

The Thinning

JOSHUA STYLMAN FEB 16  619  250  148

Notes from Inside the Veneer

Read →

250 Comments

1

Write a comment...

Debbie Lerman  Debbie Lerman's Substack Feb 16

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

Thanks Josh - for the great article and the shout out. If everyone absorbs and interprets the story according to their million different perspectives and no perpetrators face any consequences then all that's left is an even more demoralized and fractured public — a public that will not accept but beg for the orderly, safe structure of AI-run everything.

Like you, I don't know what will happen but it feels to me like more of the same, not necessarily a big shift: more resource and power grabs by the global cabal and less ability of the population to decipher, let alone to resist, what is being done to us.

Btw - "black pill" is the new "conspiracy theorist." Imho we should proudly own it.

 LIKED (61)  REPLY (4)

Jon Olsen  Jon Olsen Feb 16

Debbie, thanks for all your fine work with Sasha Latypova. Note my comments above - I think we can win because failure is not an option. The predator class is not a unified class and that can serve our purpose. Think rats fleeing a sinking ship. Pay attention to the meaning of dialectics, wherein the internal contradictions force a rupture and create a condition that is not like what was before.

 LIKE (20)  REPLY (2)

Joshua Stylman Feb 23

Author

There is no 4th Estate - the only way the Epstein Class will fall is through crowd journalism.

People like Debbie and Sasha are an inspiration to us all (or at least to me).

LIKE (2) REPLY (1)

Jon Olsen Jon Olsen Feb 23

If the AUTHENTIC left (not the Fauxi "left) and the AUTHENTIC right (not the ones) could unite enough and raise funds to buy CNN or other media, think fun we could have telling the truth!

LIKE REPLY

Ronin Ronin's Revelations Feb 16 Edited

Liked by Joshua Stylman

Joshua is amazing, happy to finally have another dandy. Life definitely gets "in t

.

They had to get Conservatives on board for the digital panopticon, and Trump was perfect vehicle. However!, they also need tech and military integration to keep p China (as per James Rosone's excellent near future military books - he has 20 y ops and PMC experience, so he knows more than I do).

.

At least this is how I see things at the moment, and no I'm not close to 100% eit

LIKE (7) REPLY

Joshua Stylman Feb 23

Author

"black pill" is the new "conspiracy theorist."

Yep! Wear it as a badge of honor.

Thanks for the kind words, the friendship and for always keeping me on my toes.

LIKED (3) REPLY

Fadi Lama Fadi Lama Feb 16

"it feels to me like more of the same, not necessarily a big shift"

Its much more than a "big shift" that's coming. A completely new system far worse t
Orwell's 1984 has already been constructed.

You may find Escapekey's studies greatly enlightening <https://escapekey.substack.c>

❤️ LIKED (10) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman 🌐 Feb 23

Author

Thanks Fadi.

Escapekey gets it in a way most don't.

❤️ LIKED (1) 💬 REPLY

Yet Another Tommy Yet Another Tommy Feb 19

Prince Andrew arrested this morning, first royal arrested in 380 years. Theater?

❤️ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman 🌐 Feb 19

Author

You will not hear definitive answers from me, however, I do think the headline is
"Six unmarked police cars with plain clothed officers arrive at Andrew Mountbat Windsor's home on his 66th birthday"

<https://x.com/disclosetv/status/2024421824268771523>

❤️ LIKE (3) 💬 REPLY (2)

Jon Olsen 🌐 Jon Olsen Feb 23

❤️ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Aha! the 666 (hidden in plain sight)

❤️ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23 Edited

Author

BTW...

"Jeffrey Epstein was 66 years and 6 months old when he died on August 6, 2019. Born on January 20, 1953, he passed away in a New York City jail where his death ruled as suicide by hanging."

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Jon Olsen  Jon Olsen Feb 23

You can't make this up! Has to be planned. I tend to believe that they spirited him out along later with Ms. Maxwell and both are now in the east little country

 LIKE  REPLY

Yet Another Tommy Yet Another Tommy Feb 19

I wonder if between the six of them they know anything about Operation Ta

<https://iaindavis.substack.com/p/operation-talla-unconstitutional>

 LIKE  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 19

Author

Unclear but I'll check out that piece.

BTW, remember when those bloody horses ran through London? I paid attention to it because it was weird and seemed symbolic.

<https://www.abc.net.au/news/2024-04-24/escaped-army-horses-london/103766216>

Apparently, that was 666 days ago :-)

<https://x.com/j/grok?conversation=2024577104503885967>

 LIKE (2)  REPLY (1)

Yet Another Tommy Yet Another Tommy Feb 19

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Amazing memory you have.

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY

Kavita 🌸 Kavita Feb 16

I appreciate your willingness to be in the Don't Know, as well as asking the most deeply uncomfortable What If's, and also being willing to ask it all aloud.

I'm a 67yo survivor of long-term child sexual assault in the 60's. However manipulated the 'unboxing' of the so-called 'Epstein Files' is (and I'm sure there's manipulation aplenty in ways), from my POV as a survivor it signals a tectonic shift in consciousness. Even if 'they' for it to be this way (maybe, maybe not).

What I knew to be so (along with at least 1-in-3 other kids) but others couldn't bear to co now - somehow - considered at least plausible.

So, yeah - there's a lot to question, to mistrust, to remain skeptical about. Always, not just. But that comes with the territory of tolerating things that most people call 'unspeakable', 'unimaginable', 'unfathomable', 'unbelievable' then turn away from.

