For a weary public longing to get back to normalcy, vaccine passports represent a tantalizing carrot, being dangled as a mechanism for freedom. By showing proof that you've received a COVID-19 vaccine, perhaps you can once again board an airplane and travel freely, attend a concert or enjoy a meal in your favorite restaurant, just like you used to.

Except, being required to present your "papers" in order to live your life isn't actually freedom at all – it's discrimination, and even a move toward technocratic fascism, one that's setting the stage for increased surveillance and erosion of your privacy.

Nonetheless, this blatant move toward an ever-increasing surveillance state is being welcomed by many who have been led to believe the passports are necessary to protect public health and safety.

Vaccine Passports Are in Development

It's likely only a matter of time before you'll be asked to prove your vaccination status in order to carry on with your daily life. "The government seems to be developing vaccine passports by stealth, making sure the technology is in place for anyone who needs it," wrote Lara Prendergast, The Spectator's assistant editor.¹

She's referring to the U.K. government, which has given sizable grants to a number of private companies developing such technology. This includes more than $86,000 to Logifect, which is slated to launch a vaccine passport app in March 2021, and more than $104,000 to iProov and Mvine, which are developing digital certificates that show vaccination status.

As Prendergast noted, "Your phone would most likely be your vaccination passport. Everyone's vaccination status is already being logged centrally by the National Immunization Vaccination System using their NHS number. This information could be easily linked with an app."²

Around the world, vaccine passports are rapidly being rolled out, including in Denmark, which will begin issuing them in February 2021. Sweden. Spain, Italy, Cyprus and Malta have also expressed positivity toward vaccine passports to revive tourism, while in the U.S., plans for vaccine IDs are under evaluation.³ International efforts are also underway.

The Commons Project and the World Economic Forum created the Common Trust Network, which developed the CommonPass app that's intended to act as a health passport in the near future.

The app allows users to upload medical data such as a COVID-19 test result or proof of vaccination, which then generates a QR code that you will show to authorities as your health passport.⁴ The proposed common framework "for safe border reopening" around the world involves the following:⁵

1. Every nation must publish their health screening criteria for entry into the country using a standard format on a common framework
2. Each country must register trusted facilities that conduct COVID-19 lab testing for foreign travel and administer vaccines listed in the CommonPass registry
3. Each country will accept health screening status from foreign visitors through apps and services built on the CommonPass framework
4. Patient identification is to be collected at the time of sample collection and/or vaccination using an international standard
5. The CommonPass framework will be integrated into flight and hotel reservation check-in processes

Eventually, the CommonPass framework will be integrated with already existing personal health apps such as Apple Health and CommonHealth. If you want to travel, your personal health record will be evaluated and compared to a country's entry requirements, and if you don't meet them, you'll be directed to an approved testing and vaccination location.

Majority Are in Favor of 'Privacy-Encroaching Technology'

Even as mortality data show COVID-19 is hardly the deadly pandemic it's been made out to be, fear-mongering remains in full effect – including warnings that a more infectious, mutated strain of SARS-CoV-2 is on the loose. With fear still omnipresent, acceptance of “privacy-encroaching technology” that promises an illusion of safety is high.

In the U.K., researchers from the University of Bristol conducted two large surveys about such technologies, with overwhelming positivity reported.⁶ The first measured public acceptance of location tracking through your cellphone that would allow health agencies to monitor your contact with others to target social distancing and quarantine measures.

About 70% of the respondents said they would accept such an app that they could choose to download and, surprisingly, 65% also said they would accept such an app even if it was mandated by the government and used to locate those violating lockdown orders and issue fines and arrests.⁷

A second survey evaluated acceptance of vaccine passports, with 60% stating they were in favor and only 20% stating they were strongly opposed. The study's lead author, professor Stephan Lewandowsky, described those opposed as “surprisingly low, adding, “It's fascinating how people seem increasingly receptive to their personal data being used to inform themselves and others about what they can and can't do.”⁸

Prendergast put this widespread acceptance into further context for the British, who “have traditionally been deeply suspicious of the idea of an official asking for ‘papers, please’:⁹

“[This] ... is why there was such a backlash against Blair’s ID cards. As one journalist at the time put it:

‘If I am ever asked to produce my ID card as evidence that I am who I say I am, when I have done nothing wrong and when I am simply ambling along and breathing God’s fresh air like any other freeborn Englishman, then I will take that card out of my wallet and physically eat it in the presence of whatever emanation of the state has demanded that I produce it.’

That journalist is now our Prime Minister. It would be an extraordinary turn of events if Boris Johnson ended up being the man who introduced an immunity identity system in Britain.”

US Universities Institute Jail-Like Restrictions

At every turn, long-standing societal norms – like college students gathering with friends in their dorm or even leaving their rooms for work and exercise – are disappearing. As of February 7, 2021, for instance, the University of Massachusetts Amherst was in a “high risk” operational mode due to a “continuing surge in COVID-19 cases.”¹⁰

The status, which was to be in place for a minimum of 14 days, made all classes remote and ordered all students, whether residing on or off campus, to self-sequester in their residences, except to get meals, attend medical appointments or undergo twice-weekly COVID testing.

Violating these orders would result in “disciplinary action,” according to a university press release, which could include removal from residence halls or suspension.¹¹ Students were also informed that, should they decide to leave campus to self-sequester at home, “it is highly unlikely we will be able to accommodate your return.”

Even within a residence hall, students were told to remain in their rooms at all times except when using a restroom on their floor. Outdoor exercise or attending to the immediate needs of a pet was allowed, but only when wearing a mask and maintaining social distancing.¹²

This wasn't the case at UC Berkeley, however, which banned outdoor exercise in addition to extending dormitory lockdowns in February 2021. The only times students are allowed to leave their rooms during the lockdown are to obtain medical care, get required COVID tests, to use an assigned bathroom or to obtain food from an outdoor dining kiosk, after which “you are required to return immediately to your room.”¹³

Are You Clean Enough to Travel?

While many countries have suggested that the COVID-19 vaccine will not be mandated, by giving special privileges to the vaccinated, such as the ability to travel, attend social events or even enter a workplace, it essentially amounts to the same thing and insinuates a “cleaner” class of people in those who have been vaccinated.

It's reminiscent of the early days of the pandemic, when hand sanitizer and disinfectant wipes were flying off store shelves in a frenzy to clean away COVID. Now we know that transmission of COVID-19 by fomites — the term used for inanimate surfaces and objects that can transmit a pathogen — has been exaggerated.

Emanuel Goldman, a microbiology professor at Rutgers New Jersey Medical School, suggested this in July 2020, when he stated that studies suggesting SARS-CoV-2 was easily spread via surfaces did not present real-life situation.¹⁴

“In my opinion, the chance of transmission through inanimate surfaces is very small,” he said, and while period disinfection of surfaces, especially in hospitals, was a reasonable precaution, in public settings, he noted, “this can go to extremes not justified by the data.”¹⁵ In February 2021, an editorial in Nature supported Goldman’s work, suggesting that costly and toxic disinfection efforts are misguided.

