

The Strangely Unscientific Masking Of America

by Tyler Durden
Sat, 11/28/2020 - 21:00

Authored by Jenin Younes via The American Institute for Economic Research,

I remember vividly the day, at the tail end of March, when facemasks suddenly became synonymous with morality: either one cared about the li others and donned a mask, or one was selfish and refused to do so. The shift occurred virtually overnight.

Only a day or two before, I had associated this attire solely with surgeons and people living in heavily polluted regions. Now, my friends' favorite pastime during our weekly Zoom sessions was excoriating people for running or socializing without masks in Prospect Park. I was mystified by the certitude that bits of cloth were the only thing standing between us and mass death, particularly when mere weeks prior, the message from medic experts contradicted this new doctrine.

On February 29, the U.S. surgeon general infamously tweeted:

"Seriously people - STOP BUYING MASKS. . . They are NOT effective in preventing general public from catching #Coronavirus."

Anthony Fauci, the best-known member of the coronavirus task force, advised Americans not to wear masks around this time.

Similarly, in the earliest weeks of the pandemic, the CDC maintained that masks should be worn only by individuals who were symptomatic or caring for a sick person, a position that the WHO stood by even longer.

As rapidly as mask use became a matter of ethics, the issue transformed into a political one, exemplified by an article printed on March 27 in the York Times, entitled "More Americans Should Probably Wear Masks for Protection." The piece was heavy on fear-mongering and light on evidence. While acknowledging that "[t]here is very little data showing that flat surgical masks, in particular, have a protective effect for the general public," the author went on to argue that they "may be better than nothing," and cited a couple of studies in which surgical masks ostensibly reduced influenza transmission rates.

One report reached its conclusion based on observations of a "dummy head attached to a breathing simulator." Another analyzed use of surgical r on people experiencing at least two symptoms of acute respiratory illness. Incidentally, not one of these studies involved cloth masks or accounter real-world mask usage (or misuse) among lay people, and none established efficacy of widespread mask-wearing by people not exhibiting symptoms. There was simply no evidence whatsoever that healthy people ought to wear masks when going about their lives, especially outdoors. Yet by April, to walk the streets of Brooklyn with one's nose and mouth exposed evoked the sort of reaction that in February would have been reserved for the appearance of a machine gun.

In short order, the politicization intensified. President Trump refused to wear a mask relatively early on, so resistance to them was equated with support for him. By the same token, Democratic politicians across the board eagerly adopted the garb; accordingly, all good liberals were wearing masks religiously by the beginning of April. Likewise, left-leaning newspapers such as the New York Times and the Washington Post unequivocally promoted mask-wearing after that March 27 article, with no real analysis or consideration of opposing views and evidence.

The speed with which mask-wearing among the general public transitioned from unheard of to a moral necessity struck me as suspicious all, if the science was as airtight as those around me claimed, surely masks would have been recommended by January or February, not to mention during prior infectious disease outbreaks such as the 2009 swine flu. It seemed unlikely that the scientific proof became incontrovertible sometime between late February and late March, particularly in the absence of any new evidence surfacing during that time period.

Perhaps none of this is particularly surprising in this hyper-political era. What is shocking is the scientific community's participation in subvert evidence that does not comport with the consensus. A prime example is the Institute of Health Metrics Evaluation's ("IHME") rather astounding c published in the journal Nature-Medicine and echoed in countless articles afterward, that the lives of 130,000 people could be saved with a nation mask mandate.

As my colleague Phil Magness pointed out in an op-ed in the Wall Street Journal, the IHME model was predicated upon faulty data: it assumed that 49% of Americans were wearing masks based on a survey conducted between April and June, while claiming that statistic represented the number of Americans wearing masks as of September 21. In fact, by the summer, around 80% of Americans were regularly wearing them. (Ironically, had I, Dr. Fauci and the Surgeon General not bungled the message in March, mask use probably would have reached much higher rates much earlier on).

This called into question the accuracy of the 130,000 figure, since many more people habitually used masks than the study presumed.

Although Magness contacted Nature-Medicine to point out the problem, after stalling for nearly two weeks, the journal declined to address it. Need to say, the damage had been done: newspapers such as the New York Times undoubtedly would fail to correct the error and any retractions certainly would be placed far from the front page, where the initial article touting the IHME figure appeared. Thus, as expected, the unfounded claim that 130,000 lives could be saved with a nationwide mask-mandate continues to be repeated, including by president-elect Joe Biden and National Institute of Health Director Francis Collins.

That the science behind mask-wearing is questionable at best is further exemplified by a letter to the editor written in response to Magness's. Dr. Christopher Murray acknowledged that rates of mask-wearing have steadily increased, but then concluded that masks should be used because they are "our first line of defense against the pandemic" and current IHME modeling indicates that "if 95% of U.S. residents were to wear masks when leaving home, we could prevent the deaths of tens of thousands of Americans" because "masks work," and "much deeper pain is ahead if we refuse to wear them."

None of this accounts for the failure of either Nature-Medicine or the IHME modelers to recognize and correct the error. Moreover, neither the IHME modelers nor Dr. Murray provide any evidence that masks work. They assume masks are extremely effective at preventing spread of the coronavirus, and then claim that the model is correct for that reason. This sort of circular reasoning is all-too typical of those who so vociferously insist that masks are effective without going to the trouble of substantiating that contention – or differentiating what is likely a modest benefit from mask-wearing in specific indoor locations and around high-risk individuals from the media-driven tendency to depict masks as a silver bullet for stopping the virus in all circumstances.