I understand their sentiments. But living in that bubble carries a kind of passive complicity, least being in accord with, those activities. Those crimes.

And guess what? For decades some of us have been saying it must be spoken about, it's believable (it happens all the time, duh), and it's totally fathomable (so many plumb depths of harm!), and FFS yes - it is finally believable.

So be it.

Thanks for your part in creating a container in consciousness, in social media, and here in which these conversations have become more widely possible.

♡ LIKE (42) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Wow, Kavita. Thank you for sharing this.

Your voice carries more weight here than mine does. The fact that what survivors have been saying for decades is finally being heard matters, regardless of how managed the discourse might be. I'm grateful you're in this conversation.

 LIKE (2)  REPLY (1)

Kavita  Kavita Mar 3

You're welcome, and thanks for your reply, Josh.

Also wish to my respect for those who endure(d) abuse at an organized / 'curated' formal religious / political / elite settings - and who have come forward, speaking publicly. Their stories are often challenged partly because the ritualized aspects of such assaults has been less-fathomable for most people, and easier to write-off as 'imagination' or 'false memory syndrome' or 'nutcase'.

There are countless more of us who were harmed in families, by neighbors, while hitchhiking-then-detoured (back when we feral kids were hitchhiking at 12yo plus) by store owners, teachers, babysitters, health care 'providers', counselors, and others. Our stories were also largely dismissed by whomever we may have told. Most of us did not face stark public scrutiny known to higher profile survivors.

How did it come to be so?

Have children been pawns for adults' sexual / power-over assault since the beginning of time?

So many questions. I have some hunches.

I look forward to the time when we are free of the binds tying us to heinous yet common actions which most have been in accord with for so long. When human suffering is no longer nourishment for a pervasive, soulless presence on earth.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Diane Weber  Feb 16

Sanity requires grounding -- grounding in something. You can't function on a daily basis questioning absolutely everything. You need a map (think: Jordan Peterson's, "Maps of Men and Meters" that you know is there, that you can rely on to guide you and help you predict what comes. Variations within that map, or slightly beyond it, are acceptable and creative. But sanity requires a fixed point, even if it's a fixed point to venture beyond -- and return to for security.

I can understand why people turn a blind eye to much of what Mr. Stylman writes about. It is disturbing and disorienting to navigate the world without knowing what is real and unreal, and what is down, what is evil and what is good.

This article was astounding, mind-blowing. But the farther I grope into this vast world of unreality, the closer I get to my garden, my dogs, my books, my music. One also needs human connections, and unless you find a close connection that shares the views outlined here, you experience alienation.

My final thoughts: Unless we return to our tribal origins -- "tribe" being some kind of collective like the Amish, Mennonites, Mormons or Muslims -- we will not survive.

 LIKE (22)  REPLY (2)

JDG Feb 17 Edited

Great text, Debbie. Up to the last paragraph. I could not disagree more.

What is happening on a consciousness level is the exact opposite of tribalism and collectivism. The Age of Aquarius is about sovereignty and individual authenticity. It is not just about becoming independent of government and technological enslavement systems, but about liberating ourselves from our conditionings (and traumas) so that we can 'become grounded'. Grounded in reality, not in one religion or belief system or another.

Yes, community of 'healed, developed or liberated' individuals can be a part of the solution. But these wouldn't be 'tribes' in the sense that they blindly believe in one book or a one guru or another. They will be individuals that are not afraid of differences and do not stand alone if their truth or conviction requires that.

It is the development from 'sheep' to 'lion'. The ability to stand in your own power instead of being afraid 'what other people think'. To neither have your government, your politicians, your newspaper telling you what to think or believe, nor have your pastor, or your tribal chief telling you what is true.

Tribal people like that are most easy to control. Change the leader, change the book ideology, and they all fall in line. Look at how simply changing one Bible with a new one, the Scofield Bible, changed the view that millions of Christians had about Israel. It is THEY who control the sheep in a tribe.

While it is easy to idealize the Amish - as there is a lot we can learn from them with respect to their independence from technology including medical 'technology' - a community that even accepts people with a different haircut is not the community of strong authentic individuals that will create the new earth. Yes, it feels safe to be surrounded by people that look and believe the same, but that safety is similar to the safety of being protected by a government.

Collectivism is EXACTLY what the parasitic elites are trying to create, despite their 'conquer' strategies that are deployed to get there. Injecting yourself for the 'greater good' or 'ditching your car to combat climate change' are, besides the praise of communism and socialism in educational institutions, the clear signs that collectivism is the Orwellian dystopia 'they' want. They are not part of the solution.

To add to this. History has shown that people feeling identified with tribes has always been a way to create wars and conflict. That is why the cult tries to pit Christians against Muslims, the two largest tribes on the planet. Once they fight each other, instead of the cult and tribes, it is easy to implement the surveillance state.

I happen to live between the indigenous people in Mexico in the most indigenous state in the country. I also idealized them. Till I started to really get more informed. The intolerance of anybody not going along with the 'usos y costumbres', the only right way to do things in these communities is extreme. People questioning the narrative are excluded faster than those questioning the Covid narrative in 2020 from society.

That is not the solution. Strong authentic individuals that are not afraid of another opinion or haircut or habit, joining forces, physically together or in networks, are.

