Pop quiz: During their clinical trial...

If Pfizer insists that certain unvaccinated persons who come into contact with a vaccinated person creates a...

SAFETY SITUATION that must be reported to Pfizer within 24 hours...

Would you say that implies...

The transfer of vaccine components from person to person can occur?

If you answered YES, you win four tickets to Oobladee, a little-known island nation where vaccines are forbidden and the people naturally remain healthy and live to a ripe old age.

Here is a Pfizer document, admitting and warning of person-to-person transfer of dangerous vaccine components [1]: “A PHASE 1/2/3, PLACEBO-CONTROLLED, RANDOMIZED, OBSERVER-BLIND, DOSE-FINDING STUDY TO EVALUATE THE SAFETY, TOLERABILITY, IMMUNOGENICITY, AND EFFICACY OF SARS-COV-2RNA VACCINE CANDIDATES AGAINST COVID-19 IN HEALTHY INDIVIDUALS,” (see page 67).

I’m going to take this in small chunks, and translate the fake-speak clinical language as we go along.

“Exposure to the study intervention under study during pregnancy or breastfeeding and occupational exposure are reportable to Pfizer Safety within 24 hours of investigator awareness.”

Archives

Select Month

The “study intervention” means the RNA COVID shot. That’s what the study is FOR—intervening with a jab. “Hi, I’m your intervener, you’re a volunteer in the clinical trial, and I’m going to hit you in the arm with this needle and inject you.”

“Exposure” to the shot doesn’t mean injection. It means somebody who hasn’t been injected gets physically close to somebody who has been injected. Or it could mean an un-injected person touches vaccine-liquid from a vial.

And that un-injected somebody would be a woman who is pregnant or breastfeeding. For example, she could be a lab worker, or a person who is giving the shots.

If THIS exposure event happens, it’s a safety situation, and it has to be reported within 24 hours.

A lab worker who is pregnant or breastfeeding gets physically close to a person who has received the vaccine and BANG, it's serious, and it has to be reported.

Why? Because, obviously, there is a potential danger to the unborn baby. Or the mother, who is already breastfeeding her baby, could pass this danger to the baby through her breast milk.

The woman just came physically close to a person who already received the vaccine. That's all. That's all that happened. But it's enough. It means THERE CAN BE A TRANSFER OF VACCINE COMPONENTS FROM PERSON TO PERSON, AND THIS IS NOT GOOD, THIS IS DANGEROUS TO PREGNANT AND BREASTFEEDING

MOTHERS AND THEIR BABIES.

Here is the next piece of the Pfizer document. It's crucial:

“An EDP [exposure to the vaccine during pregnancy] occurs if a male participant who is receiving or has discontinued study intervention exposes a female partner prior to or around the time of conception.”

This is a dangerous situation, too. A man who did get the shot then gets physically close to his female partner, who didn't get the shot. This doesn't necessarily mean sex. It means close physical contact. But the warning is obviously all about danger to the woman who is going to conceive a child or has just conceived, and the warning is also about a danger to that child. Some kind of severe injury. Or a miscarriage. Again, the document is obviously referring to the transfer of vaccine components from a vaccinated to unvaccinated person.

And then, in the Pfizer document, we find an example of this dangerous, immediately reportable situation: "A female family member or healthcare provider reports that she is pregnant after having been exposed to the study intervention by inhalation or skin contact...."

Here, as plain as day, we see two meanings of "come in close contact with."

Inhalation, and skin contact. Do not assume this has to mean physically rubbing up against or breathing in the liquid in the vaccine vial. Go back and read the other quotes I gave you from the Pfizer document. They are clearly talking about something much different. They're talking about close contact between PEOPLE, one of whom has ALREADY had the shot, and one who hasn't.

They're talking about vaccine components passing from the inside of one person's body to another person.

Call it shedding, call it transfer, call it transmission, call it whatever you want to. Pfizer was clearly worried about it, because they insisted that any such occurrence had to be reported to company safety personnel.

They were aware that damage could be the result. Damage to mothers conceiving, mothers pregnant, mothers who are breastfeeding, and damage to babies.