Coverage of a recent mask study conducted in Denmark likewise epitomizes the failure of the scientific community to rigorously engage with results that do not fit the prevailing masks-as-a-panacea narrative. The first randomized and controlled study of its kind, it found an absence of empirical evidence that masks provide protection to people wearing them, although it apparently did not assess whether they prevent infection of those who encounter the wearer. The report was covered in a New York Times article bearing the patronizing headline, "A New Study Questions Whether Masks Protect Wearers. You Need to Wear Them Anyway."

Noting that the results "conflict with those from a number of other studies," primarily "laboratory examinations of the particles blocked by masks of various types," the author remarked that, therefore, this research "is not likely to alter public health recommendations in the United States." Notably, laboratory examinations, as opposed to the Danish study, do not account for the realities of everyday mask usage by non-medical professionals.

The author then quotes Susan Ellenberg, a biostatistician at the University of Pennsylvania, who claims that the study indicates a trend: "in the direction of benefit' even if the results were not statistically significant. 'Nothing in this study suggests . . . that it is useless to wear a mask" according to Dr. Ellenberg.

Nor does anything in this study suggest that it is useful to wear a mask, a fact that Dr. Ellenberg (and the headline) conveniently ignores. Furthermore, if a result is statistically insignificant, it should not be used to make the case for any proposition — as even I, a layperson, know.

Scientists ought to dispassionately analyze data that contradicts their biases and assumptions, and be open to changing their beliefs accordingly. That the results of the only randomized, controlled study were and continue to be automatically discounted demonstrates that, when it comes to the use of masks, anything approximating the scientific method has gone out the window. That is all the more evident given the lack of interest that mask proponents have shown in conducting a randomized, controlled study themselves.

An article in the Los Angeles Times went even further: it twisted the findings of the Danish study to argue, incomprehensibly, that the research demonstrated more mask-wearing is warranted. The author cited, as supposedly compelling evidence that masks work, the low Covid-19 death rates in Singapore, Vietnam, and Taiwan. Indeed, according to the latest YouGov poll, administered in mid-November, 83% of Americans now wear masks in public, higher rates than Vietnam (77%) and Taiwan (82%).

Furthermore, there are other explanations, apart from widespread mask usage, for the remarkably low death rates in these countries. Some scientists believe that previous exposure to other coronaviruses in these regions may confer partial or total immunity to SARS-CoV-2. Others have speculated obesity, environment or genetics could be the reason that Europe and the United States have substantially higher death rates than many Asian and African countries; after all, obesity is one of the most significant risk factors for severe illness.

To conclude on the basis of low death rates in several countries that masks prevent coronavirus transmission is patently absurd, illogical, and unscientific. A casual observer might also note that coronavirus cases (albeit not necessarily deaths) are rising in many parts of the world, regardless of mask mandates or rates of implementation. While not a controlled experiment, this fact at least ought to be addressed when making such sweeping claims.

Ultimately, I do not have the credentials to determine whether or not – or to what extent — masks work. But it is obvious that the issue has become politicized that mainstream media outlets, politicians, and even scientists seize upon the slightest bit of favorable evidence, dismiss out of hand anything that conflicts with their theory, and most egregiously of all misrepresent the data, to support the conclusion that masks work asymptomatic people prevent coronavirus transmission.

And masks are only one part of this story: school closures, lockdowns, and social distancing all have been dogmatically embraced as a means of controlling infection. The substantial evidence that these mechanisms are not effective, particularly beyond their duration, has been automatically rejected for too long. This is not science: it is politics, and those within the profession who have refused to examine their own biases, or manipulated the evidence to score political points, are utterly unqualified for the job.

The Eyes Wide Shut Zorro Mask . There is a strong connection and amusement among the top globalist, the Zorro Mask and the Jeffe Epstein Zorro Ranch in New Mexico. Zorro Ranch is located a bit west of Roswell (UFO), a bit north of Albuquerque, it is located at the southern entrance to the San Luis Valley. In that Valley is the Sangre de Cristo mountain range and the Baca Grande Ranch which is v communications with non-humans brought into being the atom bomb which has been the most powerful concept to capture the mir man for the past 75 years. There is some type of vortex at that location, a vortex so powerful the effects are felt in Albuquerque to t south and Vail Colorado to the north, a giant ring of influence, the Denver Airport along it's eastern edge has all those gargoyles and paintings of global devastation the covid plandemic and nuclear war, some say an underground tunnel to the Cheyenne Mountain w control room and bunkers.

The atom bomb is not the only most powerful influence to come from Baca Grande, Klaus Schwab and Maurice Strong, Strong owneer ranch, at the ranch before during and after WWII there were German Nazi Vrill psychics who communicated with the non-humans brii forth the wonder weapons. It was at the Baca where the Klaus Schwab and Maurice Strong plans that now have the world shut down v devised.

It's forces have been manipulated, the vortex, around the ring around it goes, babies tossed into Moloch at at the Zorro Ranch, the human sacrifice, around and around it goes. The Cult of Rasur, and at the Baca where Laurence Rockefeller say's he met the Devil, a am not dreaming I was at the and among the 300 top globalist who met at the Maurice Strong and Klaus Schwab gathering in Vail al the north edge of that ring, it was September 1982 the Lodge at Vail and they called it the worlds first "World Forum". You won't find documentation on it, they don't want you to know about it, but ... Reflecto amuses them... Reflecto gave them LSD when the passed plans down to the 300... Reflecto was under guard of MJ-12 for 10 years prior to that and was best bud with General Curtis LeMay grandson... They don't know where Reflecto came from...