♡ LIKE (7) 💬 REPLY (2)

Diane Weber  Feb 17

Actually let me correct some of my posting below. America used to be a "tribe" wonderful melting pot of nationalities that came together under one set of assumptions about freedom, individualism, industry and even, broadly speaking, religion. You see this "tribe" in action if you read some of the diaries of Americans who traversed the country in the 1840s in covered wagons (see the series, "Covered Wagon Women" a delightful panorama of Americana).

So I meant the term "tribe" so broadly as to include a nation with shared values, culture, etc. When people grouped together as nations there was immense cultural creativity. And these nations were strong enough to accept, even reward eccentricity. But our sense of America has eroded to the point where no one really knows what it means. And Europe is gone. Hence the examples of "tribal" in my first post.

 LIKE (7)  REPLY (1)

JDG Feb 17

This kind of 'tribe' I can completely agree with.

And yes, polarization and creating different, more narrowly defined 'tribes' is how the globalist try to divide and conquer and implement their agenda.

Pitting groups against each other is an age old strategy. Social media algorithms show only posts that you agree with, registering with a political party (Dem or Rep) and media that represent one political colour only are examples of how they divide people.

By not being in contact with people with different ideas and beliefs it is easy to see them as the enemy. It is exactly that where I have problems with very homogeneous groups built around a specific religion or narrow cultural identity.

 LIKE (3)  REPLY

Diane Weber 🌸 Feb 17

Ah, yes. Ayn Rand all the way. What you describe has never occurred throughout history. And, to some extent you describe chaos.

Interesting how we differ: I think the globalists are trying desperately to detach individuals from their links to other human beings -- family, religion, heterosexual coupling -- so that they can insert the state between us and the biological/historical alternatives. People without these connections are far more likely to follow mandates, to do as they are told. And the end result is a world with only one relationship left, and that is between the individual and the state. One can be uniquely quirky, eccentric, etc., and still be connected to other human beings and thus in a security zone. We are not supermen, we are frail animals (in the absence of advanced technology), and our psyches and emotional states are even more delicate. The state wishes to disconnect us from those who surround, reassure, and nurture us, so that it has ultimate power; we will rush to it for protection (hence all of the unmarried women). In my opinion, after living a long time, I see that the strongest, most successful individuals are those anchored in "tribes" -- I use the term "tribe" loosely -- I mean a group that shares values, beliefs, definitions, etc. These groups protect their own members. Look, I get what you are saying. But the truly heroic break-away individuals who managed to buck the system and create something new were always rooted in something solid and away FROM. They operated within a cultural context. Creativity is an accretion, it builds on what is. No one has ever created out of nothing.

You are in ubermensch territory. You do not describe human nature as it actually is, you describe it in idealistic terms, as you would like it to be, or as you see yourself. Forgive me if I seem offensive. Frankly I had ideas exactly like yours decades ago. But experience has shown me a different view of the world. Belief systems are not optional for human survival, even if one deviates occasionally. Otherwise we are either robots or psychopaths.

♡ LIKE (5) 💬 REPLY (4)

JDG Feb 17

2. You mention a few other interesting things.

'our psyches and emotional states are even more delicate'

'you are in uebermensch territory'

'you describe human nature in idealistic terms, not as it actually is'

'belief systems are needed for human survival'

I think here you point at something interesting. You seem to take a rather low consciousness (or frequency if you wish) as the standard for human development where I, indeed point to a more elevated consciousness.

While I haven't read Nietzsche and do not know what his definition of uebermensch is, I would disagree my view is that of an uebermensch. This is a development/frequency/consciousness that many people can achieve and is a part of being human, even if it is not the norm.

I agree that mine is a more OPTIMISTIC VIEW. Not per se because I see it as a norm, sheepness indeed is the norm, but because of the awakening happening in the sense that more and more people see truths that were impossible to see for people only 5 or 6 years ago. I include myself here.

If so many people can see a much wider reality and truth than only a short time ago there should be the possibility to entertain and exchange ideas and opinions that were impossible to even imagine a few years ago. Of course, the ego tends to stick to old beliefs and opinions and can identify with new ones, but the fact that long-held beliefs are shattered makes the mind more open. Let me give a personal example: only 10 years ago I still believed the mainstream narrative about climate change.

I disagree that BELIEF SYSTEMS are needed for human survival. Belief systems have limitations and belief means you do not know. I used to believe vaccines do not work, now I KNOW they do. The previous was a belief by a person ignorant and uninformed about the topic, the second a knowing of somebody that informed himself.

Uebermensch territory? I don't think so.

As for psychopaths, many have very strong belief systems. The Satanist elite at the least.

What I write about the Age of Aquarius also is that what has not been or is not now, can still come. This energy supportive of authenticity and sovereignty has always been there before [or if it has been, it must have been tens of thousands of years ago in a totally different world).

So what can happen now, triggered also by the totalitarian drive of the global system will be beyond what we have seen before.

How many people voted for Trump because they wanted 'no more wars'.

Of course they were deceived, but the fact that so many Americans want no more shows a huge rise in frequency and consciousness.

These and other developments show me that something more is eventually for the human family than a grouping together in a tribe where everyone agrees to believe what they did a 100 years ago.

That said, division, destruction, war, tyranny is probably what comes first, and will wake up more people to our reality.

JDG Feb 17 Edited

1.

Thank you for your reply. There is a lot to unpack here.

I see what you are saying. I think it comes down to how we define 'tribe'.

If you mention a melting pot as the US (in the 1840's) as a 'tribe' I have no issue with that as something to aspire to or go back to with shared values about them, like freedom and individualism, but no straightjacket of beliefs and do's and do not's.

