

Memes by Themes #9: Censorship

MARGARET ANNA ALICE JAN 21 36 18 6

In my Defender interview about Canary in a COVID World, I wrote: "Totalitarianism, genocide, war—these atrocities are only possible thanks to the twin forces of propaganda and censorship."

Thank you so much, Denis—I'm sure it's a topic that hits closer to home than you would have imagined five years ago!

Absolutely brilliant, Denis! Just started scanning, but I especially love #54 about being "mean" with words.

Alice, How do you amass such an amazing collection of memes? These are incredible

Margaret Anna Alice Jan 22 Author
Thank you, Kurt, and I'm happy to hear you found them of value!
I collect and categorize my favorite memes as I come across them. My husband has his own trove (approaching 7k!), so I've grabbed a few from him but need to go through all of them and add them to my own categories if I can ever find time to do that! Meanwhile, you may enjoy some of the other topics if you haven't yet seen them:

2 Bad Cattitude meme pools and now one by MAA! Sunday mornings are getting good. The best part of waking up are memes with my cup.

Emergencies, diversions, lies, perversions,
24/7 non stop talk, ink, videos, a tsunami
Of mind manipulation. Great looking at these Memes. Thanks shell shocked by just how Much effort and money 💰 was spent to get people vaxxed!!
Imagine all that time and money spent on the Truth
Actually helping people ease their pains in 10,000 ways. But that ain't happening yet!
Imagine a world where tyrants didn't exist.
And media was educational informative and Inspiring....
we still have the platform to ridicule the ridiculousness of their pathetic game.
Favorite was the football analogy bc I get that Coach Walt Looney would be proud of those.
Thanks for Sunday Coffee and Memes!

The "Your Life is a Prison, Break Out!" video, is simple and so well done. I watched it twice and downloaded it just in case I forget to look for the prison walls. After all, we have holy guardians of sleepy time, that will likely take this type of information down, so as not to disturb the sleeping sheep.

Hilarious! So, just to be clear- is this in response to the recent threat by a group of about 20 people I've never, ever heard of who are accusing Substack of providing a platform for (shudder) N-N-N-Nazis? (As if adults need to be protected from such things and aren't clever enough to decide whether or not to be influenced). Seriously- who would we be protecting? I mean, how many minors are reading Substack?
If you don't know about this 'threat'...I will try to locate the Substack where I saw the 'petition'. Cheers!

Haha, yes, that is part of the impetus for publishing this particular theme right now. As I wrote in my reply (https://substack.com/profile/35383324-margaret-anna-alice/note/c-47835564) to your Note:
Glad you enjoyed it, @Bonnie Caracciolo! I have been collecting memes on the topic of censorship for a while but did decide to post it now because of that. I posted Round 1 of the Substack Censorship Wars (from April 2023) the other day, and Round 2 will cover December 2023 exchanges:
