER'S SELF-REPORTED DATA SHOWS THAT, UNDER MUSK, the company has complied with hundreds more government orders for censorship or surveillance.. -Since Musk took ownership, the company has received 971 government demands, and fully complied with 808 of them. -Before Musk, Twitter's full compliance rate hovered around 50%; since the takeover, it is over 80%. It's been exactly six months since Elon Musk took over Twitter, promising a new era of free speech and independence from political bias. But Twitter's self-reported data shows that, under Musk, the company has complied with hundreds more government orders for censorship or surveillance – especially in countries such as Turkey and India.'

palexander.substack.com/p/were-we-bullshitted-by-elon-musk?utm_source=.. (04/29/2023)

Posted On 06/11/2023

DebbyW

I am grateful that Elon Musk released all the Twitter files. Without that, the average person wouldn't know how much our government censored people. With his new hire replace, though, it may be back to business as usual, unless he keeps a hand in the business. He may not be totally pro US citizens, but he's better than Gates, Fauci, and the WEF.

Posted On 06/11/2023

epi-cure

Musk is usually quite glib and even funny in places. His intellect and clarity of purpose almost invariably give him the upper hand during a dialogue. He'll occasionally edit himself during mid sentence but I've never heard him stammer and hesitate like I did during his recent discussion with RFK. Was it strategic or entirely genuine or both when RFK first bestowed him with praise for supporting freedom of the press and lack of censorship as prelude to a subsequent question to Elon about Neuro-Link. Musk did his best, but not very convincingly to circumvent RFK's worry over its potential risks and also the preemptive nature of A.I., replacing humans in the job market. Along the way Musk became awkwardly simplistic in his summation of U.S. history post WWII.

Posted On 06/11/2023

brianallen1

Elon and his fake (bottle) rockets and his dummy in a car traveling through "Space"? But he seems like such a nice guy- not!

Posted On 06/11/2023

ElizabethHope

Maybe not? He has a son who wants to transition into a woman. That may have been the impetus for him buying Twitter. To fight back against this manipulation of children. In fact, Elon Musk promoted Matt Walsh's documentary "What is a Woman?" On Twitter. I watched it for free last weekend, and it was eye-opening!! Especially the disgusting truth about Kinsey and Money

Posted On 06/11/2023

The Internet is the devil's playground.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Guillermou

Lots of devils use the internet for their purposes, like Fauci, Biden, and Gates. Recall that Fauci faced questions from two attorneys general in his lawsuit against the federal government for allegedly colluding with Big Tech platforms to censor content critical of vaccines and COVID-19 countermeasures, as a federal judge temporarily halted the Statements from three other Biden administrators. officials schmitt said: "Together with my Louisiana colleague, my office and I will testify against Dr. Anthony Fauci in our lawsuit against the Biden Administration for allegedly colluding with social media companies to censor free speech. "Since filing our landmark lawsuit, we have uncovered documents and findings that show clear coordination between the Biden Administration and social media companies on speech censorship.

childrenshealthdefense.org/defender/anthony-fauci-under-oath-social-me.. (2022)

Posted On 06/11/2023

rrealrose

Apparently completely ok to censor your political opponents: Joe Rogan on YouTube Removing Robert F. Kennedy Jr's Videos "Everything that he said is true...Eve - - www.bitchute.com/.../TmAG7RACX2Q7 - - appears we have had a junta, a military dictatorship, no longer a presidency.

Posted On 06/11/2023

brianallen1

Last true president was Lincoln.

Posted On 06/11/2023

grulla

Lincoln had the unique distinction, so far, of being the only U.S. President elected from a '3rd' party at the time. www.pbs.org/newshour/politics/politics-july-dec04-third_parties Paragraph subtitle; "Obstacles third parties face"

Posted On 06/25/2023

juststeve

We will give it away for free and figure out how to make money off it later - Bill Gates. Did this lead to - we will allow free and open discourse and figure out how to control it all later - Specific individual unknown. Every mouse trap has free cheese - regular folks from all over the world. Insert the product into the public sphere until nothing can move without it, than bring down the hammer. The Native Americans experience as the many usurpers brought in useful tools of iron, whatever, until all the old ways were discarded, peoples unable to fill their own needs.