My beef is with a less loose definition of 'tribe' based on very strict and limited and accepted behaviors as well as a strong identification with these beliefs. I can mention various religious groups of which I do not know enough from personal experience to comment. Although there is enough in history to see that the collectivism of Islam (as of Christianity) has successfully been used by tyrants to create wars and division. A strong identity with a group makes it easy to be manipulated into hating the other group.

As we see now done with religions as well as the outdated left-right dualism.

As said, my reference is with the indigenous people here in Southern Mexico. I could say plenty of good things (growing their own food, having their own chickens, making their own tortillas, watching the sheep without looking at a phone) these are also communities with a lot of alcoholism (more than I have seen anywhere in my life and extensive travels), violence against women and the garbage and throw garbage everywhere in nature (while there are containers to dispose of it more environmentally friendly).

True healing and personal development is difficult when the local society is stuck in fitting in, religious belief and behavioural codes that haven't changed for centuries.

If people in such tribes appear 'strong and secure', I have a different view about experience. When living in a surrounding where your beliefs are never challenged might seem secure. But not being challenged is not the same as being secure and strong. I remember a Buddhist monk in a Buddhist meditation retreat flipped out because someone stepped outside what was deemed appropriate. When you are around you behaves within a narrow confine of behaviours nothing gets challenged. Till an outsider does.

Same with my ex-neighbour Jehovah Witness who turned out to be rather psychopathic.

I am sure there are plenty of examples to the contrary, but my view is that self-individualization, personal development, authenticity and free thought is key. You say, "I think the globalists are trying desperately to detach us from our other human beings."

I 100% agree. I do not understand why you think we differ here since I did not otherwise. It is obvious that the globalists want to destroy the family and diminish human contact. Indeed brainwashing about not having children, abortion, and promoting LGBTQ are all part of that agenda. Inserted beliefs over common sense are the weapons here.

I am all for human contact, but not in the context of narrow belief systems where there is little space for discord or discussion.

I am also not against communities but see another type of community than those with a very limited range of beliefs and behaviours.

 LIKE (2)  REPLY

:yulia: Feb 18

You might want to read How to dismantle an empire by Tereza Coraggio @thirdparadigm.

 LIKE  REPLY

JDG Feb 17

Let me copy-paste a text I found about the move from the Age of Pisces to Aquarius. To emphasize my main point (and hope).

Individuality and Authenticity

While focused on the group, the Aquarian Age also champions radical individuality and encourages us to embrace our unique quirks and eccentricities. This era is breaking free from outdated social norms and traditions and expressing ourselves. The emphasis is on being a sovereign individual who chooses to contribute their unique gifts to the collective, rather than conforming to fit in.

Leaving Pisces Behind: The Fading of a Previous Age

To understand where we are going, it helps to know what we are leaving behind. The Age of Pisces, which has dominated the last 2,000 years, was defined by its core themes: faith, belief, mysticism, and sacrifice. It was the age of the great religions, which were built on hierarchical structures, hidden knowledge held by a select few (gurus, priests), and the ideal of martyrdom.

The Piscean era valued faith over empirical proof and emotion over logic. Its structures were top-down, like monarchies and rigid religious institutions. We are witnessing the slow deconstruction of these systems. Trust in traditional authority is eroding, and people are seeking truth for themselves, a classic Aquarian transition. The shift is from a paradigm of "I believe" (Pisces) to one of "I know" (Aquarius).

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Phillip Lane Feb 20

Well said!

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Rob (c137) Robert's Occam's razor Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

To the dysfunctional, Epstein divides and crashes things.

To the normal humans like your son, it's just another story.

The whole thing feels like WWE to me.

Why would Epstein not just go to another state or an island or international waters? Nope dipped himself in Florida for the street cred.

Then the numerous pictures of him with tons of people in politics and business.

The emails are written in an odd way and why would Epstein or his associates be dumb enough to use plain email which we know is unsecure and easily copied?

It's the old guard being sold out because there's no other way for the predator class to gain trust.

I'm not worried though, people like your son and my nephew aren't as gullible as we thought.

They might only offer us an inch but we will want a mile

♡ LIKE (16) 💬 REPLY (1)

Clyde Clyde Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

It's good to see these conversations about the unconscionable, and ineffable taking place in cyberspace, but locally most people turn a dead ear because they have not personally experienced the violence of the system themselves.

♡ LIKE (9) 💬 REPLY

Roundball Shaman Roundball Shaman Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

"... Epstein isn't a one-off sicko... Pull that one thread and the whole tapestry unravels. He touches everything... It's endless.... scaffolding on a larger infrastructure... it's all interwoven. Some 'people' (actually, beasts) seem born without a conscience. Or maybe they once had but found that too incompatible with their love for Evil. Evil in some form has always existed. On this Planet we also have a thing called Evolution. That doesn't just mean how life forms and physical structures change over time. It also means that a force like Evil takes on new and more powerful and obscene forms. So the 'Evil' part of all this is not new. What IS new is that so many people days are now so aware of the level and depth of such pervasive evil and that it is so firmly in the upper reaches of powers centers and institutions and so many powerful people all World.