Through person to person passage of components in the vaccine.

A person might object, saying, "Well, maybe the pregnant woman had skin contact with someone who was just vaccinated, and the vaccinated person has a small amount of vaccine on his skin, because that tiny amount of liquid somehow escaped from the needle during injection."

That's highly doubtful. And if you go back and read the Pfizer statement about the man who received the vaccine and then had close contact with his female partner, there is no time line mentioned. A) He received the shot and then b) at some point later, he came into close contact with his female partner. It could be days later, weeks later. There would be no amount of vaccine left on his skin.

We ARE talking about the passage of vaccine components from the inside of one person's body to another person.

Strange that they would be so concerned for the safety of the unvaccinated, and at the same time have no compunction about putting this dangerous untested stuff into a good chunk of the planet. Makes no sense. Unless you see their endeavor as a kind of secret society ritual and not science. The Initiated must be careful not to pass any "secrets" (secretions?) to the Uninitiated. The medicos possess the secrets which must be protected. The magic ingredient is foreign to nature, patented, and transforms humans into something incompatible with natural biology.

I think it is probably simply explained by considering that they genuinely wanted uncontaminated results from these studies. Now, we know they were testing the lethality of the death shot, but how could they be certain of the mortality and morbidity rate without ensuring the integrity of the control group...? That is all this is. Not concern for the safety of unvaccinated participants, but concern for the reliability of the results.

They also needed to ensure the shot would have an incubation period; can't have all the human subjects drop dead within days like the ferrets did. That would be too obvious if rolled out in the general population.

Greg, ponder this one: Big pharma is protected against lawsuits re injury from vaccines injected, but if someone was not vaccinated and is injured (kinda like 2nd hand smoke, only in this case vaccine) by their product, are they in that case exempt from lawsuits, or not? I betcha not and their "concern" is a legal – aka $$$$$ – issue. And yes, it is surely a form of satanic ritual abuse to inject lethal substances into live persons in the hopes of changing their DNA into a new and different expression that can be patented and thereby OWNED by the patent holder.

This idea of the unvaccinated "catching" something deep within the cells of the vaccinated is nothing less than spreading fearmongering – the fear that even those who refuse the injection will still become contaminated. The "safety" warning they want reported is just another form of CONTACT TRACING.

Fear is fear and this is just another form of it.

On May 4, 2021 I had a root canal done. Un-vaxx'd me.

The endodontist and her assistant were fully inoculated with the experimental injection. They worked a long time on my tooth, well over an hour.

The following day, the first symptom I had of this 'shedding' was that I began vomiting. This was followed by spitting up quite a bit of blood, followed by menstrual cramps (when I've left menopause far far behind) and so on.

Then it was as if I'd been bitten by a tse-tse fly, because a sleeping sickness took over me. I still vomited from time to time, when I've long bragged that I have a cast iron stomach. I mean NOTHING makes me throw up. Anyway, I slept around the clock for a couple of months. During that sleep time, I became ill, but not the sort of ill one normally associates with, say, a virus.

It was just a horrible
feeling, unreal, otherworldly. It was as if my

Two days

had no

appetite. The next day, his older sister also came down with the fever and then both started producing the same sores all over the body that the baby had. Six additional people at the party, 2 adults and 4 children, also came down with the exact same symptoms. Just to give you some background, my neighbor's two children are unvaccinated and eat over 80% organically. What happened to them? And why did it only affect 8 people total, the majority of them

children?
And, does it make it less real because the majority of the participants
at the party
did NOT get sick? I'm honestly asking your opinion
because I find myself questioning

yet when I hear stories like this, I have to consider that maybe it isn't all black

I would like you to consider that
YOUR

OMG... I had something similar a couple of months ago, I don't really know how it started. But all I could do was sleep I would work and sleep and that's it I almost gave up on my life it was an awful dark heavy feeling. I don't know what I did to come by that but one day I woke up and it was just a light switch had gone on in my brain and I was all right again. I still am very tired all of the time. I am unvaccinated. I just hope I haven't been permanently damaged

Marilyn...I also had a weird 'sleeping sickness last spring (3/20/20), extreme fatigue, slept on the couch most of the day, then got up and went to bed. Slept till Noon everyday. Thankfully, I shook mine in about 3 weeks. I started taking Quercetin, Zinc, 6,000 Vit-D3 and 3,000 Vit -C. I now take an Ivermectin+ cocktail made by a compounding pharmacy as prescribed by my Osteopath Doctor.