A few weeks ago I was posting about the adjoining ranches of Val Kilmer and Jane Fonda who was married to Ted Turner, Kilmer is li by some as being involved with human trafficking and pedo stuff and his best friend since childhood is Kevin Spacey. Those Fonda a Kilmer ranches are located just a few miles from the Epstein Zorro Ranch. A clip from an old black&white movie made the rounds co of days ago, it was a giant Moloch with steam vents and smoke, hooded priest were tossing in human sacrifice, then in military form all zombified globalist-socialist libtards marched into the sacrificial oven. Then, the leader of the hood priest turns around to face th camera, he takes off his hood, WTF!!! Kevin Spacey????? He's grinning at us... I think that video was in a Lin Wood tweet... Mask works in a sense that it keeps you reminding that you are controlled by someone else. And after sometime you lose your pride human to human affection we developed with a smile over centuries. Corona is being used as a mechanism to create a distance between humans.

first thing to control and destroy a society is to separate a group to individuals and then pick them up one by one and eliminate them.

People's attitude towards others political parties affiliation and religious beliefs is clearly targeted with full force by the group that is working to control this society.

if you don't like people from other political party or other religious group, you are surely compromised and you should think about if you are being used.

I am copying this from a post on The Burning Platform.

Chemist46

I was trained as a chemist. A large part of my professional career was working in various parts of the filtration industry. I developed mixed esters of cellulose membrane filters. Millipore type filters, that were used to sterilize flu vaccines for Merck Sharp and Dohr as well as other medical products companies. I developed respiratory protection products for Wilson Safety Products used in the min industry. I worked for Baxter developing medical / IV filters. I have patents on three IV filters I invented. Baxter sold more than 5 mil of one of those every year for most of a decade. I know a little bit about filters.

Surgical masks were not designed as filters and were not intended to be used as filters. Surgical masks were designed to be used by surgeons standing face down over an operating table holding a patient with an open wound. The surgeon wearing the mask would be able to talk to others in the room without discharging spittle droplets into the patient's wound. Spittle droplets are large and can cause infection.

I witnessed a test of surgical masks. Small plaster particles were generated in a room. They were visible as a white dust in the air. A man was properly fitted with a surgical mask and spent a short time in the room. When he came out the mask was removed. A camera was focused on the man's face. The entire area that had been covered by the mask was coated by the white dust. The camera showed that his nostrils and his mouth had been penetrated by the white dust. The dust particles were measured and found to be around 40 micrometers in diameter. The particles that penetrated the mask were the same diameter.

Covid-19 virus molecules are about 0.1 micrometers in diameter. That is 400 times smaller than the plaster particles that penetrated the mask.

Surgical masks will not prevent the wearer from inhaling or exhaling viruses or bacteria. They provide absolutely no protection for either the wearer or anyone nearby. They create a very dangerous false sense of security for everyone. They also force the wearer to rebreathe carbon dioxide. Which will over time reduce the wearers blood oxygen level. That can become very dangerous especially for older people. This farce is being promoted by sleazy politicians who believe that if they can convince people that they are protecting them or creating a safe environment for them by pushing this mask farce those people will re-elect them.

All politicians pushing this dangerous mask farce should be voted out of office as soon as possible.

Some great info on the PCR tests and vaccine safety.

I have the credentials to say whether or not masks work. I design and test safety products to standards. I have put products through FDA certification and must go through SEI certification every year. I am also required to be fit for a N95 mask every year by a first responder, w is then certified and sent to the state for certification. The company's insurance provider will not insure the company unless myself and th other employees have their masks certified.

NO PIECE OF PAPER OVER YOUR FACE, BANDANA, OR CLOTH WILL PROTECT YOU FROM ANY PATHOGEN, PERIOD!!!

When you are fit for a N95 respirator, a barrier is put around your head and sucrose solution is sprayed in aerosol form into the box. If yo taste sugar, your mask doesn't work.

Go walk by a perfume counter with your mask on. Can you smell the perfume? Can you taste it? GUESS WHAT, YOUR MASK ISN'T DOING SHIT!!!

It is worthless to wear a mask. Anyone telling you otherwise is either an imbecile, ir has an ulterior motive. If your doctor says they work FIND A NEW DOCTOR. THAT DOCTOR SHOULD HAVE THEIR LICENSE REVOKED IMMEDIATELY.

If you think they work. You are wrong. You will never find any evidence they work. You will never find certification that they block the transmission of pathogens. THERE IS NO FDA CERTIFIED MASK FOR BLOCKING VIRUS.

I don't care if you wear one. That is your prerogative. You are an idiot, but there is no law against being an idiot. WHERE ANYONE DRAWS LINE, IS FORCING OTHERS TO WEAR THE DIAPER ON THEIR FACE.

The mask mandate is the absolute worst forced piece of BS to come out of the scamdemic. It is the most dehumanizing method of control imaginable.

Just like a chain link fence will probably deflect 1 bullet out of a machine gun load, how effective are these masks really? Closer to 0/ 5%, or 10%.

In any event, I'd reckon it doesn't matter b/c exposures compound the probability of being infected, and they consistently increase c time.

25% survival the first exposure is bad but not worthless.

but the next time its 25% of 25 which is perhaps but the next time it's .25 ^ .25, which is garbage.

I think too many "scientists" neglect this effect, for it would mean that even with 50% effectiveness masks would still be worthless.