Then, now give us what used to be yours, or no soup for you. Long story made short, if they will do it with you, they will do it to you. In the end, Censorship kills itself because it does not allow proper discourse to be engaged. At some point it's so obvious the Emperor has no clothes. When such is revealed, the things needing change have become so large and so bad, change has to come, or collapse will follow. Ultimately, Murderers of Their Own Wealth.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Your comment Just is very accurate. A team of researchers from University College London did an investigation and confirmed that dishonesty from the point of view of the human brain increases with repetition working. There is a neurological mechanism where fear plays a fundamental role: the more repetition and less supervision, the less fear. Scientific research is subject to the power of large corporations, where it adapts to the manipulation of power. data science, in which computer science and social science come together to produce and systematize enormous amounts of information. Transparency International Global Health, a non-governmental organization whose objective is to improve the health system based on the detection of corrupt practices, reported that corruption claims around 140,000 child deaths per year in the world.

The presence of intermediaries significantly increases corruption. The results revealed that their mere presence increases corruption. The authors of the study suggest, because with an intermediary the responsibility of the actions is diluted and negative feelings are reduced. This fits perfectly with the corruption in the US where the Pharmaceutical Mafia and government institutions can come to feel free of corruption or at least less corrupt from their dependent relationships.

Another study showed that, although at first people who in a previous personality test had shown to be more honest avoided corruption, as time progressed some also made antisocial decisions that reduced the benefits of the group and increased their profits. That means that to safeguard the honesty of a leader, control mechanisms and strong institutions are needed to keep them in check. . www.nature.com/.../nn.4426 .--- link.springer.com/.../s10683-013-9358-8 .--- journals.plos.org/plosone/article?id=10.1371/journal.pone.0116746 .--

Posted On 06/11/2023

juststeve

It's the terrain Gui. Corruptive Rot creates more rot to feed on until the host no longer exist. The old story of he who steals the goose from the commons is a great thief, he who steals the commons from the goose, is a greater thief. What we have here is the thief is not happy stealing both the goose and the commons, he is salting the Earth of the Commons. If allowed to continue replacing all with Steel, Glass, Silicon Chips & Artificial Life Mimicking Machines.

Posted On 06/11/2023

PintoHorse

@Just Steve. Excellent observation. We must pull our socks up; there's no other way barring the direct intervention of God himself.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Segstar

The word "free" has a very particular ring to it..Surely does light up that part of the brain that blindly propels people to do what they want you to do... Don't walk, sprint away from these "freebies."

Posted On 06/11/2023

Dordee

Sad but true. Thus, I never believe anyone who says they offer their product free of charge. As my dr who refused a free, no expense vacation for his family of 6 because they required him to prescribe 600 prescriptions for Prozac. No wonder he resigned shortly after that! Constant pressure from big pharma, government paperwork, not enough time with patients to give them proper treatment and no time with his family. They are pushing honest drs out! Time for us to become our own drs!

Posted On 06/12/2023

rickaldinecomcast.net

Big Government is the virus.

Posted On 06/12/2023

epi-cure

Here a quote from the late astrophysicist, Carl Sagan: "I have a foreboding of an America in my children's or grandchildren's time when the United States is a service and information economy; when nearly all the manufacturing industries have slipped away to other countries; when awesome technological powers are in the hands of a very few, and no one representing the public interest can even grasp the issues; when the people have lost the ability to set their own agendas or knowledgeably question those in authority; when, clutching our crystals and nervously consulting our horoscopes, our critical faculties in decline, unable to distinguish between what feels good and what's true, we slide, almost without noticing, back into superstition and darkness..."

The dumbing down of American is most evident in the slow decay of substantive content in the enormously influential media, the 30 second sound bites (now down to 10 seconds or less), lowest common denominator programming, credulous presentations on pseudoscience and superstition, but especially a kind of celebration of ignorance" Carl Sagan, The Demon-Haunted World: Science as a Candle in the Dark

Posted On 06/11/2023

Segstar

There is a reason why it's called the WWW "world wide web." This is Lucifer's plan to destroy everything God has created..The fake news media has been very instrumental in publicizing his propaganda.They can take an innocent man and make his guilty and take a guilty man and make him innocent...Now that the very vast majority of people are "hooked" it's time to cull the herd...And we are witnessing this evil first hand.. Stay strong and in His faith and don't post anything you don't want the whole world to know...