These beastly life forms hate humanity. They hate it because They do not view Themselves humans (humans are equivalent in Their demented cosmology to filthy useless animals). Themselves as gods over All. Some version of this spiritual deviancy has always existed. That's what the parable of Satan rebelling against God is all about. This is a characterization of the darkness and sickness within the human psyche spewing out with all its toxic insanity... by humans who want to claim godhood for Themselves and against all others and things. The deviants claim to be gods. Yet, they are not even worthy of being called the least bit human. Regardless of what has and may yet come out – and you can be damned sure that the veil of this evil will never see the light of day – the worst of the truth of all this is even more deeply depraved than what we see. What can be done when we won't know all the perps who have been involved in this orgy of depravity (for many generations)? No doubt, countless sick individuals will walk away without a scratch (at least until their personal Judgment Day of Karma arrives on their line). There will not be justice in this World on this side of Heaven you can be sure. It's hard to be ashamed when you feel you have no shame to give.

Evil is always among us. This demands that The Good must be brought with unwavering vigilance, and effort. We must with strength and uncompromising resolve incorporate The Good into our thoughts, words, and deeds. We must confront The Evils of this World's powerful and powerful with greater force than the strength of the Evil that manifests among us.

What is the answer to living in an Evil, Insane World? Stay committed to The Good and Stay clean yourself. Confront the evil you encounter in your circle of life and keep yourself clean from and filth. And know that very many of those who claim to have power and seize some false authority over You and This World – in fact have – NEITHER.

What can and must happen is that The People of this World completely lose faith and trust in the Powers-That-Be and Their institutions that create, support, and participate in this kind of generation evil and depravity. We can and must lose all respect for the many institutions of this World that have been perverted and toxified by this kind of unbridled human evil at the highest levels of power and influence. THAT is what we can and must do. That is what We the People must do in our power. We must learn these lessons no matter how painful and how much they might hurt our moral and ethical senses.

Any Social Contact we once may have had with these beasts and Their corrupt institutions is shattered forever...

And THAT is how even the most profoundness and darkness of Evil can end up contributi serving... The Good.

♡ LIKE (14) 💬 REPLY (1)

ERIKA LOPEZ  RECORD SCRATCH RADIO Mar 2

You really are a shaman. Thank you.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Yet Another Tommy Yet Another Tommy Feb 16

I don't think this is a change in direction for the perps, just them stepping on the acceler
They have been headed over a cliff for 500 years. This is just what the cliff looks like.

All their contrived emergencies and entropy driven scientific models have been made to f their enclosure of the commons, which is made necessary by their usury.

They are running into the natural limits of all that, but they just keep going because those them are too old or sick to do otherwise.

They are cracking open like an eggshell, from which a new world will emerge, but it won't dark one they imagine.

♡ LIKE (17) 💬 REPLY (2)

Jon Olsen  Jon Olsen Feb 16

♡ Liked by Joshua Stylman

As the chick who has to break its own protective shell to live, we need to break our s dependence on the relative bounty of empire (compared to much of the world)

♡ LIKE (6) 💬 REPLY (1)

Fadi Lama Fadi Lama Feb 16

♡ Liked by Joshua Stylman

A wake up call Jon....

"the relative bounty of empire (compared to much of the world)"

No longer exists... poverty in the US & Europe is on par and many cases worse t of the world".

♡ LIKE (6) 💬 REPLY

Shagbark Shagbark Feb 17

100

♡ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY (1)

Comment deleted Feb 18

Comment deleted

Shagbark Shagbark Feb 19

Witty, but I don't take your meaning.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

MBK  MBK Feb 16

♡ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Thanks for keeping up with your writing, Josh. This hit home for me in many ways.

♡ LIKE (13) 💬 REPLY

Philip Mollica  Evolution Feb 17

♡ Liked by Joshua Stylman

I would probably have been the last person to subscribe to the following, yet I cannot share that the time of the Great Battle has come.

It sure isn't the "religious" people bringing it. They will continue to serve the Demiurge.

But for those of us with awareness, it is time to choose your side.

Choose or it will be chosen for you.

When I was younger, I had the inescapable sense that I was "God's Warrior."

I have never been a "religious nut" and it never made sense to me, and I have always disagreed. Until now.

Never thought I would say these words, but God help us.

♡ LIKE (12) 💬 REPLY (1)

Freedom Farmer  Freedom Farmer Feb 17

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

You are not alone in this very specific realization.... right down to the awareness you in your life as well as the skepticism of the religious element. My early knowledge was much of being "God's Warrior;" it was more of knowing that in a past life I was someone who wrought cruelty upon others (I saw things in dreams as a child and was thoroughly convinced, to say the least.) and now had to sacrifice EVERYTHING to make up for it. I've always been comfortable with a very non-religious spirituality, which has guided me toward being a spiritual person. But yeah, I've been hiding out for too long--being merely a good neighbor, friend, family member, and stranger to others--and the moment when I put it all on the line is now beginning to emerge from the mist.

Having been a 9/11 Truther early on (2003-05 transformation period), I had thought I was meant to bring the sword to the actual perps; but I'm glad I didn't dash myself against a wall in such pursuits back then; I'm in a much better place now to do constructive things to protect people, help prepare a community for coming upheaval, etc.

 LIKE (11)  REPLY (1)

Philip Mollica  Evolution Feb 17 Edited

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

Pleased to make your acquaintance.

I just spoke with my partner who is also a warrior of sorts and she is all in.

I think it's time that we begin to find each other.

Thanks for the acknowledgement.

We've all been things in other lives that we would find abhorrent. I know I have a

That's to prepare us for now.

 LIKE (10)  REPLY

Peter Taylor  Peter's Substack Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Or are we watching a controlled demolition that clears the ground for something worse?