“Catching the coronavirus from surfaces is rare. The World Health Organization and national public health agencies need to clarify their advice,” the editorial reads.¹⁶ The New York City Metropolitan Transit Authority alone is spending an estimated $380 million annually on COVID-related sanitation, and when it asked the U.S. government whether they should be focusing on fomites or solely aerosols, they were told to continue their focus on fomites.¹⁷

Writing in The Atlantic, Derek Thompson describes this as a type of “hygiene theater,” in which Americans are going through the motions of dutifully cleaning and, likely, over-disinfecting surfaces when the virus spreads most efficiently through the air.¹⁸

Indeed, much of the COVID-19 pandemic response has been embroiled in theatrics, including mask mandates, for which the scientific evidence has been described as “astonishingly weak.”¹⁹ Hygiene theater, much like the theater for vaccine passports, provides an illusion of safety, not one grounded in reality.

Discussion to Ban Florida Travel for Disobedience

In the U.S., Florida announced in December 2020 that it would have no more lockdowns and no statewide mask mandates.²⁰ The act resulted in retaliation by federal government, which entertained the idea of a domestic travel ban to the state, reportedly to curb the spread of new COVID-19 variants.

In a press conference, Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis stated, “Any attempt to restrict by the federal government would be an attack on our state done purely for political purposes.” Sen. Marco Rubio agreed, calling the act unconstitutional: “So now that they’re considering actual restrictions on Americans inside the country, I think it is unconstitutional. I think it’s going to be challenged in court successfully.”²¹

The “technocratic fascist vision”²² of professor Klaus Schwab, founder and executive chairman of the World Economic Forum who wrote the book on the Fourth Industrial Revolution, is moving ahead full-steam. He announced the World Economic Forum’s Great Reset Initiative in June 2020, which includes stripping all people of their privately owned assets.

Getting health passports to become a new normal has, in fact, been part of the plan all along for the Commons Project, which began developing software that tracks medical data well before the COVID-19 pandemic. “But spikes in virus cases around the world this spring accelerated its work,” The New York Times reported.²³

While the vaccine passports are starting out with the COVID-19 vaccine for international travel, it’s setting a precedent for expansion that can be extended to other vaccines and medical information, and then to domestic travel and even leaving your house, as the passports will be carried on your phone that has location-tracking abilities.

And it’s clear that when the fascists come, they’ll be wearing masks — probably two or three of them depending on their level of loyalty. For now, getting informed and sharing your knowledge is the first step to protecting your freedom.

How much will people continue to put up with? Even the dimmest person has got to start suspecting something is just not right. History teaches us that, times of major social upheaval can occur spontaneously. (Archaeological evidence of uprisings shows meals unfinished and tools left in disarray.) People will only be pushed so far before they believe they have nothing left to lose. It is only a question of which event is "the last straw". Americans are known to be a long-suffering and patient people. However, they will also resist tyranny. I think the time is close at hand. Circumstances will likely be some intrusion against our Bill of Rights... 2A, mandatory vaccination, loss of property rights, etc. It is not only grocery, canning lids and toilet paper shortages, but the ammo shelves are often sold out, too... just my observation.

We are presently in a cold war situation, but it is heating up. The next civil war will not likely be fought with armaments, but with strategy, propaganda and technology. Technology is very fragile and can be sabotaged. Civilization always hangs by a thread, based on the knowledge and skills of key individuals. It takes many people and time to build a society. Large numbers to support it's functions. Strategy can just as easily be reversed. Instead of allowing patriotic people to be controlled by controlling food, truckers could easily control politicians by refusing to deliver food and other goods to certain areas. Hackers. Massive nonviolent resistance. Undergrounds. Realize the importance of self-reliance. Do not allow yourself to become a victim of circumstances. (We saw this when people in TX were told days in advance to prepare for severe weather.) Network with like-minded individuals. Support each other, but do not expect to be a freeloader.

I have been helping a number of people plant gardens. It should be many more people than it is. People are not thinking ahead and planning. I am quite disturbed to see the majority of people unwilling to help themselves. When I go to the supermarket, I see people with carts loaded full of crap foods that will last only a week or just a few days. These are nutrient-poor foods for the microwave or bags of rip-open crackle-bloopies and soda. People are generally lazy. In physics and human nature, energy tends to the lowest level. Too many handouts have allowed this, because people have not suffered the consequences of their behaviors, often having social safety nets to fall back into.

Last summer, I warned people to put up food. Very few people showed up to U-pick the free berries or vegetables I offered. I told people to pick the apple trees in their yards and put up for winter. Some of them canned a few jars of applesauce, but left the rest to rot. I know they are now hoping that I will share our food with them. I tell people, I am willing to teach you to take care of yourself, but I am not willing to do it for you. The harsh reality has hit some people who could have done more to help themselves earlier. Now, I hear whining about increasing food prices and shortages... the same people who would tell me a thing was "too much work." Their priorities were about entertainments and "wants" instead of prioritizing for necessities.

Likewise, I stored discarded hand-me-down clothing and work wear (Carharts, boots!). I knew a good thing when I saw it. Now, I see people wearing some of the shabbiest worn out clothing because trying on before buying is a thing of the past. Strange stuff like shorts and flip-flops in winter. Yet, when I offered to share sturdy clothing, few were interested in what was unfashionable.

Only one working man shows up to get free firewood, which is a common source of heat in our area. Once again, "too much work". Triage is coming.

It's a marketing scam for a fake product, that is then used to kidnap and keep hostage, any human on false grounds....PCR tests. It's not about the greater good or public health, it's a scam for making profit.

I love the idea of truckers controlling the delivery. My son was in the transport industry and I'm going to share this with him. Truckers unite! This will definitely be a grassroots effort.

The cold war has already started from the looks of things. What with the Communist Chinese Party virus having been released onto the world, especially to target the U.S. and bring her down; the stolen election we just experienced in Nov; the continued censorship by Big Tech; the shut-downs and lockdowns of us Sheeple. The war has already started!!! Yes, we do need to network with like-minded people. But, you'd be surprised how most just are all talk and don't want to do anything about what's going on.

Already more than half of Americans don't want the jabs, most notably caregivers and doctors! So I fully expect them to find the line in the sand there, and find it to be an invisible (to the mainstream media, at least) wall. The more ridiculous it gets, the more underground activity will flourish. Those who require instant gratification and are slaves to their tech goodies will accept the lunacy, those of us who do not will continue to flourish as the returns from these poisonous jabs come in, and come in they shall.

Ok Almond, thanks for the reminder to through the closet again and add to the donation bag I started last fall. Meanwhile, a "must read" article - seems a variant flu strain was circulating and who knows if it is confounded with covid-19 testing? (only the shadow knows!) Again, better reality is often found the weather channels:

Sadly, I think a large portion of the population really doesn't care about freedom anymore. They have been locked down so long it looks normal to them. Now the government is offering a few crumbs to those willing to take an experimental injection, and many are ecstatic about it. Our future is hazy. I wouldn't have believed this could happen so quickly, though it's been in the making for a long time.

I second everything BlessTheBeasts said.

Almond, thank goodness most are too lazy to deal with firewood. We heat with it, and unlike you don't have a source on our property. We never have any problem getting all the free wood we need, so long as we cut, haul and split it. All of which is top-notch exercise as you know. I always leave a lot of big rounds so I have wood to split all winter. It's been great during this cold wave splitting our firewood each day as we need it! Not only is it great exercise, swinging a sledge and maul as hard as you can in these times is highly therapeutic!

Bless...This has been planned and along time in coming. Many games have been played on paper and with digitals in the meantime. I recall a bit before the turn of the century... a conversation I had with an accountant. He was very thorough in explaining why financial collapse was inevitable. Back then, technocracy was less an issue. We did not have the compounding concerns of digital currency and a pandemic, though. It all makes sense, now, how events are unfolding. Also, the addendum about "never let a crisis go to waste"--but magnify and exploit it.