It still boggles the mind how obedient people are to wearing masks. Here in PA at some outdoor outlet malls, I see almost every wearing masks OUTDOORS? I'm like WTF people? You are outside. It's me, and a very few others who without a mask outside.

I can understand to an extent putting a mask on to go indoors, and go with the flow, because a store requires it (but they pay no attention to my kids without a mask interestingly). But outdoors, is just silly.

And the ADR has it correct. Unless you are wearing a N95 respirator (face mask), you have about zero protection. The point of a loose fitting face mask to prevent coughs/sneezes from spreading germs/virus particles. And perhaps that may work indoors, at a large group of people during an illness spread. But outdoors and/or not very crowded indoors, it's simply not necessary.

I live in the greater Seattle area and am currently visiting a certain small town in north Idaho. It's awesome! a few mask wearers here and there but by and large most are mask free. Full restaurants, taprooms and wine bars, live music, people enjoying a beautiful late November Saturday evening and not a lecturing Karen in sight. Looking for acreage, I think I found paradise.

I grew up in King County and have to go back often, so I see the full compliance there. Moved to Idaho a few years ago. Totally different as you said. What really amazed me is that on Fourth of July there were tens of thousands of fully UN-masked people in McCall for their annual events. No masks, and of course the liberal press and creepy social media weirdos said we were all going to be a big grave in two weeks. NOTHING happened. Just like Sturgis, where 460,000 old dudes packed pizza joints for 10 days in August without any precautions. The evidence is completely ignored.

The worthless face diapers are nothing but another division tactic implemented by the so called "leaders" who hate us all. It was quite devilish how they were pitched too if you remember. It's not that the face masks protect YOU, but rather, they protect others FROM you. That's the huge difference, because otherwise it would all be about personal choice and whether or not you wanted to wear a face diaper for your OWN health. However, the demonic assholes flipped it to ensure they'd create division among the peoples so that the sheeple could turn their backs INWARD, and not towards those demonic assholes who are responsible for this entire scam.

The first time I heard them say the diapers don't protect you personally, they only protect others from what you might shoot out of your pipe hole, I knew we were going to have these stupid a$$ things for a loooooong time. All it took was for the elites to get the sheeple thinking could virtue signal with the things, and all science and decades of research showing face diapers are utterly worthless in stopping influenza would be ignored.

When I try to show people all the data, and all the science prior to late March 2020 showing face diapers are completely worthless to stop influenza, it's like I just landed in front of them from Mars. They can't believe it, they are SO conditioned now to believe the face diapers have ALWAYS worked in prior pandemics. It's now a conspiracy theory that strapping a piece of paper over your face won't stop an aerosol influenza.

virus. Just like how jet fuel can bring down three buildings that collapse perfectly upon themselves.

How to Survive the Future

"Fred B on November 28, 2020 at 6:34 am

I learned the other day that Dr. Hodkinson has received numerous of death threats for this video. Our governments and the mainstream media have totally ignored him.

The tests and the masks are in fact useless and the virus in any case is not any kind of a threat of anything serious to well over 99% the population. People have to defy the lying authorities, protest, and refuse to get the vaccinations. Buy, grow, and go local. Screw airlines. There is no over population crisis in any Western nation. There is now a birth dearth thanks the elites behind the Covid scar the Great Reset. The US relies on immigration from the south to sustain their population, but the demographic futures for all Western nations are terrible unless we can sustain our own populations from within.

The global elites behind the UN Covid Resets want to radically reduce our populations and our consumption. All their lockstep plan is based on pre-1992 projections which are tremendously flawed and the fake global-warming crisis. To fight back and retain your freedom and survival, maintain your family system. Help the young who want to marry and have kids. Network on a local level for solidarity. According to elite plans you will have to comply with reducing consumption so fight back by avoiding the multinationals a the chains, and cease living to be a consumer. Put kids over materialism serving dead-end consumption with things you don't need own you. Redirect economic growth to local production and self sufficiency. Start real growth from the bottom up with real and not virtual people and an economy built on a balanced demographic base which can sustain all generations, which demographic elites h distorted with their destructive methods."

Meanwhile there are massive populations where literally every breath is through a mask, and they have Covid just like neighboring areas. Fun fact: Inhaled CO2 levels for any mask that isn't equipped with exhaust valves quickly reach 8x the level in a typical occupied room, or 8000 ppm. This is considered a toxic level by OSHA and can cause severe headaches, dizziness and dangerous stress on the pulmonary system.

Occupational safety officers have to test employees to determine if they can physically tolerate wearing masks and respirators. Now everyone is forced to wear masks to work their job or to enter a business with no testing and no exceptions (unless you have a doctor's note, and that won't stop the harassment by Karens).

▲ 14 ▼ Reply ↩

▲ 14 ▼ Reply ↩

Patrick Bateman Jr. 13 hours ago

You are a good person if you wear a mask. If you don't, you're not.

This is complex, but also rather simple. We're talking about an elementary psychological reward system here, wherein people are herded into adopting the same behavior, but also promised the reward of being singled out within that herd as a particularly moral and unique individual.

We are all the same, but some of those who are the same are different. This is held over the heads of billions -- you, you might be different. But only if you do what everyone else is doing! And this moves mankind. Always has.

To expect more than this from the mass of humanity is to set oneself up for a life of disappointment. This is the best they are capable of -- enhancing their self-regard, comically, by imitating the example of all other selves.

Absolutely. It's about conditioning and programming the collective. Individual thought, individual speech, individual rights must be destroyed. The collective must be served.

Same war that has been raging forever.

