Description

Unlike digestive enzymes that you take at mealtime to help digest food, proteolytic, or fibrinolytic, enzymes are powerful protein-dissolving enzymes taken between meals or at bedtime to help support healthy blood flow as well as the proper function of your tissues, organs and immune system.

Your body naturally produces these types of enzymes, but factors like aging, poor diet, smoking and genetics can limit your body's production. As part of the normal aging process, you lose enzyme activity as you grow older.

A supplemental fibrinolytic enzyme used for over 30 years in Europe and Asia, serrapeptase has been found to support:

- A normal inflammatory response.*
- Healthy immune function.*
- Sinus and respiratory health.*
- Joint comfort and mobility.*
- Cardiovascular health and blood pressure levels already in the normal range.*
- Sleep health and energy.*

Our unique Serrapeptase Enzymes formula provides activity from both serrapeptase and a bacterial protease from Bacillus subtilis, another protein-dissolving enzyme that works synergistically with serrapeptase.

Each delayed release capsule provides 20,000 SPU of Serrapeptase and 40,000 SPU of Protease for a total of 60,000 SPU of synergistic standardized activity per capsule. Support your healthy cellular aging, overall immune health and more with Serrapeptase Enzymes, and order your supply today.