We are living the embodiment of the breakdown of civil society as we once knew it, being for the new age of digitalisation, of one world government, of centric rule, our own real Game of Thrones .. imprisoned as we are intended to be ring fenced in the digital prison they have the degeneracy and depravity a signalling of the new rules, an anything goes mindset, we have things, a new world exemplified by the machinations this administration, no more being bound by international laws, conventions and norms nor the institutions we had as a means of guidance despite their non effectiveness, a non effectiveness resulting the politicisation of these venerable and revered institutions and norms..

In short commensurate the talk of UFO's, Demons, Satanism especially on open display in recent years every major international event, I mean heck just go back and look at the CERN operations truly demonic, they are preparing us for the long planned arrival of their god, the antichrist. Zionist Israel and everything it represents is antithetical in every way to what scripture portrays the treatment of children, those considered most precious and alike god, targeted, not only the various depravities we now have been reading about with Epstein, actions of a world that has long shocked us, but also consider the babies in the womb aborted, the numbers in the tens of millions per annum, whilst the numbers of trafficked and abused children are not that far behind, when all of these acts are overlaid scripture, together the homosexuality, (that's not to say I disagree with individual lifestyle choice but I am pointing out that which we know occasions the breakdown of our society as lifestyle) breakdown of family values, transgenderism, the soft cocking criticism especially at the upper echelons of society, the more vile the act the greater the reward is. We live in a world that has become alien, completely to those of us who believe and hold to Christian values Overlay everything you know, you have read, you know that is or has happened, planned, overlay it to what is acceptable to our creator, his son Jesus Christ and it is manifestly clear that everything being experienced is antithetical, anathema to god, to the strictures based beliefs... as if they are denying god..

In short this is just the beginning, the complete subjugation of man, of our souls is the plan. Just saying .. in denying god they deny themselves... that we know, we just need to understand what it is, rise up against it... in short we must ensure ours, our loved one's souls remain committed, not given up to anyone or anything, hold the faith, the line.... Your belief... just saying

Kia Kaha (Stay strong) from New Zealand

♥ LIKE (10)  REPLY (1)

Kaylene Emery Kaylene Emery Feb 17

Amen .

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY

Donna Ruth Donna Ruth Feb 16

"Maybe the friends who went quiet didn't stop talking to me because they didn't like me : Maybe I was just exhausting and they didn't want to hear it. They weren't wrong. Still, I ke wondering from their perspective. What would it mean if the crazy stuff I've been sharing What would the implications be to them and their lives? That burden was too much for m: T.S. Eliot has his Murder in the Cathedral character, Thomas Becket, muse: "Mankind can very much reality."

Indeed. As you attest, we have been exhausting to others in our redpill efforts. Many do n hear it; sometimes, even our loved ones. Why is it that we've been able to bear this journe they don't even want to start on it? I suspect a large part of it has to do with the current s and strains surrounding us. People just want a sense of normalcy. They want to go back t when life seemed to make sense. We were the innocents who had no idea this mayhem w to blindside us. I have a photo of a birthday gathering with three other friends in January, can see it on our faces: carefree, joyous, innocent.

I think many of us are stunned that no one seems to be talking about this. It's all about th affair, or the Olympics, or ongoing tragedies. How come we overlook the story of the cent course, it is the mainstream media, the directors of our thoughts. If they're not talking ab must not be real. I have even talked to people that I talked to perhaps five years ago abou atrocities, and when I mention it they look at me with a blank look as if they've never hear It seems few of us have answers as to how this plays out - and even less a crystal ball.

As an addendum, what struck me, interestingly, is part of the narrative at the beginning o article: your children are in school. I don't understand it. We adults who have been wading filth for 5 or 10 years or more have power to shelter ourselves and surround ourselves wit minded people, yet some choose to toss their children into that boiling cauldron, and hop will be strong, that they will be leaders, hoping they will change the tide of affairs in a tota school system. I am trusting that somehow your children are in a solid Christian school, w values virtues, and morals are inculcated daily.

♡ LIKE (14) 💬 REPLY (2)

Dave Hamilton Dave Hamilton Feb 17

Our media was destroyed by Epstein compromised Bill Clinton (and congress) when the Telecom Act of 1996. Our media is the biggest problem we face in America and t but zionists and Marxists have taken it over and are waging a very successful uncon war on the rest of us.

♡ LIKE (8) 💬 REPLY (2)

Donna Ruth Donna Ruth Feb 17

Yes ,yes, yes, yes!!

I have been saying that for decades.

The MSM needs to be hobbled at the knees.

Hopefully, the Donald is on it.

♡ LIKE (3) 💬 REPLY (1)

Mark Hopkins Hopkinesque Substack Feb 18

If you want to 'hobble' MSM... don't watch it. One by one we dissolve that i and shift to our own publications... like Josh's, right here!

♡ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY (1)

Donna Ruth  Donna Ruth Feb 18

Of course, that is always an avenue. We watch as little as possible and to alt news - so we are doing our bit. Most don't. They permit their ears tickled and their minds filled with the nonsense of NYT, WaPo, CNN, MMSN news, and all the rest.

The hobbling must be top down. In my country, the "national news net" receives $1.5B in government funding annually. All legacy media receive so they know where their bread is buttered.

And so it goes in the US where big pharma and other advertisers offer bucks to MSM. And there is the omnipresent squeeze from other elite and establishments.