Are there many people like me? I have adjusted quite well to this lockdown. Perhaps I am unique in already being somewhat of a recluse. However, I find many things in my day-to-day life much less stressful. I am not sure I want to reenter society, esp. when not on my terms. I used to enjoy an occasional restaurant meal, more for socializing than the food served. I notice that friends and neighbors still invite me into their homes. (Most are not afraid of covid.) If anything, it has shown me the people who trust each other and not the government and Fauci. I will not be eating 3-D meat.

I am a hunter and gatherer in addition to a gardener. I can do pretty well without a supermarket, esp. if I can order a few items such as salt. Hubby is already requesting we rely only on the (heirloom) cornmeal that we grow. Already venison for meat. Prob better for our health avoiding most store bought foods. There are no movies or movie stars that I want to see anyway. Not attending theater is no big deal. I am not into watching team sports, esp. since they have become so politicized. Travel has become unpleasant. I prefer to avoid it whenever possible. No where to go. My only concern would be travel to attend distant funerals. For routine stuff, I can travel backroads. My formal education is pretty much complete.

I have long been promoting the idea of young people, especially, planning for employment in autonomous fields. Owning your business rather than being an employee or needing to hire workers in the regular sense. Distancing yourself as much as possible from govt oversight, licensing, etc. This often involves having land under your feet. Providing necessities always in demand. I would like to be able to continue to see my own doctor, but if this is not possible, I will do my own doctoring or rely on black market agreements with sympathetic providers. Already amazing what doors will open if you are producing quality food for barter. Off grid by 2022?

Just today, hubby got a call from a Medicare provider wanting to come out to our house to give him an annual physical--"free" of course. Nothing is free--someone always pays. They said they would either send a doctor or nurse practitioner. (Your common sense tells you that, not only will it be a low-cost provider, but they will try to sign you up for the services they get reimbursement for.) Kind of crazy, that, since many elders are afraid to even go to the doctor because of covid (and medical institutions are losing money over it),

\that they are now eager for front line employees who have likely been exposed and are carriers to participate in a home care situation where they bring diseases to people who have otherwise been isolated. How ironic! Besides, I have reservations about strange strangers coming into my home.

It does not take much for them to report living conditions or philosophies they do not approve of and get you made a ward of the state with your assets confiscated. Our family had to legally fight-off an ombudsman when we only tried to act responsibly to get better care for my father-in-law and move him to a superior nursing home at our expense. The other institution did not want to lose the money since he was one of the few paying customers. (92% were paid by govt assistance.)

I suspect they will also be promoting the vaccine as I have previously received phone calls about it. They say it is confidential. We all know that HIPPA is a farce and electronic records get widely distributed. How often do online sources get hacked? My husband asked what benefits such a visit would provide. The person on the phone said that they would review his prescription drugs. He informed them that he does not take any. They were surprised. I have not yet received my letter or phone call. Perhaps I scared them off the last time they called. The woman on the phone said she would mark me down as "not interested" after I gave her an earful.

Sounds idyllic, but sadly a lifestyle choice not available to the majority, more especially those high rise dwellers in New York or Dubai. But this 'pull up the ladder, Jack, I'm OK' outlook will not benefit my new born grandchild who will likely grow up in a police state now that the formerly 'free world' has accepted the inevitability of the fascist/totalitarian takeover. Ironic that within living memory, the oppressed and those hopeful survivors of Na-zism were shipping their children to British soil through Kindertransport to avoid the "papers, please" overreach of tyrannical government's misuse of technology. Without television in your life, the pandemic ceases to exist. Without a mobile phone, hopefully the proposed medical tyranny of Bojo & Co may flounder. Sounds like the (Dis)united States of America are heading for their second civil war, without a shot being fired and not a limey in sight. The (Dis)united Kingdom went down the rabbit hole long ago. cabochon...The fact is that many people could be doing much better than they are now doing if they had planned ahead. Yes, even city people living in apartments. How many people even have a sack of beans or rice stored? It would not have taken much money or effort to buy an extra shelf-stable meal once a week when they went to the supermarket earlier--need not be expensive. How many people have water jugs? A window sill, patio or balcony where they could grow a bit of food even for part of the year to supplement their grocery budget and have fresh food? If they can travel a bit, do they take a day for fishing? Most cities offer some sort of gleaning opportunities, even if more in some places than others. Make use of what is available. How many people live disposable lifestyles, not considering hand-me-downs, repurposing or making things from scratch? A lot of our "play" used to also be our work--just that we enjoyed some jobs more than others.

We had no concept of extravagant vacations to distant places. I think a lot of the depression mentality of "make it yourself, make do or do without" has been lost. Also, especially for a generation whose only exercise is moving their thumbs across a cell phone, the ability to do physical labor. They no longer see it as an opportunity. Lately, I hear complaints about people so dumb they do not know the business end of a shovel and are absolutely worthless on a job requiring physical labor. People giving away a vacuum because they did not know how to change a belt. People who do not see what needs to be done, but wait to be told what to do. I am surprised to see many help wanted ads posted along roads, yet people claim there are no jobs--at least in our area. It starts with a goal. You may not be perfect and you may be slow, but every step you take towards a goal brings you closer. Much better than doing nothing. -Or change your circumstances--many people are moving out of NYC.

Well, that's because there was nothing 'normal' about the artificial society imposed upon humanity before Covid scam came along, and they are only offering a worse version of it after lockdowns, why not stay in lockdown until the fraudulent governments are bankrupted by the fraudulent banking cartels and no one can afford to pay for the bloody and murderous medical system anymore, and then the fraudulent medical and pharmaceutical companies can go bankrupt next, everyone stop getting government handouts, the power gets shut down, banks can't function, power companies go bankrupt too, fiat currency systems collapse and people end up joining up with farmers to survive, cities fall into chaos and the financial sectors collapse along with all of their electricity dependent brainwashing media systems... people put their phones down, pick up their children and start acting like fu cking humans again... That would be nice actually, back to roughing it on the farm...and a short nasty life for all of the useless bean counters, stock fraudsters and poison pushers...I'm rooting for chaos right now... 😄

Kevin...It is not all idyllic. A lot of it means long days and hard work. Until a century ago, it took a tremendous amount of labor just to produce food. So much was done by human and animal labor. You are correct, though, about a grid down situation putting people back in touch with reality and reprioritizing their lives. The new realities would be physical labor, the need for food production and day-to-day survival. Much less food would be produced and preserved without machinery, fuel and power. Even the Amish rely on exchange with the outside world. Many things could be done, but I would not want to have to do all of them.

But hard work and long days can be quite enjoyable if the company is good. No matter how strenuous the labor, or how many hours are required, if I'm with people whose presence brings me joy then the time flies by. Community is the greatest source of energy.

We are quite similar. I am already a bit of a recluse due to a hip injury that keeps me from getting out and dancing like i used to. Now growing my own food would be wonderful. I have enough garden space and could use pots to grow in as well. So, yes, this lockdown situation really hasn't changed my life that much. As for your Medicare call, i would tell them NO THANK YOU!! I refuse most anything Big Pharma has to offer. Most likely they wouldn't be able to even get a hold of me because i screen all my calls. 🙄 And vaccination of children is a CRIME!!! Thank you, Almond, I benefitted from reading your posts and envy your lifestyle. I once lived like you do now, but for a variety of reasons now live in a condo in the capital city of Canada. I'm anticipating a special call from the doctor about the vaccine as I'm in the "hi-risk" group in his eyes, not mine, I might add. My anticipation involves me considering how to stay out of the line of fire. But I am drawn to delivering an ear full, for sure. But this doctor is such a twerp he might follow up in ways I don't approve of and so my defence of myself needs time to develop to be most effective. I don't take any medication either - just use Dr. Mercola's advice and supplements and alternate medicine.