▲ 9 ▼ Reply ↩

Patrick Bateman Jr. 11 hours ago

But always remember the allure of the reward that is held out. It is not, as conservatives often maintain, absorption into the collective and erasure of one's identity.

No, it is cultivation of the ego, of the "I am," of the uniqueness of the individual -- this is what we're dealing with here. Why else do you think there are 39 genders, and multiple pronouns, and a proliferation of "identities?"

These are powerful forces. I'm afraid that most of the "muh free market" individualists and libertarians on this site are unaware of the monster they're up against here. These forces are using ideas and psychological mechanisms that burrow deep into the soul of billions.

To say that "individual thought must be destroyed" is to miss the bigger picture. In order for this to succeed, "individual thought" (Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, dating sites) must be cultivated and encouraged. The question is, what is the content of these individual thoughts? Is it truly about the uniqueness of a given individual, or is it merely one note in a chorus that is nothing but bleating of billions?

"I'm seeing patients that have facial rashes, fungal infections, bacterial infections. Reports coming from my colleagues, all over the world, are suggesting that the bacterial pneumonias are on the rise.

"Why might that be? Because untrained members of the public are wearing medical masks, repeatedly... in a non-sterile fashion... They're becoming contaminated. They're pulling them off of their car seat, off the rearview mirror, out of their pocket, from their countertop, and they're reapplying a mask that should be worn fresh and sterile every single time."

I was trained as a chemist. A large part of my professional career was working in various parts of the filtration industry. I develop line of mixed esters of cellulose membrane filters. Millipore type filters, that were used to sterilize flu vaccines for Merck Sharp an Dohme as well as other medical products companies. I developed respiratory protection products for Wilson Safety Products used the mining industry. I worked for Baxter developing medical / IV filters. I have patents on three IV filters I invented. Baxter sold mc than 5 million of one of those every year for most of a decade. I know a little bit about filters.

Surgical masks were not designed as filters and were not intended to be used as filters. Surgical masks were designed to be used surgeons standing face down over an operating table holding a patient with an open wound. The surgeon wearing the mask would able to talk to others in the room without discharging spittle droplets into the patient's wound. Spittle droplets are large and can c infection.

I witnessed a test of surgical masks. Small plaster particles were generated in a room. They were visible as a white dust in the air. man was properly fitted with a surgical mask and spent a short time in the room. When he came out the mask was removed. A can was focused on the man's face. The entire area that had been covered by the mask was coated by the white dust. The camera show that his nostrils and his mouth had been penetrated by the white dust. The dust particles were measured and found to be around . micrometers in diameter. The particles that penetrated the mask were the same diameter.

Covid-19 virus molecules are about 0.1 micrometers in diameter. That is 400 times smaller than the plaster particles that penetrat the mask.

Surgical masks will not prevent the wearer from inhaling or exhaling viruses or bacteria. They provide absolutely no protection for either the wearer or anyone nearby. They create a very dangerous false sense of security for everyone. They also force the wearer rebreath carbon dioxide. Which will over time reduce the wearers blood oxygen level. That can become very dangerous especially f older people.

This farce is being promoted by sleazy politicians who believe that if they can convince people that they are protecting them or creating a safe environment for them by pushing this mask farce those people will re-elect them.

All politicians pushing this dangerous mask farce should be voted out of office as soon as possible.

Masks have nothing to do with health. It's about you accepting their control, your subjugation, you becoming an object rather than an individual. Plus it makes it that much easier to get people to take the vaccine. Want to never wear a mask? Here take this. It's the west's ve of a burka. Islam is a religion well so is liberalism or globalism. Whatever you want to call this new cult. It's about replacing our current traditions, customs and way of life with a New Normal. Build back better. A New World Order.

And they'll line up for miles to take that vaccine.

 There's a good possibility there will be no herd immunity, and no long term effective vaccine. The Sars-Cov-2 virus will most likely behave much like the other coronaviruses: flu and common cold. You get short term immunity from getting them, but they mutate a bit, and then you can catch the flu or cold again. Endless vaccines, like each year's mostly ineffective flu shot That's stupid. Ramping your immune system is a much better idea.

 What is interesting to me is how the socialists will use every event as an opportunity to isolate their opposition - i.e. most of us. The mask phenomenon is not about people wearing the masks. It's about marginalizing those of us who won't. It's not that the mask wearers suddenly got religion about masks protecting them, it's that they became a brainwashed weapon against those who would refuse the socialist State and extra-State mandate. They marginalize us and they dehumanize us. We're the bad people.

Early on in the Summer I went to a chick's house for a ... meeting. First thing she squirts me with homemade disinfectant. Get: some in my eyes. Wouldn't let me close enough to touch her all night. Next.

Another chick (that I knew from the before-times), met her at a bar. Sat there like a dope for ten minutes with this huge diape her face proudly telling me how it matches something something sports team something.

I finally get her to take it off and order a beer, she's got a rash all around her mouth from the mask. Tells me "I wear it now because it makes me feel comfortable." How am I supposed to work with that, have a friendly conversation about something I is just brainwashing her?

I got a little kino in - but it wasn't worth the effort.

Puts on her mask to get up from the table and walk out. Obviously no kiss. I give her an awkward hug and she looks confused not making a move. Offers to walk with me to my car - LOL - and I tell her, "That's okay, it's just over there."

The masks alone will probably drive the birth rates into the ground. Then "they" can import more third-world labor like Europe been doing.