I would get blood work done and/or a scan of your jaw. It may be possible you still have infection from your bad tooth. I never knew it till a few years ago, but a serious tooth infection/abscess can actually kill you if left untreated.

unusual symptoms
for me, appeared to not be associated with my normal
illness/symptomns.
Main one was bone-
tired fatigue, body
pains and aches, and at one point mild
fever.

2nd and 3rd times I was exposed to Thai people who had presumably been vaxxed (tho I can't confirm) – I also got very intense and unusual symptoms for me – a couple of days of fatigue, unusual sensations in my heart/chest area and headaches...

Only sharing because I hope it helps people be able to recognise the symptoms of what might be spike protein transmission.

It would seem to me, the molecules of the components are transferring by hitching onto the water (humidity) in the air, and move into the eyes and respiratory system of one or more of those standing by. However, it would affect each person differently.

So if you agree with the so called shedding, you must also believe in infectious diseases. Or are you agreeing that micro particles can somehow be transferred from person to person through the air and cause symptoms in the infected? Are you suggesting that the nanoparticles are infectious? Please elaborate.

That's a very valid question. Trees communicate with each other through fungi, warning of impending danger from pests and the like, giving the trees opportunity to create a hostile situation for the pest to ensure the tree's survival. Do humans, through the quantum field we are all connected to, communicate through exosomes possibly, warning other humans of some impending toxicity in the environment, which would then start the process of cells dumping their garbage to help tackle the new onslaught. Or, is there really a germ that spreads? I dunno...

The argument against viruses is that the viruses do not possess the ability to override the human cell and cause disease. Viruses are waste products so it can contribute to or trigger an toxic overload or detox event in another person who accumulates too much toxins.

These nanoparticles used in these injections for delivery of the mRNA are known toxins. The spike proteins produced by the cells via mRNA injection are also toxins and can directly damage the cells upon contact.

Also, like

But both are false beliefs.

What is a "vaccine particle"? Define it.

Is it the spike protein the recipient is allegedly manufacturing? Or is it the excretion of toxins from the injected?

If the latter, how could a toxic excretion affect the uninjected? If you were poisoned by pesticides and were excreting

toxins
through your skin, lungs,
liver or kidneys,
would those near you be affected? No.
They would have to ingest or inject that excreted
toxin.

If it's the former,
firstly there's no solid evidence that there is a spike
protein being manufactured
by the shot
recipients.

Secondly,
if a protein
is being created, it's likely that specific organs are the targets
and it can't shed from people's breath or saliva.

Lastly, and most importantly, as I explained further up the thread, our mucosal barrier and enzymes break down all foreign DNA, RNA and proteins. Proteins are nothing more than amino acid chains.

There is nothing to fear except fear itself, generated from the fear narratives.

Two questions here:

If the pharmaceutical companies are not liable for damages incurred by those vaccinated by their product, are they liable for the damages of those unvaccinated persons harmed by the "transmission"

described in this article?

What is the effect on the wildlife and environment of all the pee and poop entering the lifestream from all those that have been vaccinated?

In 2018, this flu study was making the rounds on FB, showing that those who are vaccinated are 6x more likely to spread the flu than the unvaccinated.

<https://www.pnas.org/content/pnas/early/2018/01/17/1716561115.full.pdf>
from the study:

we observed 6.3 (95% CI 1.9–21.5) times more aerosol shedding among cases with vaccination in the current and previous season compared with having no vaccination in those two seasons.

What's interesting is that after the study came out, the spin doctors in the media made NO mention of the fact that it was the vaccinated who were most likely spreading the flu. They blamed it on the unvaccinated and even added a the caveat that based on the study, it is now important than ever for people to get their flu vaccine.

Thank you!