Nothing will truly change until the lib-lefty socialist chattering and marauding is curtailed from above.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Mark Hopkins  Hopkinesque Substack Feb 18

Hi Donna. The system is so broken that honest leaders with integrity were murdered (RFK), 2. Abused or intimidated and thus repulsed by the prospect of running (H. Ross Perot), or sabotaged in office like Trump (Why has Bondi not prosecuted anyone?) You are dealing with a voracious self-serving juggernaut with trillions of stolen dollars and millions of minions in the millions. MSM is an essential arm of the 'Blob' and it is up to us. No one is there to save us but 'us'. Those 'Lib-lefties' are confused followers of the very 'kings' they oppose. Our alternative to MSM... regularly strips the clothes from emperors. (Exactly the right place.) When the clothes are off, the illusion shifts. Lefties will clamor for cover under a new illusion. (Yes, they do get it again.) We'll undress that one too. Good luck out there.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Freedom Farmer Freedom Farmer Feb 17

Absolutely. And the Smith-Mundt Modernization (AKA "Gutting" !) Act of 2013, was hinged onto the NDAA monstrosity that year.

LIKE (3) REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Feb 23

Author

Sadly most people have never heard of this act - our whole species has been Mundted.

LIKE (1) REPLY

Unsung Heretic Unsung Heretic Feb 17

You make excellent observations until the final sentence. How is it that the deceptor Christianity has escaped you? Seems like a history lesson is in order...

LIKE (1) REPLY (1)

Donna Ruth Donna Ruth Feb 17

Been a delighted returnee to Catholicism for 40 years now. Embraced agnosticism could not understand why I was never truly happy. The good Lord gave me a gift the Holy Spirit and I have never looked back. A wonderful journey.

C'mon in, UH, the water's fine!

LIKE (4) REPLY (1)

Unsung Heretic Unsung Heretic Feb 17

After reading Not In His Image by John Lamb Lash and getting a true picture of the origins of Christianity, I could never go back to believing that bloodthirsty false Abrahamic religions are the scourge of the earth. But you seem like a nice person and I won't hold it against you.

LIKE (4) REPLY (1)

erin  erin Feb 21

Really? Looking at the piles of skulls behind us, I would say that Islam & Atheism left the most of them behind.

I find a faith-based life far more satisfying than unbelief. Tried both.

 LIKE  REPLY (2)

Unsung Heretic Unsung Heretic Feb 21

And to clarify, I am not proposing to live a life of 'unbelief.' I have faith. It doesn't require the Abrahamic religions.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Unsung Heretic Unsung Heretic Feb 21

Yes really. Islam is Abrahamic, btw. But if you go back as far as we can, three of them have left more than their fair share of skulls: Judaism, Christianity and Islam.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 21

Author

This exchange is kind of a case study if the piece, no? I suspect you may agree on more than you realize but you're arguing from a frame instead of finding common ground.

To be clear, I think everyone should follow whatever faith calls to them; that's sacred and personal. But recognize that religion is one of the pillars our overlords use to divide us. The architecture doesn't care which one you pick. It cares that you're fighting about it instead of looking up.

 LIKE (3)  REPLY (1)

Unsung Heretic Unsung Heretic Feb 21

Maybe my meaning was lost. Is pointing out that Islam is Abrahamic religion, (thus we agree) argumentative?

Yes religions are problematic! And the Abrahamic religion special role today (when have they not, though). All 3 have the excuse/reason to murder countless people over thousands of years.

Today's unfolding can be traced to the Dead Sea, and a mind virus of racial superiority.

They take it quite literally, and have taken over the political banking, entertainment, human trafficking, pornography, machine of much of the earth. I'm sure you've noticed!

Sorry I don't remember your full article and its point. I do remember I agreed with you and thought it was very insightful read to the end.

I personally am aligned with the natural world and the stars looking both down and up... Team Humanity. I'm hopeful we reach a tipping point in our favor, soon.

I'm hosting an intention experiment next weekend towards... Leaving the link in case you or others would like to join!

https://open.substack.com/pub/unsungheretic/p/join-the-experiment-for?utm_source=share&utm_medium=android&r=4z91m

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 21

Author

I'm glad you enjoyed the piece, however, I'm pretty sure I didn't single out a particular group as the culprits. The system is supranational and multi-ethnic.

FWIW, I'm all in on the natural world + team humanity

♡ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY (1)

Unsung Heretic  Unsung Heretic Feb 21

I'm thinking there's a parasitic mind virus being manipulate people. Basically, through any way antithetical to life and nature.

Religions are a major way they manipulate, but only way and not only through religion.

Without remembering your article nuance, I recall why I wrote my original comment, sorry. I was a very good article FWIW 😊

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Freedom Farmer  Freedom Farmer Feb 24

Excellent points, and I'm right there with y Naturalistically spiritual but NOT religious.

All religions are man-made and are thus fl best--and designed for / vulnerable to ma and evil at worst. (With perhaps solely Buc northern "Native American" spiritualities b exceptions.)

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (2)

Continue thread →

Captain Jessica  Captain Jessica Feb 16

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

Your sons reaction is because his generation is called,
The Clean-up Crew.

 LIKE (10)  REPLY (2)

Annette O  AnnetteO's Update Feb 16

Hope so!

 LIKE (6)  REPLY (1)

Captain Jessica  Captain Jessica Feb 17

every Generation has a "job".