People are scared of going to the ER because The Virus is there.
Were people really going to ER for the flu?
All I know is that I was due for a colonoscopy in April but they cancelled it because it was "elective". As if I would elect to have a can shoved up my hole. And even when the hospital started doing such "elective" procedures again in September, they put me way down the backlog. I'll be lucky if I get scoped by Christmas.
Not that I'm complaining, well, unless it turns out I had colon cancer all this time.

The problem is that the politicians do not have the statutory right to impose mask mandates. The police don't have the right to issue fines. courts don't have the right to enforce nonexistent laws. The title is misleading by including 'strangely.' It connotes that many policies and edicts supposedly based on the 'science,' 'data,' or other credibility inducing words are based on tested, replicated studies rather than opinions and guesswork or agenda seeking. It's just like, say 'scientific' hockey-stick shape in a graph that was used for years as the 'science' behind the impending doom if certain policies weren't followed. Magically (scientifically), the policies remain the same, but the underlying 'data' or 'science' is what changes.

But, hey, Big Tobacco showed what 'science' can do!

Science is embraced by ignoramuses who avoided all science, math and logic classes at school.

Like Socrates, scientists know nothing. They conduct experiments to determine temporary understandings. Even if an experiment has the same result a thousand times, scientists can not guarantee the next result.

The facts: 1. There is no experimental proof that masks work, but there is scientific proof that they're ineffective.

2. Social distancing has been "proven" by a high school student's computer program. Computer programs prove nothing - garbage in = garbage out.

For the last 8 months, 90–95% of the population has been dutifully donning face masks, social distancing, self isolating and a first ever, quarantining of the healthy.
People who test positive are asymptomatic.
The media is reporting an INCREASE in cases as we enter into the 2020 flu season.
John Hopkins University has recently reported that COVID-2019 had no effect on the overall death rate compared to previous years.
So if there is no increase in the death rate, no symptoms, most are following safety guidelines, AND there is an increase in cases. You can come to only one logical conclusion.
Tests are inaccurate, COVID-2019 was a seasonal flu, and there is no pandemic.

I believe in protecting people from diseases. The right way to keep people safe from COVID does not involve widespread use of masks or lockdowns.

Here's what science says is effective.

1. Adequate ventilation.
2. Social distancing. (Sorry I know you guys hate this one but it works)

Social distancing is not necessary for everyone.

e.g. going to Church is probably fine.

Close combat with police while protesting "peacefully" is not a good idea and spreads COVID, flu and other germs.

Joining the hosts of This Week in Virology in July, Fauci directly responded to a question about COVID-19 testing, specifically how patients with positive tests might determine whether or not they are actually infectious and need to quarantine.

"What is now sort of evolving into a bit of a standard," Fauci said, is that "if you get a cycle threshold of 35 or more ... the chances of it being replication-confident are minuscule."

"It's very frustrating for the patients as well as for the physicians," he continued, when "somebody comes in, and they repeat their PCR, and it's like [a] 37 cycle threshold, but you almost never can culture virus from a 37 threshold cycle."

So, I think if somebody does come in with 37, 38, even 36, you got to say, you know, it's just dead nucleotides, period."

He also noted that the Ct count was not provided to patients and physicians automatically. The tests are simply returned as positive or negative. The entire idea of "asymptomatic" cases dissolves once you understand this.

The primary lab in my city runs the tests at 45 cycles and the local paper terrorizes the population with case counts daily.

It varies by lab. If you get a test result you have to contact the tester to find out their process cycle numbers. The fact that there is a national standard tells me that they want the ability to turn the number of cases up or down as they want.

I suspect after the vaccine they will lower the cycle numbers so they get fewer positives so they can say "Look! The VACCINE saved all!"

▲ 4 ▼ Reply ↩

laser 13 hours ago

I spoke to the director. She said they also run two other tests but don't know the cycle rates because the manufacturer considers proprietary information. She says the other two machines yield similar results so they are probably similar. This is domestic terror.

Some of us in the medical profession have said from day one that the medical professionals & high risk people should wear N95 or better masks and that cloth and surgical masks are pure fluff. The virus particle size is such that the only chance to filter it out is N95 +. And e that is theoretical. In the 1918 pandemic, San Francisco was hailed as an example of how well masks worked, but they were hammered in 2nd wave. Precautions for high risk people including N95 masks, social distancing, vaccinations etc, and letting the rest of low risk society back to normal would appear reasonably appropriate.

I personally recommend N95+ masks only to high i persons, not cloth or surgical, but the choice is theirs. "GAS LIGHTED?" – nope, just trying to do what is best for my patients – an was never in favor of shutting down any of the country – New York city shows how well that worked.

In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks (RR 0.78, 95% CI 0.51-1.20; I<sup>2</sup> = 30%, p = 0.25) (Figure 2). One study evaluated the use of masks among pilgrims from Australia during the Hajj pilgrimage and reported no major difference in the risk for laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infection in the control or mask group (33). Two studies in university settings assessed the effectiveness of face masks for primary protection by monitoring the incidence of laboratory-confirmed influenza among student hall residents for 5 months (9,10). The overall reduction in ILI or laboratory-confirmed influenza cases in the face mask group was not significant in either studies (9,10).

Also;

In our systematic review, we identified 10 RCTs that reported estimates of the effectiveness of face masks in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza virus infections in the community from literature published during 1946-July 27, 2018. In pooled analysis, we found no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks

Disposable medical masks (also known as surgical masks) are loose-fitting devices that were designed to be worn by medical personnel to protect accidental contamination of patient wounds, and to protect the wearer against splashes or sprays of bodily f (36). There is limited evidence for their effectiveness in preventing influenza virus transmission either when worn by the infected person for source control or when worn by uninfected persons to reduce exposure. Our systematic review found no significant ef of face masks on transmission of laboratory-confirmed influenza.