People who'd had organ transplants are warned to stay away from people who have been given live virus vaccines such as measles; the recommended time for avoidance is three weeks.

A close relative who accepted the anti-covid vaccine had not had a menstrual period for 9 months. After injection, without warning, she was temporarily bedridden with huge blood clots that wouldn't stop coming. About two weeks after that I injured my ankle; although the wound was tiny, it bled copiously until a pressure bandage was applied. Lotsa blood all over the floor – or more accurately, blood clots all over the floor. I wondered then if I had somehow become infected by my relative or another vaccinated person.

In a brief updated on Friday, the CDC says that people are most likely to contract COVID-19 when they are within 6 feet of an infected person. However, the organization says, infected people can also release "very fine droplets and aerosol particles" that form when those droplets dry. Those droplets "are small enough that they can remain suspended in the air for minutes to hours," the CDC says.

Why does this article center mostly on “pregnant women”???

Vaccines, ANY VACCINES, can shed to anyone coming in close contact with a person who has been recently vaccinated. It doesn't just mean pregnant women, although they are quite susceptible, but so is anyone else.

This is particularly why the Biden admin is pushing these vax NOW. They don't want people to understand the concept of vaccine transmission through actual SHEDDING processes.

You need to be more clear about this situation, Jon. And I can tell you for a fact that right now, you can't find a damned thing online about this subject. The dimpocraps are hiding facts and so is THE SCIENCE. I have no idea why they would try to hide the truth but apparently this poisonous shot is VERY IMPORTANT to the Biden administration because it NEEDS to be given to everyone for their own political reasons. It has nothing at all to do with the health of our nation's people. If it REALLY had something to do with health, rather than deaths they can accumulate by giving the shot, that border-crossing loving administration would certainly be requiring it for all the illegal aliens coming across the border. In fact, it would be the very first thing required.

Those jerks can fool some of the people some of the time, but they cannot fool everyone. Especially not those of us who have actually studied this subject LONG before covid/corona crap came along.

It's a ruse to get people to take what can ultimately be a deadly vaccine. WHY do you think biden et al are pushing for this so hard? It isn't because they "CARE" so much about you and yours, that's for certain.

ADDENDUM TO MY LAST COMMENT:

I found this explanation at a dictionary site and decided to share the link. There are 4 distinct meanings of viral shedding and what it means; in this case the 4th meaning is the closest to what we have going on in the world of insanity right now.

I hope everyone can finally understand this subject without relying on POLITICS and POLITICIANS to define medicine for you. That's kinda like going to a gas station for a physical check-up for YOU, not your car. But right now the medical industry is also lying, so you must find your information elsewhere (like hardcover books, dictionaries, medical dictionaries, etc., because places like wikipedia, et al, at NOT going to be giving out truthful information

Hi,

I think you have to distinguish, that the theory of infectious diseases is tied to the germ theory. (ie. because someone has germs or bacteria he gave it to my and now I'm sick) versus the terrain theory that said independently of the germs around that you can receive (ie being transferred from contact with others) you will not be sick if your terrain, (aka, body and immune system is healthy). This means that sickness is not 'transmitted'. However the terrain theory includes the notion that something can be transmitted.

Therefore one can say there is no virus being transmitted to create a disease and there are particulates that can be transmitted.

I personally have been exposed to 3 persons that I know of that have been jabbed. As an energy healer, caring highly for my health I take lots of supplements and use detox protocols regularly. After a 30-45 minutes with those vaxxed, I felt side effects that I would described as pins & needles in different places of my body with dry throat during their presence. Most of the symptoms died after 2-4 days with high vitamin C, some D and my detox protocol.

As I work with energy and I am an EMF sensitive, these symptoms were to me exactly the same as when I stand long hours in 4G, 5G wifi loaded areas. It does feel to me as some type of radiation.

I think these people are getting their energy fields changed somehow, and perhaps the phenomena is amplified by 5G rollout every where, plus some toxic crap that they shed through skin and air. With evil doers I don't exclude anything.

For years as I was teaching to kids in school, every time they got their flu shots, I had flu, allergy reaction.