The city people I know here are so conformist to the propaganda it literally boggles my mind. So my old farming friends are even more valuable to me. Also I'm not unhappy being locked down at all, since I've got lots of interesting to me, pursuits. The biggest loss is the radio. Spending time yelling at the radio when you live in a condo wondo, isn't the best idea. So I shut it off most of the time. I have never in my long life heard so many tweeting parrots so full of rubbish number games. I tried for months to share credible information about Covid 19 with everyone, but the brainwashing has been so effective it fell on deaf ears. And p.s., if you've had the vaccine I'm not so keen on being around you either! Who knows what it's going to do to your ability to spread contagion?

There is an alternative way to look at the present threat of such passports. First will be the increasing health difficulties of those that have received the "allegedly" so called vaccine; which, instead, will alter the DNA of the recipients. Once the health difficulties become undeniable, that will open the door wide to the alternative health question for every young person thinking of a future marriage to raise children . . . do I accept that my future partner will not be certain to produce a healthy child . . . if they have already received the alleged so called vaccine? It is thus inevitable, that we now face the certainty of that debate; about the veracity of the potential to create a new child; that has the best hope of creating a solid, functioning family.

Ask yourself; knowing what we now know about the mRNA treatments being taken up by the majority . . . would you advocate a damaged partner? . . . Or would your natural instinctive reaction be to seek out someone that was undamaged?

Now add an even worse outlook; that individuals that have received the mRNA treatment MAY BE infertile. Even the thought of that question; "if I marry you, will we be able to have a child" . . . raises the possibility of complete anarchy descending upon humanity. Which; No Doubt, is why every effort is being made to suppress, repeatedly; any thought of that possibility. We must face that question head on . . . we know; no one knows the answer. If it turns out to be true, that the mRNA treatment makes the recipients sterile; then we herald the destruction of the human race as we presently know it. My choice will always be towards safety. My instincts tell me that the same will apply to anyone facing the same choice.

The other possibility is that, within the next 6 months to a decade or more, we will see an upsurge in deaths, disabilities and altered immunity (for the worse). The vaccine may further BG's eugenics goal by premature die-off. Ironically, the unvaccinated population may be those who are free thinkers, self-reliant and healthy. I believe, that, were it not mainly for nursing home deaths, but also elders with comorbid conditions, that the senior population, in general, may be healthier and show more resistance than the young. The young have not had a lifetime of some of their elders who have lived closer to the soil, not received many vaccinations and not been greatly exposed to modern diet and lifestyles. Obviously, I am talking largely about rural populations who retain a traditional lifestyles and produce much of their own food.

That is the main thing. There is a chasmatic divide in the elderly population between those who rely on their gardens and those who have adopted convenience foods and sedentary lifestyles. My husband observed that elders often die within a year or 2 after they quit gardening... if that was their lifestyle. I once lived near a retirement home where each unit was provided with a garden space. It seemed to contribute greatly to the health of the residents. I am horrified to see that the FDA is now promoting vaccination of pregnant women. We already know, from veterinary medicine, that this increases the risk of miscarriage (spontaneous abortion). If the US is not the only country doing this, they are one of the few. I no longer understand the world I am living in.

Chris "great minds think alike" ~ I have also been pondering the division between those that have altered their DNA with these RNA syntheses that are being coerced by Big Brother and those that have maintained God's version of their DNA ~ this might become a barrier to insemination and create a barren class of human that through public surveillance might be accessed in order to separate these two classes ~

I've suspected for years that there would come a day when my children would perhaps be more desirable as potential spouses for no other reason than that they're unvaccinated. Instead of the "wealthy elites" there will be the "healthy elites," and they'll be sought after for a new type of arranged marriage.

What is crazy is I am friends with a married couple who work in healthcare. The wife is the head nurse of the obstetrics department of a hospital and the husband is a biochemist and anesthesiologist who trains other doctors. During this entire past year of ridiculousness they have been two of the only people I know in my entire circle of friends/acquaintances/co-workers/family who have been of the same mindset about the inefficacy of the masks to protect against viruses, the idiocy of social distancing and lockdowns, as well as the fraudulence with the PCR testing. They know the science and we would discuss it, in person, over coffee, dinner, etc., not wearing masks.

The wife contracted the virus a few months ago , she was sick (loss of taste/smell and whatever else was wrong with her) for a week or so then got better. However, they changed after that. It was like they lost their minds and became part of the flock of fearful sheep. It did not make any sense to me. She got better! Just like when I had walking pneumonia a few years ago; was laid out for a couple of weeks then got better! I did not fear going into public after that. I went about my life. Well, they both got the jab, consensually. Not because they work in healthcare, but because they like to travel, often. The husband even discussed with me the science behind the mRNA as being gene therapy and not a vaccine, as well as the possible side effects and permanent damage, to include infertility. The wife wants to have children one day!!! They knew the science and did it anyway! Just so they could travel. It was at that point that I became more distressed about all of this than I had already been during this whole sham. They were the last two with whom I could discuss this situation intelligently and without backlash. I now feel alone. So, I thank Dr. Mercola and all of you on here. You give me hope that there are others out there like me who can think rationally and not go blindly into the abyss...

Humanity will abide. Humans occupied all parts of the globe outside Antarctica 20,000 years before agriculture and civilization. They had survived one or two Ice Ages, sea level rise & fall of 400± ft and still managed to travel with babies from Africa to Australia, Siberia, Tierra del Fuego and the Amazon. Their descendants in the Amazon are so civilized they have no divorce or war. They are the original "make love not war" hippie tribes. Adjoining tribes visit regularly & party with home made booze and halucigens. The paternity of a child is considered to be every man the mother had sex with. The bodies of the babies are thought to be made from semen encouraging people to have sex throughout pregnancy. Those seem like feminine ideas. There is no intertribal conflict because you know not who is your father, brother, uncle, aunt or other close relative. Outsiders are another story. Now if "advanced" cultures let the psychopaths and corporations destroy themselves, a restart from the Amazon does not sound like a bad idea.

I am 82 years old and I am subject to having "insights" . It was only about 15 years ago that I learned of the Georgia Guidestones and my immediate thought was they will begin with a pandemic which won't kill enough of us of us to their liking. I didn't think, though, it would happen in my lifetime. When this "pandemic" began, I believed like everyone else we were in mortal danger. Just a week later, walking down the street wearing a mask, watching someone pass me also with a mask, it came to me that it was all a hoax. It was being done to test how far they could go with us - how obedient we would be.

The answer apparently is very. I took the mask off right there and ran my hand over my face, ceased washing my hands every time I touched something, didn't use the hand sanitizer, use public transportation where I hold onto the poles which I know from long experience are hotbeds of germs.

Here I am, a year later, completely fine, no virus, no flu - no nothing - just an ongoing depression at the willing stupidity of human beings. I am Jewish and conscious of fascism as I was very young during WW2 and remember what fascists are capable of. And conscious of what those with too much desire for money and power can do if they are given that power. I have watched videos of Bill Gates, he who was raised in the eugenics movement, who speaks of nothing on YT except pandemics and "population control".