Posted On 06/11/2023

rrealrose

Yup, found Friday evening, looks like a banned documentary of unknown source, regardless of their footnotes referencing govt documents. Here ya go! UNVACCINATED The Documentary. - - www.bitchute.com/.../vMObb1ibgUqE - - thought provoking topics covering what is truth; how to first create a problem, then decide only one way to fix it (herding the populace); how to divide populations incite to fight among themselves, and more psyops. Light a candle.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Segstar

Rosie yup keep on shining the light , make it a bright one everyday I say...cheers

Posted On 06/11/2023

grulla

"There is a reason why it's called the WWW "world wide web." This is Lucifer's plan to destroy everything God has created.." In a similar vein, 30+ years ago, people in s.e. AZ objected to the U.S. Hwy 666, (the devil's sign), and it was therefore changed to U.S. Hwy 191, at least in the southern part of the U.S. www.aaroads.com/.../us-191-az

Posted On 06/25/2023

don3724

Much of the younger generations lack perspective and the wisdom to listen to those with more experience. Anyone who used internet from beginning can recall the lack of censorship - I remember when your search would yield pages of relevant and related information. Anyone who used it then has seen the progression of censorship effecting search results. And several elections ago (pre-Covid) when all chats' were turned off to prevent discussion was nail in coffin. Internet is extension of media spoon feeding masses only information it wants populace to know. Some of us older and wiser -or enlightened to the game- do a bit more 'digging'.

Posted On 06/11/2023

ElizabethHope

Exactly!!! I remember when I could find hundreds of Blogspot and Blogger and Wordpress blogs from around the world - It was amazing! Search results on Google resulted in endless pages. Now: Just Corporate websites. Google is restricting access to what's actually available on the internet. Google's mantra was "Don't be evil." I guess they lived up to half of that.

Posted On 06/11/2023

juststeve

Fahrenheit 451.

Posted On 06/12/2023

old7675

A truly remarkable and frightening article. Thank you, Dr. Mercola, for exposing this to the public. You do us all a huge service and to our country. God bless you, sir.

Posted On 06/11/2023

epi-cure

So here's a woman, a rancher, age 82, who could pass for 60, no exaggeration. Her diet consists entirely of meat and water. She is doing her best to educate those who will listen 1) that it's what's kept her strong, mind and body at what she considers for her is "middle age", 2) the dire need to sustain the cattle industry given all the forces that are working against it: www.youtube.com/watch

Posted On 06/11/2023

mky32022

Wow! Maggie White is full of piss & vinegar. It's hard to believe she is 82 yrs old. She is an inspiration to all.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Jeremiah.8

Just finished reading Kory's book on ivermectin. The personal dimension was gut wrenching. Prayers to him, his new business and especially his family. Thankfully he assured us that he is not suicidal.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Almond

I do not wish to pursue political opinions and cannot vouch for accuracy. These comments from The Children's Defense site contain some interesting ideas--and facts, if accurate.

childrenshealthdefense.org/defender/steve-wenger-janssen-covid-vaccine.. Gay Studebaker Heisenberg3 days ago Please stop being naive. It slows everyone, especially you, down. Why in the hell do you think they didn't do the studies before they injected everyone? They were just too stupid to think of it? NO. This is a bioweapon and they knew exactly what the probable outcomes of injecting people with it were. All the animal trials resulted in dead animals.

That's the exact result they were hoping for. And none of this is over regardless of anyone's infantile fantasies of "going back to normal". Until we accept that a hoard of pshychopaths who do NOT THINK OR FEEL LIKE NORMAL PEOPLE IN ANY WAY planned and perpetrated this crime, we will never catch up enough to make any kind of progress in this fight. God Bless. KATHLEEN Gay Studebaker3 days ago THIS BIOWEAPON HAS BEEN IN PRODUCTION/RESEARCH SINCE THE LATE 80S UNDER WHERE FAUCI WAS INVOLVED AS THE mRNA VACCINE WAS INTENDED ORIGINALLY FOR AIDS. HOWEVER, THE RESULTS WERE HORRIFIC ON ANIMALS, BUT EXPERIMENTS CONTINUED.

THE ORIGINAL RESEARCHER WAS DR. ROBERT MALONE. HE LEFT THE RESEARCH TO PURSUE OTHER....AND FAUCI GOT INVOLVED IN LATE 90S. WE ALL KNOW WHERE THAT WENT. HE WAS INVOLVED IN THE GAIN OF FUNCTION BETWEEN UNC-CHARLOTTE AND WUHAN LAB. FAUCI SHOULD HAVE ALREADY BEEN ARRESTED FOR CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY. THE SADDEST THING ABOUT ALL OF THIS IS GOING TO BE A MASS GENOCIDE -STERILIZATION OF MEN AND WOMEN IS NOW RAMPANT, 600%, CANCER UP 1000%. MYOCARDITIS WHICH WAS VERY RARE IS NOW RAMPANT - BUT THE MOST VULNERABLE AGE GROUP IS 16-38, OUR STRONGEST AGE GROUP. ALSO, HOSPITALS WILL NOT TAKE VACCINATED BLOOD, NOR WILL THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Posted On 06/11/2023

rld8356

www.redcross.org/about-us/news-and-events/press-release/2023/blood-com.. : snippet- "All blood collection organizations in the U.S. are required to follow Food and Drug Administration guidelines and regulations to collect, process and distribute blood products for patients in need. The FDA explicitly allows donors who have recently received approved or authorized COVID-19 vaccines to give blood as long as they are healthy on the day of donation and meet all other eligibility criteria. On multiple occasions, the Food and Drug Administration has confirmed that there is no evidence to support concerns related to the safety of blood donated by vaccinated individuals."