I think it is very possible that these vax are a gathering of all the crappy stuff they put into past vaccines, plus heavy metals plus dead cells (as they like to play with the occult). We're getting a big load of ... — Yet I am certain that if we boost our immunity, harmonize with our spirit and increase our energy fields we will get through that.

Yes. The injected are more likely to be emitting radiation. There's no chance they can shed a spike protein. Even if they could, it wouldn't affect anyone. Foreign proteins can't harm or infect others.

However, terrain theory is not based on transmission of microbes at all, rather that the microbes are all created internally. They're pleomorphic

and change
shape and type, based upon the health of the terrain.

So there's no contagion or transmission
in terrain
theory.

There's a combination of terrain
and germ theory being pushed where the allopathic medical community are trying to claim that it's one's terrain or immune system that determines if the germ
makes one susceptible
but there's zero evidence for that being the case.

You do hear people in alt-media saying this is still in "Clinical Trials" but you don't hear much talk about the fact that some or many are likely getting a Placebo—part of every clinical trial.

Below is an NIH doc, where they say outright this thing is "A PHASE 1/2/3, PLACEBO-CONTROLLED, RANDOMIZED, OBSERVER-BLIND, DOSE-FINDING STUDY TO EVALUATE THE SAFETY, TOLERABILITY, IMMUNOGENICITY, AND EFFICACY OF SARS-COV-2 RNA VACCINE CANDIDATES AGAINST COVID-19 IN HEALTHY INDIVIDUALS." Start date is April 29, 2020. End date is May 2, 2023.

How many people have been told by their doctors (or whoever's giving the shot) that it's a Trial? That they MIGHT be getting a Placebo? They call it an "observer-blind" study which I presume is another way of saying "double-blind."

I've seen nothing in the mainstream media that this is even a trial, let alone that people are being TOLD about it.

My shingles only lasted two weeks, which was good news. I never want the covid vaxxine, but just maybe I got it anyway?

I have read accounts of babies dying from bloodclots after drinking the breastmilk of vaccinated mothers.

I've also read accounts of women miscarrying after being exposed to vaccinated people.

Pine needle tea and dandelion tea supposedly are protective against transference of the spike protein.

Vaccine shedding may be fake. The alternative theory is Graphene Oxide might be "shedding". If GO coursing through someone's body causes harmful EMF, then that could possibly affect someone else as well. Our cells use EMF to communicate with each other as well.

Renz now says more than 45,000 Americans have died from the shots:

This "shedding" effect is a problem. How ironic: last year we would have used buses (because there is no virus) but they didn't let us unmaskers in – now there is no mask mandate anymore, but should we use buses filled with vaccinated people? If we are allowed to now, it probably would be the wrong thing to do!? This really needs to be sorted out.

The Alberta [Canada} Government was recently requested to produce evidence exhibiting the covid virus exists. An Alberta resident was fined $1200. for being in a group with over 10 persons. He challenged the Courts; simply asking for proof of the isolated virus, the core culprit deemed responsible for his violation. The Provincial Court advised him to subpoena the Ministry of Health for the elusive evidence. They subsequently recommended the case be transferred to the Supreme Court of Canada; whose deity they serve happens to be the Elizabeth, Queen of the British Commonwealth. When the Bard said all the worlds a stage, he evidently was quite right. These proceedings ought to be closely watched globally. The video clip with the targeted individual explains the situation:

Another thing to consider:

When one of those NOT-“vaccine” components is Hydrogel – which is supposed to be a composition of the various proteins and lipid-based substances – combined or “encapsulated” within a “shell” or “envelope” made from Graphenes – does this not allude to the existence of a synthetic "virus" that was created via a computer viral-RNA/DNA-modeling program? ? ?

Does this not also allude the possibility that this "synthetic virus" (as in: "mRNA active principals") is largely the "agent" that is being incidentally-"shared" between vaxxed and NOT-vaxxed? ? ?

Isn't this also how certain chemical and radiological contaminants are also spread within a population? ? ? (Take a look at how AGENT ORANGE even affected those who were not directly exposed to it, but exposed to those who WERE!)