Why does nobody refer to that study: the answer is clear.

In Sweden they never needed to wear masks and they have near zero deaths for months on end (just an uptick in this new flu season.

We have simple tried and true methods for not spreading germs.

1. Do not go out in public when you are sick which is appropriate, temporary social distancing.
2. Carry disposable tissue for sneezing or coughing and throw used ones away and wash your hands. Which is sanitary unlike masks which begin to grow bacteria within an hour.
3. During cold and flu season make sure to stay out of damp, cold night and morning air and include more preventatives in the diet. Immune system boosters like citrus fruit, echinacea, zinc, elderberry, yarrow, etc...

We learn these things as small children. Nothing new. This idea that millions of people are running around infected and symptom free is ic and completely unsubstantiated. It's a total manipulation of society.

The character, "The Gimp" from the movie Pulp Fiction had to wait in the closet with a mask on until Zed and Maynard let him out. The endgame of the mask mandate is humiliation and subservience.

The government has no more right to force citizens to wear a mask than they did to put a knee on George Floyd's neck. The police did not know that Floyd's breathing capacity was diminished by his use of fentanyl. Similarly, the government has no way of knowing the varying breathing capacity of every individual that can be reduced by health issues and drug use.

The science behind the transmission of a virus is that the virus sticks to the saliva which is then aerosolized by exhaling or talking. Wearing a mask prevents the virus from being expelled into the atmosphere and forces people to wallow in their own excrement and make themselves sick.

The Roe v. Wade Supreme court decision found a constitutional right to privacy that was broad enough for a woman to be allowed to expel a baby from her body. Certainly, this constitutional right to privacy is broad enough to allow unobstructed respiration so people can expel excrement from their body and not be forced to wallow in it and not to reduce their breathing capacity to unhealthy levels.

For 100+ years people have worn masks to reduce spread of disease, now may be the first time in history when we have a hysteria where people have somehow lobotomized themselves into thinking they do nothing. Perhaps people fear losing control in their lives, and feel they need to get angry, lash out, and be superior..

N95 respirators use a filter of densely woven fibers that can stop aerosol particles through impaction, interception and diffusion as the air being breathed in passes the mesh. They are 95 percent efficient in stopping particles down to about 0.1 micrometers (microns) in diameter. So they work well on tuberculosis, and other bacteria, that range in size from about 0.3 to 20 microns.

<https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/more/scientific-brief-sars-cov-2.html>

Updated Oct. 5, 2020

Airborne transmission is not equally efficient for all respiratory microbes

For some viruses and bacteria, airborne transmission is a highly efficient mode for spreading infection. Examples include Mycobacterium tuberculosis (the bacterium that causes tuberculosis), rubeola (the virus that causes measles), and varicella zoster (the virus that causes chicken pox). Although these infections can be transmitted at close range, they are also efficiently and frequently transmitted over longer distances (i.e., more than six feet) or over longer times (i.e., to people passing through an air space in the infectious person was present minutes to hours earlier). It is especially important to control pathogens that readily infect by mean airborne transmission in healthcare and other occupational settings where special engineering controls are required to prevent spread (e.g., negative-pressure airborne infection isolation rooms, high efficiency respirators).

"The epidemiology of SARS-CoV-2 indicates that most infections are spread through close contact, not airborne transmission."

Prevention of COVID-19 by airborne transmission

Existing interventions to prevent the spread of SARS-CoV-2 appear sufficient to address transmission both through close contact and under the special circumstances favorable to potential airborne transmission. Among these interventions, which include social distancing, use of masks in the community, hand hygiene, and surface cleaning and disinfection, ventilation and avoidance of crowded indoor spaces are especially relevant for enclosed spaces, where circumstances can increase the concentration of suspended small droplets and particles carrying infectious virus. At this time, there is no indication of a general community need to use special engineering controls, such as those required to protect against airborne transmission of infections, like measles or tuberculosis, in the healthcare setting.

There you have it from the CDC website - there is no indication for the general community to use special controls, i.e. high efficiency respirators.

It's worth noting that SARS-COV-2 virion (aka virus particle) size is on average 125 nanometers (0.125 microns) with a range of 0.06 microns to .14 microns.

An N95 mask filters down to 0.3 microns.

That means two average sized SARS-COV-2 virions can go through the pores in an N95 mask sideways, metaphorically arm in arm, and not touch the sides of the hole in the mask.

Unless a SARS-COV-2 viron is riding on something larger like a water droplet, a speck of dust, a smoke particle, etc. even an N95 won't do anything more than make you feel like you're doing something to try to help. That's not nothing but it's not the panacea you would want you to think it is.

▲ 5 ▼ Reply ↩

Bollockinell 7 hours ago

Yeah, but how many people are wearing N95's, especially considering they make breathing difficult and should not be worn for long periods?

Isn't it true that most are wearing the cloth diaper variant which only serves to accumulate exhaled bacteria thereby causing harm to the wearer when reinhaled? Also, largely overlooked is the fact that the cheap, disposable variety sold in boxes of 50, have been treated with toluene and formaldehyde. In a recent test by a French doctor using a meter to gauge toxicity from formaldehyde, it only took 13 seconds before the device's alarm sounded warning that a dangerous dose had been inhaled.

Critics of the Danish Controlled Study (Denmark-19) essentially argue that masks stop the Virus when you exhale but not when you inhale like to see the evidence for that.