Just as villains in movies give away their evil plans, he speaks of implants that will give people's data that will be seen by a tattoo. I have heard him refer to this vaccine as "the final solution". I've heard Melinda say that Blacks should be vaccinated first. And even my older Jewish friends remain oblivious, defending this "vaccine" and wearing this mask even after an entire year. These parasitic megalomaniacs are like cancers and their greed, just as cancer does, will end up destroying the entire planet.

Hi dubbydove, I am a Canadian living in Israel. I'm ashamed being an israeli, as israeli government has totally sold itself to Pfizer and Moderna. The whole government is the mother and father of corruption. 50% of israel's population have succumbed to israeli media scare tactics, and got Pfizer's "experimental drug" (this is the official and correct name given by FDA to the "vaccine"). If FDA does not approve this experimental drug, I imagine what could be the reasons. Although majority of people I know did get this crap, nobody got any serious side effects.

Only minor ones, like some numbness in the hand that lasted for a few minutes. But since DNA is altered, the real side effects could appear much later, possibly years. Bill Gates is one of main villains. China has nothing to do with that. Being jewish also has nothing to do with the fact that like in Israel, 50% of world population is getting this "experimental drug", stupidly thinking that it will make them "free". 50% of world population turns out are simply idiots.

Did I recently hear the risk of death for children under 18 was about .003%? Those who dies mostly had comorbid conditions and might have even died of a cold or flu. That hardly makes a case for vaccination. Have you noticed the propaganda technique used in much vaccine advertising? It is used to encourage people who lack confidence to become a group member. Ads are now being put out with exaggerated regional dialects to make us think the messenger is trustworthy because he is "one of us". They never get it quite right. It sounds silly and is insulting. I better understand why some children have no birth certificates and never get social security numbers. Home births with midwives who do not record the births.

The children do have an alternative document of birth--not sure how that works. They were unvaccinated and home schooled. I know some of these children have attended private colleges. Most have farmed or entered successful family business. That may now be a thing of the past with so much govt surveillance and access requirements. I got by without vaccination because I attended a good-sized university with a slip shod bureaucracy. I kept ignoring vaccination letters and fell thru the cracks. I just threw the letters out and otherwise kept a low profile about such things, not being confrontational or noticeable. This is no longer possible with e-records on everyone.

The Department of Defense (DOD) conducted research on how Flu vaccines affect immunity against coronaviruses in 2017-2018.

www.disabledveterans.org/2020/03/11/flu-vaccine-increases-coronavirus-.. The question(s) that keeps me awake at night is: 1) WHY would the DOD be researching how Flu vaccines affect immunity against coronaviruses just 2 years prior to a major coronavirus pandemic? 2) Did the DOD have intelligence warning them that China was going to "accidentally-on-purpose" leak out a coronavirus-based-bioweapon ahead of time? 3) OR! Was this a coordinated event that was planned YEARS in advance? 4) If our own government knew 3 years ago that flu vaccines increased your chances of getting sick from coronaviruses by 36%, then why was the CDC, the NIH, the FAKE NEWS, and the entire medical system saying back in Aug 2020 that "EVERYONE MUST DO THEIR PART AND GET THE FLU VACCINE"???

#3 & #4 can be easily explained. They want everyone with underlying conditions and everyone over the age of 65 dead. This had to be a coordinated effort because most countries followed the same protocol without hesitation. Surely, they all knew about the Department of Defense's Flu-Vaccine-Coronavirus-Infection study. If I'm wrong and I'm just a conspiracy theorist it would mean that all of the medical and infectious disease experts around the world are incompetent! That's putting it VERY politely! Which is worse? Would you rather take the side that this was planned (conspiracy)? Or would you rather just accept the fact that the FAKE MEDICAL SYSTEM is just that STUPID??

In either case, just walk away from the medical system! I did! I only have a high-deductible-health-insurance that covers catastrophic events. I love it when I walk into a clinic for lab testing and I tell them I have no insurance! Some places like Kroger's "Little Clinic" can't even set up the appointment. I get to pay in cash and there's no paper trail. They only make money if you're sick!

Catryna, I'm just blown away that we have documented research that says the Flu vaccine increases your odds of getting sick from coronaviruses significantly and yet the CDC, NIH, Fake News, and Medical System all insisted everyone get their FLU VACCINE! If Covid-19 is as deadly and infectious as they make it out to be and the flu isn't then shouldn't they be advising everyone NOT of get the Flu vaccine??? No where is this making the news!! That's premeditated murder to give a nursing home resident that's over the age of 75 a flu shot knowing it increases their odds of getting sick from the coronavirus. I guarantee you ALL nursing home residents got the flu shot way back in Sep of 2020. Now they get the Covid-19 vaccine and mysteriously contract covid-19 anyway and they die! I've had the paper version of this, as a personal medical record for years, the fact that the government wants to force you to reveal your private medical information to private companies running security and transportation systems as a condition to access a public service, is an assault on your common law rights and freedoms and represents a violation of you privacy for corporate profit, ie. forcing fraudulent medical devices on people as a condition for travel, it's no different than movie theaters searching for food, and forcing people to buy at a consession stand at extortionate prices, that same way they're over charging for fake Covid tests at the airports now. This is NOT about the greater good, or 'public health', this is a corporate conspiracy to commit an infingement on human rights purely for profit.

I do not have a cell phone. When ads come out, many specify "digital". I just go to customer service and tell them I do not have a cell phone. In every case, so far, they have given me the item at sale price. They punch in some kind of store code, so there is no tracking me.

I prefer to pay cash in many places, too. We write checks when we travel or prepay. Especially, nowadays, we do not want to be tracked. Or, at least, we want to make it back home before the governor realizes we have left the state. Avoiding large cities where there may be municipal quarantine orders.

Vaccine Coercion = Nuremberg Code Violation Any attempt at coercing people into accepting the RNA vaccine is in clear violation of the Nuremberg Code. It clearly mentions "constraint or coercion" as violations. It laid down 10 standards to which physicians must conform when carrying out experiments on human subjects: # 1) The voluntary consent of the human subject is absolutely essential. This means that the person involved should have legal capacity to give consent; should be so situated as to be able to exercise free power of choice, without the intervention of any element of force, fraud, deceit, duress, overreaching, "or other ulterior form of constraint or coercion"; and should have sufficient knowledge and comprehension of the elements of the subject matter involved as to enable him to make an understanding and enlightened decision. # 6) The degree of risk to be taken should never exceed that determined by the humanitarian importance of the problem to be solved by the experiment. This covid-19 disease with an IFR of 0.3 does NOT qualify. It would not have even been a pandemic before the 2008 changes to the definition of pandemic that required an IFR > 1.0 to be declared. Even the worst hit parts of the world are at an IFR of 0.5 so half. Reference:

www.cirp.org/.../nuremberg The FACT that this is a medical experiment is quite clear and undeniable.