Posted On 06/11/2023

grulla

I donate blood regularly, following the 56 day waiting rule. When Vitalant (formerly UBS) and Red Cross started adding the Covid vax question to their routine questionnaires, I was wary of their intentions from all I had been reading at the time, but answered with an honest "NO". To my surprise, I soon found out that both blood banks preferred unvaxxed. :-)

Posted On 06/25/2023

versatile

In the post COVID world, there are two types of people: those who know too much and want to understand, and those who don't want to know too much, and don't understand mypillow.

Posted On 06/11/2023

pipblanc

The have and the have nots! What is the pillow? Is it a reference to going to sleep or pulling the wool over our eyes?

Posted On 06/12/2023

Lee1959

If you are talking about mypillow created by MikeLindell, those are the worst pillows and sheets ever. The pillows are lumpy, the sheets are waaaaayyyy to large for the bed (to accommodate all depths of beds), so they always have wrinkles and bulges in them making it uncomfortable to sleep. We spent a LOT of money on them for a bad product. Lifetime warranty? You have to jump through so many hoops to return them. You have to pay for shipping and pay a restocking fee. I went to a legitimate consumer business rating site and saw about half of the ratings of mp purchasers were not happy with them. I know it was legitimate because you have to upload a copy of the receipt to be able to post your complaint. Nobody in our house likes them. They always end up on the floor (an excellent indicator of a bad pillow). I have to pick them all up every day. $200 wasted. My husband really wanted to support MikeLindell. I don't have the heart to tell hubby that he got ripped off.

Posted On 06/12/2023

drb6345

The internet works by sending packets of data, which include origin and destination details, routed over a network consisting of a series of nodes. Both the hardware and the data protocols were developed by the military industrial complex. Pray tell - how do you expect not to be monitored at will?

Posted On 06/11/2023

Diognes

The ADL. Somebody had to say it. The ADL has been working to nullify the 1st amendment for years, web.archive.org/web/20080704120912/http://www.adl.org/99hatecrime/prin.. . Now they control most of the internet, with exceptions, www.bitchute.com/.../dCjLtFIWIIS

Posted On 06/25/2023

WillieBe

In the fall of 2016, the media failed to report that Obama quietly signed over the US control of the internet to ICANN. Then on January 20, 2017, the very afternoon of Trumps inauguration, Obama flew to Silicon Valley and met with several tech giants. I remember the media reporting it that evening and I found it very strange that would be the first place Obama would choose to go after leaving the White House. Now it makes perfect sense.

Posted On 06/11/2023

goferal

May be the most surreptitiously anti-social con'trap ever devised ..., along with the cellphone. Like who wouldn't rather be self owned.

Posted On 06/11/2023

LadyLifeGrows

There is a book called "The Wisdom of Crowds" describing enormous benefits and wisdom--when information is fully free. Censorship effectively stupefies a population. The book is a good read, but the message is absolutely 5-star. That book is CENTRAL to the Great Awakening we are all working on. James Surowiecki's book, "The Wisdom of Crowds: Why the Many Are Smarter Than the Few and How Collective Wisdom Shapes Business, Economies, Societies, and Nations," explores the idea that large groups of people are smarter than an elite few, no matter how brilliant, at solving problems, fostering innovation, coming to wise decisions, and even predicting the future.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Brad522

Comments on rrealrose bitchute link. A pandemic of Lies: Confirmed: MHRA confirms COVID is Man-Made & the Vaccines are not based on the "Virus" but instead on Computer Generated GenBank 908947.3 DNA The Expose expose-news.com/2023/01/23/synthetic-pandemic-covid-manmade-vaccines-d..

Posted On 06/11/2023

tomcm55

But Al Gore said he invented the Internet any how in the late 70s I read 1984 I felt no way by 84 BUT maybe in 40 years and this thing called Google had so many holes in it and still does.. and now with this article it brings Mouse Trap the book and game well umm come alive.

Posted On 06/11/2023

sonniel

Well done to both of you. Thank you for continuing to bravely put facts and options in front of us. We the people.

