Fast-tracked means the shot will be approved faster.

So it can destroy health sooner.

The manufacturer, Arcturus, will work closely with the FDA every step of the way in the testing phase, so problems can be ironed out. Uh-huh. Right.

So let's see. There is no bird flu because there is no virus. The vaccine will be useless and destructive.

What say you, Mr. Kennedy?

I discussed this new RNA technology not long ago: "This is the way it looks from their [the FDA's] point of view. The RNA forces cells of the body to produce a spike protein. With this new version, the body is also forced to make new RNA, which in turn forces the body to make more spike protein. And so on and so forth. Sounds like eternal vaccination. Sounds like continuously stimulating the immune system to react—wearing it out, or causing it to go into dangerous overdrive. Or both. Naturally, there are no long-term studies on safety."

It's genetic roulette. With no guardrails. Because once you start tinkering with the body's genetics, all bets are off. Ripples show up here and there. Not the same ripples in everyone.

Plus no one has ever run a large-scale study to see what proteins people injected with RNA are actually producing in their bodies. They didn't do the studies with the COVID vaccines, and they won't do them with the bird-flu shots.

You couldn't make up a crazier and more dangerous experiment to run on huge numbers of people.

But of course, large "conservative" news outlets like revolver and Gateway Pundit aren't hammering criticism on this experiment, because it's happening under Trump—just like the Warp Speed program did.

Don't expect to see a huge MAHA uproar over the bird flu fast-tracking vaxx.

Hey, a continually renewing vaccine inside the body that keeps producing its payload could be a good thing, right? It might Make America Healthy Again.

Sure.

People might think so if they're completely nuts.

If their favorite news sources say nothing. If their new head of HHS doesn't raise the alarm. If their President keeps his mouth shut. If the President's team has no comments. If traditional Health Freedom groups take no notice. If the government keeps offering the shots for free. If medical insurance companies contracting with Obamacare keep covering the shots.

If all's quiet.

"Japan has approved the CSL and Arcturus Therapeutics' Updated self-amplifying (SA) mRNA COVID-19 Vaccine, ARCT-154 (Kostaive). The updated vaccine is targeted to protect against the JN1 lineage of omicron subvariants for adults 18 years of age and older."

Its designed to kill faster. Exhausting the immune system exponentially faster than the first iteration, it is going after the livestock now.. as Bill Gates targets trees and plant life, clear cutting forests and burying the trees to "sequester CO2" the alien monsters are ordering the killing of livestock to "protect" it from "bird flu". If bird flu exists it has most likely already made its way thru the wild animal population and is endemic as it would amongst the livestock but this isnt about "saving anything", I believe its about creating an apocalypse. Bill Gates and his crowd of Satanist friends are planning and executing it..