All of the RNA vaccines like Moderna & Pfizer have this in common: 1) It is experimental RNA gene therapy technology NOT a standard vaccine 2) It has NEVER worked successfully in man nor beast 3) It killed the animals in 2012 when they were exposed to the wild virus 4) They skipped animal testing this time 5) Has no long term studies and the raw data from phase 2 trials is STILL not public 6) It changes you at the cellular level to produce antibodies 7) Ivermectin is vastly safer, vastly more effective & vastly cheaper and has over 14 RCT studies with DATA PUBLICLY AVAILABLE.

hi Elleanee ~ I don't know what you have understood intellectually but the snake has always fascinated the human species ~ because it renews its skin the snake was considered to have eternal life and never dies ~the caduceus and medical therapy adopted this idea of the snake's rejuvenatory ability ~ this misunderstanding imbued the snake with magical significance ~ not all snakes are defensive and the King Cobra and the Black Mamba are known to be aggressive and chase humans in order to inoculate them with venomous poison ~ this gave snakes the alternative reputation of being an enemy of human life ~

Gates wants to behave like a snake by injecting every human being with a venomous toxic brew that Gates declares is beneficial to Mankind ~ the needle of the hypodermic is just another form of snake fang that spreads poison throughout the body ~ this Gates terms as "philanthropy" ~ if you have followed my reasoning you would have seen that I compared Gates to the Black Mamba that is an attacking snake ~ the snake as a portent of evil has its roots in the oldest book of the Bible Genesis ~ I think it is fitting to describe the engineer of Mankind's Fall {which SNAKE Gates is now in the process of achieving} by the classical SYMBOL of evil ~ knowledge of the past makes understanding the present simpler ~ I understand that herpetologists might see the reptile {our ancestor according to Darwin} with more sympathy but everyone including snakes are in jeopardy from the insanity that personifies SNAKE Gates

1/ Nuremberg Code? The Constitution? The Bill of Rights? Democracy? Sorry, all that is overruled in the time of a deadly virus by concern for the health of the public and the greater good. They decide when a pandemic is upon us and no appeal is to be had. Fear is their weapon against a trusting citizenry. The new normal; no end in sight. A medical dystopia. Public servants become dictators. Dissenter are deplatformed and canceled. Certain books are no longer available to buy saving the trouble of burning them. Faceless fact checkers control public discourse.

Could it get worse? It's nothing compared to the coming big push to fight climate change. The best way to combat the spread of disease and CO2 emissions...population reduction. The One Percent, from their high perch, can see that at least 75% of humans are useless eaters living pointless lives, taking up space, endless breeding and using resources. Maybe it's 90%. We really don't need all these people. Infertility is the most humane way to proceed. Hopelessness followed by suicide is good. A virus that takes out the elderly, very good. Reduce the supply of electricity, obviously. There will be no discussion.

2/ Do a search for "John Holdren, Obama's Science Czar, says: Forced abortions and mass sterilization needed to save the planet" (pdf) - skip to pg 11... and ... "Last year, a group of 11,000 scientists signed a statement urging population control to slow human exploitation of Earth's fragile resources. With climate change finally a topic of urgent debate, some have argued that limiting population growth — if not eugenics — could be part of saving the planet." WaPo, 2020/02/17/eugenics-is-trending-thats-problem/

Look on Wikipedia for "List of organisations campaigning for population stabilisation". Population Bomb people have not gone away.

The critical report of the International Panel on Climate Change released today (October 2018) has identified high population growth as one of four "key impediments" to reaching a 1.5° limit on global warming. "At its press conference in Incheon, the panel said 'All options need to be exercised... We can make choices about how much of each option we use... but the idea you can leave anything out is impossible.' (8) The time to leave out population is long, long gone. Governments, environmental NGOs, intergovernmental organisations and us all, as individuals, must take action now."

Posted On 02/24/2021

3/ ...and... "Planet of the Humans", 2019, review – Michael Moore and Jeff Gibbs - One reviewer: "POTH offers a concise summary of the "overpopulation" theory: there are too many human beings using too much too fast. This statement, at its core, is true. In fact, this statement can even be converted to a mathematical equation.... if the "Number of people" term was to go down, then the "Total CO2 emissions" term would also decrease. Simple as that! All we need to do is lower the "number of people" to the point where "total CO2 emissions" gets small enough to avert climate change! What is there to object to?"

By the time the population understands what's afoot, it will be far too late to do anything about it. Capitalism must go, depending on endless growth as it does. Profit and private property are dirty words. Yet, you will be happy. At least half will fully support it without reservation to save the planet. Another quarter will have doubts, but be reluctant to speak up. Maybe five per cent will see it as a violation of a fundamental human rights. Reeducation will be the best outcome for this group. No dissent can be tolerated in view of the seriousness of the problem. Skeptics beware.

OTOH...look for "Empty Planet: Preparing for the Global Population Decline" on u tube. "In roughly three decades, the global population will begin to decline," say Darrell Bricker and John Ibbitson in their new book EMPTY PLANET: The Shock of Global Population Decline. "Once that decline begins, it will never end." Hope the right people read this or at least watch the video.

An employer cannot legally hang a person's job over their head by demanding that they receive an unapproved experimental drug, vaccine or any other medical procedure. It is against the law and the Nuremberg Code. If the vaccine, drug, or medical procedure is approved that is entirely a different story. Again, in the case of any of the unapproved and still experimental COVID "vaccines", no employer can force an employee to have themselves inoculated. Even half the military, at this time, have rejected the COVID shots and are allowed to by law and according to the Nuremberg Code. I believe there is one court case that has already been won in this regard. So, especially, those in the medical field have this to fall back on. We, individually and as a free people, do not have to accept experimentation on our bodies and minds under the guise of protecting the masses.

Employers can not force their employees to be vaccinated, but they can put them on unpaid leave. So the employees can be bullied into getting vaccinated in order to be allowed to earn a living. And the military can't force it soldiers to get vaccinated... yet.

As someone posted, none of this is new. It started in the early 1930s and the world stood by. The German people thought they were saved. What is difference today? The propaganda message has been spread worldwide by the media moguls. Joseph Goebbels has taught today's politicians very well! It is hard to understand what they can gain. Politicians across the globe have abandoned their elected purpose, unions have gone into hiding and truth is denied everywhere. We know all that. What we don't know is how to organise to combat it. (Check out ratical.com)

All of my friends, some I have know for almost 70 year, couldn't wait to join the lemming queue and jump off the cliff. When I say all, I mean ALL. They don't speak to me. I'm the nut job in the corner risking everyone's life. They listen only to the propaganda and absolutely refuse point blank to check out alternative news sites. They thrive on collective ignorance. There was an organised protest in Galicia, Spain against mandatory vaccination, which they have named the Auschwitz Law, which was not reported in any mainstream media. When I told my Spanish friends their reactions were of disbelief claiming, 'these people are only trouble makers!' Spain likes dictators. You know, maybe Gates and pals have a point. Maybe the world would be better off with several billion fewer total morons!

I don't understand how stupid people can be. And governments. How can they open up travel to those with vaccines when even science is saying that it is not known if vaccinated persons can still pass the virus and can still get the virus? This could lead to disastrous results but, of course, the powers that be know that the virus will probably burn itself out and also that most countries will have developed herd immunity.

Death and other known side effects are also listed in the associated FDA fact sheets. Pharma companies rationalize the possibility of death by asserting that the vaccine's benefits (it allegedly immunizes us against COVID) outweigh the risks associated with it.

"In the U.S., universities continue to institute lockdowns for students, going so far as to ban even outdoor exercise."

This provides a pretty good clue about the pathetic quality of American higher education. Of all the places where rational thought and genuine science, including social sciences, should prevail, it should be universities. Most Americans, even those with college degrees, are so mis-educated that they don't even know what fascism is. America's academic purge of real science, that is, science based on the real world, began in the late 1940s and early 1950s as part of the second "Red Scare." Today's American higher education is controlled by conservative administrators who are in it for the money and prestige.