This is a good analysis too: <https://culturalanalysisnet.wordpress.com/2020/08/05/de-facing-victoria/>

▲ 2 ▼ Reply ↩

Yes, the mask becomes energized by magic particles, which completely eliminate the virus when you exhale, thus magically protecting the whole land!

In reality, it may stop/slow down large droplets of water/spit which may have germs in them.

Basically, wearing a mask is just like tying a snot rag to your face all day.

Viruses are so small, only a biohazard protective suit and a bleach spray keeps viruses out.

H95 masks, the best you can find, are useless.

Wearing a mask everyday greatly increases the chances of pneumonia or respiratory infection.

Reused masks are dirty petri dishes of bacteria and make you more vulnerable to viruses.

Natural immunity and social distancing are your best bet. It is not necessary for most people to social distance, only the sick and we

First. Fauci said "stop buying masks" because people were hoarding them and they were needed by first responders and nursing staff. It has nothing to do with the effectiveness of mask wearing.

Second. The main vehicle for transmission/spread of the virus was not totally clear early on. We now know it is more airborne and less surface spreading (unlike H1N1). This has much to do with your conclusion that the science was "flipping."

Honestly, your article seems to ask "why didn't everyone have all the answers and get everything right the first time when battling the unknown pathogen?" It seems unrealistic and somewhat childish. It's not like the gov is asking you to storm a foreign beach in a Higgins boat. It's possible masks help mitigate a virus that is killing a small number of Americans. Put on the damn mask and shut up.

Edit: I'm in Cabo right now. We wear masks indoors while walking the resort. Outside nobody is wearing a mask. They are sanitizing everywhere. I don't "live in fear!" I will however be an adult and keep myself and others as safe as possible when and where I can. If a simple face covering may assist in this what's the big cry baby fucking deal?

"why didn't everyone have all the answers and get everything right the first time when battling the unknown pathogen?"

Of for pity's sake. This is not a 'brand new' pathogen. It's a virus. We have been battling viruses for thousands of years. We've also been battling the cold virus all my life, and we don't advise people to wear masks all winter, do we?

There is no *real* evidence, anywhere, that those little blue masks, as worn by the general public, do a single thing to stop either transmission or infection. There is a lot of evidence for the null hypothesis, though.

I agree with another poster up top: this is a psy-op, not a health-op.

Masks in social setting are outrageously harmful, and not just to the wearer but to everyone around you. They damage social relations and dehumanise us. That's just the sociological harm. Now if you look at Fauci's paper from 2007 on the Spanish Flu, they found that most victims didn't die from the flu but from bacterial pneumonia. A collocated benefit of the SC hearing complaints about unlawful usurpation of legislative process allowing fraud in the election as repugn so too it can apply to the unlawful dictates of any state or local executive edict forcing people to wear masks or to take vaccines absent a Constitutionally mandated legislative foundation in law.

Store employees get really ticked off if someone walks in without a mask around here. I try to keep in mind that they need to avoid being reported to government or police by Karen in order to survive and stay open. They've been set up for lawsuits and fines and snitch hotline their customers don't comply. For the sake of local jobs and business, I wear the mask in stores and that seems to be the consensus around here.

This is the law Pennsylvania is using to threaten us <https://www.legis.state.pa.us/WU01/LI/LI/US/PDF/1955/0/0500..PDF>

And some fantastic work here on the endgame: https://childrenshealthdefense.org/defender/truth-rfk-jr-catherine-austin-fitts/?itm\_term=home

I don't wear a mask in a store. If they don't accept my "medical exemption" (LOL) it's their problem.

When it comes time to pay their lease, wages, suppliers, I hope they remember who was standing at their door with a pocket full of money to help them with that.

Hint: it wasn't the government.

The government was the one closing their business, not me. It's their battle to fight, not mine.

Sad thing about masks, they appear to make sense. There is no appreciation of the sense of scale. This is not bacteria we are trying to prevent. Bacteria are like basketballs, viruses are like BB's, and the masks are like a chain link fence. In the case of N95 masks, fitted properly they are really good chain link fences. That's about it. Not my opinion.

And that's how the globalists screwed us. A lot of what they do has a superficial appeal to it, like "social distancing". Sure, if I'm two feet away I'm unlikely to infect you. But they really have no clue (nor do they care) what a "safe" distance is.

And of course they're masters at psychological manipulation:

"Be smart, six feet apart"

"The three Ws"

"My mask protects you, your mask protects me."

All have a slogan-ish appeal to them. No science, of course. But for the low info masses, they don't need science.

Not science either. Do all a favor, go shit yourself and don't change your panties. Or in your case shove that tampon farther up your front hole, you probably like it.

Old, weak, diseased. On their way out already. Covid was made to order. Basically, unloads the legacy costs of society. Until the economic self-immolation, of course. Which was totally unnecessary... defeated the whole purpose.

I think we are all living a SciFi Movie

These Zygons came to earth and they replaced all the Politicians on the planet (explains a lot of them), and there goal is to convert every person on the planet into a Zygon using untested unproven Vaccines.

I am not making a case that masks work, however, not addressing the "asymptomatic spread" question, or the supposed 14 day incubation period, makes your article basically worthless.

You trust the DOCTORS (who you don't ban).

You trust the SCIENCE (except this: " The recommendation to wear surgical masks to supplement other public health measures did not reduce the SARS-CoV-2 infection rate among wearers by more than 50% in a community with modest infection rates ")

You trust PEER REVIEWED studies - except this: <https://www.acpjournals.org/doi/10.7326/M20-6817>