I never did buy the "theory" of "viruses" being so easily spread by simply breathing, or this B-S about "aerosolized viral particles" being possible from "asymptomatic carriers". – That's all political SCARE-FARE in my book!

My concern is the spreading of contaminants – in which the human body DOES sweat out some of the contaminants that it has been exposed to. It is not a far stretch to suggest that these shedding contaminants could not so easily, themselves, become aerosolized from evaporation from the skin AND also from one's breath. Therefore, NO FACE-COVERINGS, to include the KN-95 ones, would stop others from inhaling these chemical contaminants! The ONLY way to prevent this form of cross-contamination, is by wearing a completely air-tight CHEM-BIOHAZARD suit, with a thoroughly-filtered air supply. Any military "NBC-trained" soldier could tell you that! (PSSST! I am one of those so-trained folks.)

The other aspect that I am very aware of, is the subject of "flying syringes" – the colorful description of using biting GMO-insects to deliver "vaccines" to the population. This puts another perspective to the questions surrounding the sudden appearance of LYME DISEASE – when no such illness as described had existed before in that region, as well "Chikungunya" from the Lone-Star Tick (which also did not evidence any existence several years ago). – Seems that the US BIO-WARFARE RESEARCH PROJECTS have been on-going in-country, even after their supposed prohibition by "laws"? ? ?

These "novel insect-borne diseases" present another very dark side behind the CHEM-BIO research that favors the profitability of the "big pharma" companies (as well as the Malthusian-Eugenics crowd)? ? ?

I also did a little bit of digging into the infamous "Yellow Fever" illness that struck so many of the workers during the building of the PANAMA CANAL PROJECT: The "reported" history of it is NOT what it seems either! It more likely seems that these "Yellow Fever outbreaks", there, occurred shortly AFTER a "vaccination campaign" against such (also spearheaded by the Rockefeller medical trusts)!

The "Smallpox" outbreaks were nearly over and done – well BEFORE – any mass-vaccination campaign was underway! – The very same could said of Polio!

Instead,

Shortly after the "vaccination campaigns" against these two "diseases" – it seems that the infection rates from them actually CLIMBED up again – as well as – the rates of other chronic and serious injuries and conditions shortly after "vaccinations", too (like cancers, etc).

So now,

It seems that the "insect vector" has become a very lucrative and very plausible means of purposefully-infecting and sickening the populations. THIS was also extensively researched through DARPA grants and funding! ! !

So,

The "shedding vaccines" (and NOT-"vaccines") angle is very plausible, as even some of the researchers involved have expressed this as a desirable effect!

What we have here,

Is a huge thrust into the realms of insanity on the part of these researchers, "scientists", and the various funding mechanisms – to actively DENY the right to genuine, natural health. See how hard it is to find very much of the natural remedies as well as the real workable nutritional standards we once understood. – To this day, I can NOT even find anything about the old “Recommended Daily Allowance” schedule ANYWHERE on-line! I have tried searching and searching-again for several years – but only turn up the most current “nutrition schedule”, which is actually a recipe for chronic (and deliberate) malnutrition of the human population!

This Pfizer document, taken together with the exposure of their one-sided, and very COERCIVE “purchaser agreement” (as exposed by someone in Albania, and translated into English) that they pressure nations to sign – as a precondition to buy their NOT-“vaccines” is an absolute mind-blower – to ANYONE with any sense of right and wrong left within them! ! !

So,

Thank you once again, Jon – for a most-informative article (and including the downloadable document link – for however long it will remain valid) into the ghastly practices of one of “big pharma’s” most horrible, criminally-corrupt organizations that boggles that mind! Johnson &

Johnson, Merck, Eli Lilly,
ALL of them should be charged under a global equivalent of our own
R.I.C.O. Statutes! –
However, I be dreaming! I know THIS will never happen!

I have read the Pfizer protocol, which I can guarantee most who comment here have not, and my conclusions are not as dramatic nor do the page numbers match what you reference. While I have no time for the experimental poison masquerading as a drug. The protocol seems a standard boiler plate cut-and-paste for any trials. Remove "drug for stupidity" and insert Covid-19 and what is the difference? None. It's a boiler plate, not momentous news.