I try to be gentle with some people and my response to their question about taking the shot. my cancer is in remission for 2 years and I am not adding anything else to cause my immune system to work overtime. My holistic doctor treats corona virus patients with anti-viral meds,,etc., and nutrition and he would help care of me, and to keep boosting my immune system, which I have been doing. My spouse doesn't believe in these "conspiracy theories" therefore, I take a great deal of grief and aggravation from him if I even dare mention something that isn't mainstream. My plan in 2006-2007 was to sell my house and a couple of rental properties, purchase some land and work to become self-sufficient like you are. Then the bubble burst and those dreams were dashed. He was amenable to the idea back then but not now. So, my house has a contract on it now with an April closing coming up if the city doesn't interfere (long story) and then I'm dropping the "D" bomb on him. I have to look out for myself and if I stay with this fool, just stick a fork in me. Anyway, thank you for your wisdom and advice, I have learned a lot.

The exception is the Prime Minister, who always has unruly hair. Meanwhile, barbers and hairdressing facilities are closed. Something doesn't add up. My Vacations-To-Go Newsletter states today (2-24-21): Crystal Cruises became the first major cruise line to announce that they would require all crew and guests to be vaccinated when sailings resume, on both their ocean-going sailings and their river cruises. Crystal joins American Queen Steamboat Company (AQSC), Victory Cruise Lines and UK-based Saga Cruises in setting this requirement, while AQSC, Celebrity, Crystal, Norwegian, Oceania, Regent, Royal Caribbean, Silversea and Victory will require their crews to be vaccinated.

Finally, the buzz continues around the development of a "vaccine passport" that could allow holders to travel domestically or internationally earlier than would otherwise be possible, until the threat from Covid-19 has substantially subsided. Iceland has announced that it will issue digital "vaccination certificates" to its citizens and recognize vaccine passports from incoming travelers. Denmark said it is developing a vaccine passport for its citizens, geared toward travel, that will be available by the end of February.

No word yet on exactly when these countries will allow vaccinated international travelers to visit but Romania and the Seychelles are already welcoming vaccinated travelers. The Seychelles no longer requires Covid-19 tests or quarantine upon arrival for visitors who can show proof of vaccination and Romania never required a Covid-19 test and has lifted its quarantine requirement for vaccinated travelers. It is not yet known whether the U.S., Canada, the U.K. or other countries will waive testing or quarantine requirements for inbound travelers who can show proof of vaccination but I will keep you posted in this newsletter.

For all who are endeavoring to help others see that there is a misinformation campaign going on, I'm offering information which could be a simple, straightforward tool to counteract the propaganda. My aim is to encourage people to keep a perspective about the media claims of massive death numbers. (I am repeating some information from an earlier post to help enough people in this community have access to it.) I calculated the increase in the death rate from 2019 to 2020 to be 0.143%. I present this with all due respect to those who lost someone last year. (I had three friends lose a parent last year, one of whom was diagnosed with covid and treated accordingly.)

0.143 is a small number. When you round that number it is 0.14. When you round that number it is 0.1. In other words, this is not one percent, but approximately one tenth of one percent. Roughly one tenth of one percent more people died last year. I will attempt to paste info from my original post below. I included how I did the calculations and the sources for the data. Run your own calculations. You can show others how the number was arrived at, show them where to get the data themselves. This is using original source CDC data, which is harder for people to refute. Numbers are provisional, and we're assuming correct. This info assumes of course that my work is correct – again, I invite you to run it yourself! Blessings to all.

Recently Dr. Mercola referred to an issue that various experts have raised that the 2020 death rate was not significantly higher compared to previous years. He had a helpful reference a couple months ago using CDC data, as of December 22, 2020 the total death count from all causes was 2,835,533. Compare that number to 2,854,838 (2019) and 2,839,205 (2018).

articles.mercola.com/sites/articles/archive/2020/12/30/coronavirus-dea.. I wanted to find the latest info.

From www.cdc.gov/.../index.htm , All Cause Total Death Rate for 2020 (provisional, data as of 2-19-21) is 3,352,08. From www.cdc.gov/.../deaths.htm 2019 death count is 2,854,838.
 $3,352,084 - 2,854,838 = 544,820$ more deaths than 2019. Since population increases every year, what is the change in the death rate? From www.worldometers.info/.../us-population , US population for 2020 is 331,002,651. $3,352,084 / 331,002,651 = 1.013\%$ died in 2020. From www.cdc.gov/.../deaths.htm , 2019 death rate was 869.7 deaths per 100,000 or 0.870%. $1.013\% - 0.870\% = 0.143\%$ increase in death rate from 2019 to 2020.

Accurate information regarding the death rate may well be one of the most important tools we have in helping alert others to the misinformation and deception crisis in which we find ourselves. To be clear, for anyone new here, the misinformation and deception crisis is being more clarified every day; it is the discrepancy between what we are being told via the news vehicles, which are no longer balanced and objective, and real science, which is being repressed. Checking and providing references is a powerful way you can stand behind what you share with people now. We are the journalists now, and we are empowered with discerning and declaring the truth.

Can you give us the 2018 numbers so we can compare the difference from 2018 to 2019 vs. the difference from 2019 to 2020?

Posted On 02/24/2021

artist.jill

I'd be happy to, and I did give the 2018 death count above, 2,839,205. I'm not a statistician, just trying to encourage people to look at these numbers themselves instead of falling under the influence of misrepresentations. The 2018 number was cited in a few of Dr. Mercola's articles and that figure plus the death rate for 2018 were available on the CDC faststats link until it was updated to reflect 2019. The 2018 death rate was 867.8.

Now, I am not trying to represent that there is no relative increase in deaths in 2020 (BTW there were 560,453 more deaths in 2020 than 2018.) Dr. Mercola has referenced the experts who point out the collateral damage deaths, that these contribute to a higher toll but may not reflect the illness per se. Also keep in mind Dr. Mike Yeadon's perspective on the variations in flu season deaths; a year with a lower flu death count has bearing on fatal outcomes in the subsequent year's flu season, and that has bearing when you try and make relative comparisons. My thought is simply that the difference between the rates from 2019 to 2020 may be possibly seen as a small number.

My larger point is that doing this work is a way to assess and support the veracity of the experts referenced here on Mercola. They have been calling out that a claim of extremely high death count is one of exaggeration as part of the propaganda campaign to benefit wealthy and powerful interests.

Dr. Mercola and posters...Can we use this to avoid forced Covid Vaccinations? This is the only paper I will be using! Emergency Use Authorization for Vaccines Explained...How will vaccine recipients be informed about the benefits and risks of any vaccine that receives an EUA? FDA must ensure that recipients of the vaccine under an EUA are informed, to the extent practicable given the applicable circumstances, that FDA has authorized the emergency use of the vaccine, of the known and potential benefits and risks, the extent to which such benefits and risks are unknown, that they have the option to accept or refuse the vaccine, and of any available alternatives to the product. Typically, this information is communicated in a patient "fact sheet." The FDA posts these fact sheets on our website. www.fda.gov/vaccines-blood-biologics/vaccines/emergency-use-authorization/.