Posted On 06/11/2023

kja247

This all began when JFK was assassinated, continued with October surprise which installed CIA / Bush1 as VP and then POTUS, the coup complete

Posted On 06/11/2023

bsc8784

Yeah, yeah, it is all well and good that the House Appropriations committee cease funding these operations but that won't necessarily make them go away. Remember that the Pentagon has lots of dark money whose (stated) purpose is revealed to only a select few. Who is to know that some of those funds aren't diverted into some new "program" which keeps these very same activities alive?

Posted On 06/26/2023

Almond

It has also been my observation that some of the most mind-controlled people are those who watch a lot of tv and mainly get their news from television. This includes those who may not like to read and do their own independent research and esp. some of the elderly who lose vision and find it difficult to read much. I see less of dependency on mainstream media among people who are actively engaged in outdoor pursuits. It seems that spending much of your day outdoors WORKING in nature brings a sort of reality and relativity to your life. Organizing your life around television programming is a fantasyland.

The most grounded people I know do not own televisions and the number seems to be increasing. When our small secondhand television broke during the first year of our marriage, we did not have the money to replace it. (Back then, you did not just get a tv free on craigslist or pick up another one cheap at a secondhand store.) We figured we had better things to do than watch tv. It turned out to be one of the best decision we ever made, and we have not missed it, although my husband will occasionally get together with friends to watch a football game.

That is a good male bonding experience for him, more so than watching tv. Although he enjoys sports, he can take it or leave it, esp. nowadays that so much has been politicized. We have had the extra hours we would have spent watching tv to fill our lives with so many other valuable activities and experiences--also, prob working more than the average person, which has also improved our lives. -But, much of our work is also our play. I could omit house cleaning and weeding the garden, though...

Posted On 06/25/2023

cralef

The World Wide Web is just an extension of the internet that I had access to in the late 1980s. Then the internet was just a bulletin board. Among other things I had access to DICE, an IT job board.

Posted On 06/11/2023

Mogrammy

Brilliant article. Thank you Dr. Mercola.

Posted On 06/11/2023

mrrobb

ensorship.....yeah read these and see who is sticking it down your throat>>
en.wikipedia.org/.../Theodore_N._Kaufman www.bitchute.com/.../zJ2qOWgDnHB7
www.bitchute.com/.../PJbmZP3nyUkv www.bitchute.com/.../lsIBj2u4v3Uw
www.bitchute.com/.../9TKBTN3hAym www.bitchute.com/.../eB9a5exAccNd

Posted On 06/25/2023

mrrobb

en.wikipedia.org/.../Theodore_N._Kaufman www.bitchute.com/.../zJ2qOWgDnHB7
www.bitchute.com/.../PJbmZP3nyUkv www.bitchute.com/.../lsIBj2u4v3Uw
www.bitchute.com/.../9TKBTN3hAym www.bitchute.com/.../eB9a5exAccNd

Posted On 06/25/2023

mrrobb

WAKE UP People

Posted On 06/25/2023

DARPA is worldwide....has been for years..if you think its only in USA your wrong.....every country has a ARPA (Advanced Research Agency) type of operation.....and all are interwoven since the 1930s.....back when the World Governments did supposed 'Worldwide Research on DNA' >>>> www.dna-worldwide.com/.../history-dna-timeline <<< several countries were allocated a selected segment of the DNA helix for 'Advanced Research' and after a time were to join forces and trade notes and information...most this was just a Public Fraud..... They all have been cloning humans for decades...and have actually created a better form of humanity,. in their eyes anyhow,so before long these 'Human Clones' will be let lose into 'da population'.....actually before 2027...LOL. Most people are so concerned that "they are targeted' or singled out.....LOL.....typical female brain....

Me -me-me-me , narcissistic mind.....but its Masses of population that will die 'within hours. from the millions of 5G radiation Transmitters on poles and streetlights and power line poles and towers ie cellphone towers and on an in.....these smaller units will broadcast RF Radiation 24/7 as many are already operating with Pulsed RF Radiation.from 900 megahertz to 3 gigahertz and higher....right now I have several meters and metering areas that I can read in real time pulses from 2.41 gtz to 2.87 to 1.641 to 2.47 and this is going on 24/7.....now these are frequencies not really needed for any communications.....opnly used in pulsed forms with unusual Modulations of these pulses...and think.....this is only coming to your worldso what?? you might ask.....maybe look back to a noted master in the field of RF on living Tissue.....I Dr named >>>> theprint.in/theprint-profile/j-c-bose-father-of-radio-science-who-was-.. < more >>>>>>>>

Posted On 06/25/2023