Or if, during periods of mass arrests, as for example in Leningrad, when they arrested a quarter of the entire city, people had not simply sat there in their lairs, paling with terror at every bang of the downstairs door and at every step on the staircase, but had understood they had nothing left to lose and had boldly set up in the downstairs hall an ambush of half a dozen people with axes, hammers, pokers, or whatever else was at hand?... The Organs would very quickly have suffered a shortage of officers and transport and, notwithstanding all of Stalin's thirst, the cursed machine would have ground to a halt! I've pulled the state/state exemptions, given info on asking about MRC-5 or latrogenic reaction possibilities. Is there a forum where people can go to file a class act lawsuit? Or where others are joining together to notify local news agencies? Folks will get involved locally however, AMAZON employees are being mandated now to get vaccinated. I was watching the news the other day and there were talks about having the National Guard continue to guard the White House against further attacks by Trump supporters, and even installing retractable armored walls that could be raised from the ground to protect out leaders. Personally, I fully believe that a peaceful demonstration was infiltrated by professional rabble rousers to become violent with the dual purpose of discrediting Trump, as well as an excuse to fortify the White House from the very people it's occupants are supposed to represent and work for. Could it be that Washington fears that Americans will want to retake their freedom by force?

Often, people have two reasons for the things they do: the reason that sounds good (the one they tell others) and the real reason. Considering the infiltration that you mentioned and that virtually all the violence at demonstrations was caused by leftist protestors and leftist counter-protestors, the protecting from Trump supporters is the reason that sounds good. I'd say the real reason is they're afraid of their own leftist supporters who are starting to feel betrayed.

In the episode "The Blessing Way," from the series "The X-Files," one of the members of a group involved in the alien conspiracy, told Agent Scully, "The way to control the future is to create it." There is no doubt in my mind that Covid-19, is a man-made virus, created for the specific purpose to cause fear and rule by intimidation. The funny thing about Covid-19 is that it is probably one of the weakest of all viruses, and yet touted as to be threatening all life on the entire planet. How could such a thing be touted, when in fact 99 percent of those who contract the virus recover? The annual flu is just as deadly, but yet not touted as being life-threatening to the entire planet. Most of those who died, were already "death warmed over," by which Covid-19 was merely the straw that broke the camel's back.

My thinking is that Covid-19 was specifically created to be a weak virus, to test the effects of Glyphosate on our immune system, just to see how powerful a weak virus can cause the murder of many, just by the foods they eat, and then label it as “unintended consequences.” Despite my negative approach to Covid-19, I have a special file that has every article that has come my way involving this virus. I am a researcher, writer, commentator, blogger and author, which means I leave no stone unturned. As far as “fear” is concerned, the answer is in the movie “Dune,” when Paul Atreides, in the heat of being tested by Reverent Mother Gaius Helen Mohiam, said in his mind, “I must not fear—fear is the mind killer.”

Why are you going along with the official nonsense of virus causing illness? Dr. Rudolf Steiner proved over 100 years ago that what we term "viruses" are exosomes and can not cause anything. There can not be any transmission of anything. If anything, they are a means of ejecting toxic cellular material quickly and a signaling mechanism to other cells and organisms. So far I've not seen any mention by you of the insane atmospheric spraying of unknown particulates for decades and the insane blanketing of the earth in microwave radiation. The cables feeding the transmitters are hundreds of times larger than needed for communication signals. Astonished. you make such a good point. Everywhere you go in the UK, there are cameras, & when you're away from the all seeing eye, they can track you by your phone ! They keep pushing for us to have a smart meter, they tell me, " It will help you keep track of your power usage " (& them keep track of me) Well, I tell THEM, I'm a couple of years short of 80 years old, & I've managed all these years with finding out what I use, when the bill comes in, & I will NEVER have one. Then the Dr tells me I MUST get the so called " vaccine " as I'm at risk ! Yes I would be I said, If I took the poison ! You're a very difficult patient was the reply ! Yes I am, but at least I'm a healthy difficult one, said I ! These drugs are perfectly safe ! Oh really, well they told me that about Thalidomide, & I had to cope with the death of my baby daughter through having that !

My Sister died from the contaminated blood she was given in the 80's, & my Grandson, after being vaccinated at 3 years old, lost all control over his bodily functions. I refuse to be one of their prisoners, I refuse to use the word " Lockdown " because I'm not a prisoner, & I encourage all my friends & family to just say no...if as many people said no to the vaccine, as rush forward with their sleeves rolled up screaming "please poison me " we might just win this fight. We need to be saying We won't have a vaccine passport, & we're willing to stay home, the people like " Bore us johnson " would have to think again. My body belongs to me & God, it's not there for someone else to say what I should or shouldn't do with it. Almost 80 and a rebel, I just love it, wish there were more like me ! God Bless everyone, & remember, no-one can make you feel bad. or rule you, unless you give them your permission !

The Brits are at it again and it comes as no surprise, to me, because history does repeat itself. People all speak of the atrocities of Hitler and rightfully so. But, Hitler and his regime only existed for 15 years and surprisingly he got his most disgusting ideas from Great Britain and the USA. Let that sink in. In comparison, Great Britain and their atrocities have existed for 500+ years and their iron fist expanded into the Americas, Canada, Australia, India, Africa and beyond. If any nation has proved themselves to be dishonorable, disgusting, brutal, and perverted it is the nation that has boasted , "The sun never sets on the British Empire."

The people of Great Britain have a pretty sorry record as defenders of freedom and other legitimate individual rights, except for their own-- though that has increasingly not been the case since the end of WWII. For example (one of many I can proffer), that thing called "The Raj" (1600-1947) comes to my mind. No, readers, I am not from India.

...so before I am allowed to travel to be with family, eat out, or go to the gym, I will be forced to buy and carry a PHONE for proof of an unnecessary, unwanted required vaccine..? :-)

I have heard many doctors, scientists, researchers and lawyers, all state that covid is the biggest HOAX of all time...all of this tyranny over the COMMON COLD! When, in history, have we ever been "tested" for the common cold? How about NEVER - until this current insanity I am NOT sick and the "authorities" need to stay out of my life!

They need to stay out of our lives yes, but they will not is the problem as you know! I've seen nothing yet that is slowing this intended agenda and if anything its ramping up. My guess is in next month or two the real push to squeeze the resisters will be set into motion especially with the mongers pushing the vaccine coercion upon all those who have yet to taken injection. They have held off "truly" pushing this narrative of all will need it, but its coming. If you don't they will turn their zombie msm followers upon us resisters ostracizing us even more. I know you know all of this...

Brodie; thanks for the reply. Here's the rub...as long as the zombie masses are willing participants in this insanity (muzzled, everywhere they go!), the evil agendas will continue - right up to; and including Transhumanism! It's a very deep rabbit hole!

Please, please get together with Barbara Fisher and others and try to go before Congress to get the vaccine situation (in general) made to be one of choice. We're going to have a Great Granddaughter in July and I know there will be years before she starts school but the schools here in the State of Texas require the children have all the injections on the Childhood Schedule and I don't believe (as many) that there's any vaccine that's safe. All of them contain adjuvants the body doesn't recognize and know how to deal with; and since the 10.5 year study has been done showing the unvaccinated children are much healthier, this is what our choice will be but we know something's going to have to be done in order for us to be able to have that choice. Here's the article on the study: Ten year study shows that UNVACCINATED are far healthier than their vaccinated peers who suffer from more respiratory infections, asthma, allergies, etc.

I like it when Dr. Mercola, gets cranked up. What does "the pharmaceutical companies have NO liability mean?"

They have been made exempt from any lawsuits arising from vaccine failure or injury.