 LIKE (3)  REPLY

ElleSD  ElleSD Feb 18

 LIKE  REPLY

Professor Mus  CITY MOUSE MOVES TO THE COUNTRY Feb 16

Thanks for writing so clearly what I've been feeling but unable to articulate, at least as we
The murk of it all, the uncertainty, drives many to fearful anxiety. Strangely, for myself at (of age, I am like your son--curious yet emotionally detached from the chaos. I wasn't this a year ago. I think I am no longer fearful because I believe 'they' want us to be scared, 'th divide us, 'they' want us to normalize and accept the evil of Epstein, Gates, Fauci, etceter made it my personal little rebellion to not give 'them' any of my emotional energy and, ins 'them' by living my best life and walking the middle path rather than taking sides. Really e provocative essay--thank you. Peace...

 LIKE (12)  REPLY (1)

Kathryn Cullison Kathryn Cullison Feb 16 Edited

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

YES! Just like josh, you articulated very clearly where I'm at. I have guesses, but ultir only know that I don't know. I agree that "they" want us divided, confused and scare Therefore my way of dealing with it is to work on letting go of fear, live my best life, s and kindness and connect with the divine and trust that with that divine help, my intu lead me where I need to be.

 LIKE (9)  REPLY (1)

Professor Mus CITY MOUSE MOVES TO THE COUNTRY Feb 17

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Yes, it is the connection with Source that exonerated my fear of the unknown. It's mindful, purposive work--prayer, meditation, reading and writing, being with nature surrounding myself with like-hearted people, and staying away from the machine grounds me in the divine.

I saw a video someone had posted on X about how those who are awakening feel to leave society. I think really it means going inward. It takes this isolation to find one's self and then, comfort in the surety of Source. Peace...

♥ LIKE (9) 💬 REPLY (2)

Lance Leonard Lance Leonard Feb 17

Yes, exactly! "I think really it means going inward" There are many ways to 'leave society". The most important, IMO, is in consciousness.

♥ LIKE (3) 💬 REPLY (1)

Professor Mus CITY MOUSE MOVES TO THE COUNTRY Feb 18

You can be totally alone in a crowd. When you choose to be alone in a crowd when you start to empower yourself.

♥ LIKE 💬 REPLY

ElleSD ElleSD Feb 18

Your comment resonated with me. After the Charlie Kirk assassination and the fracturing of opinions on what happened to him my brain, my spirit could handle it anymore. I hadn't realized that all these different realities that exist around us was clashing with my personal and ingrained need for reason, justice, and peace. It's all too much. I've retreated to nature, books, meditation, prayer, and creative kinds to give my spirit something steady and real.

I wish that all propaganda media would cease to exist all at once. Pull the plug and end the programming trance. Stop the madness. Go outside and play.

♥ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Professor Mus CITY MOUSE MOVES TO THE COUNTRY Feb 18

I feel blessed that my body/brain/heart/gut somehow intuited that return to nature would return me to my spirit. I still get sucked into stuff but am rebalance more quickly and strongly.

The Charlie Kirk assassination was one of those things that pushed me out of balance for a bit. The pain of his death was real, but watching the power and machinations, the finger pointing and blame, reminded me this was a movie of sorts, a simulation.

As long as there is gold and a passel of psychopaths running the show propaganda will continue. AI makes it harder. So yes--pull the plug and everything you see and hear. Peace...

LIKE (2) REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Feb 23

Author

But wait, it was extremist Jihadists... I'm sure of it!

No, it was Israel!

No, it was a deranged trans kid!

No, it was the deep state!

No, it was Erika Kirk!

No, he's still alive!

We are living in a choose-your-own-adventure book.

LIKE (2) REPLY (1)

Professor Mus CITY MOUSE MOVES TO THE COUNTRY Feb 23

Liked by Joshua Stylman

Ha! I write fiction and, frankly, cannot come up with any more plot lines--or characters--than what we are currently living. The hole chasing certainly provides enough choices! Peace...

LIKE (1) REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

The truth is stranger than fiction, it seems.

 LIKE  REPLY

kim  Feb 16

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

.... Reading your article was actually comforting. I am all alone surrounded by those that c
"head in the sand" and it's associated denial with judgement. I truly wish I had a group to that engaged in active research, revelation, discussion, bantering thoughts, observations deeper dives of research. To "chew" over the newest or oldest morsels and see what we with..... without having to be "right" and to realize the slippery slope that it is.

I am truly grateful for having been guided to your "campfire:" and will continue to sit with your fellow thinkers. For, "Oh, how I need this now" Blessings and Gratitude xo

 LIKE (7)  REPLY

William  William Feb 16

Wow. I've had so many of these thoughts running through my own head. Kudos to you, Jc being able to write them down in an illustrative way.

 LIKE (11)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

 LIKE  REPLY

Nicole Palitti  Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Great piece, like others been putting this all together since March 2020. Fascinated by w some of us to go full retard and others just can't? I have no one who dissociated from me glad you have some testing the waters. Keep writing it makes us feel less alone in our tort self and exhausting to others ways. White pill is Nature, growing food, being the primary loving those close. The people is the power, until more come along, we will keep leading quietly (not on social media), in-person and by example. Stay strong, do fun things like sp music and smile (even if faking it, it is self propaganda!)

♡ LIKE (6) 💬 REPLY

DJL DJL Feb 17

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Josh seems to be living in my head! Everything he wrote, all of it.

♡ LIKE (5) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Perhaps I MK'ed you without you knowing, haha.

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY

John Day MD Dr. John's Blog Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Me too, Josh. I don't know, too, but it is not slowing me down because reality is coming in firehose.

Like the back of the Bomb Squad t-shirt says, "If you see me running, try to keep up".

;-} drjohnsblog.substack.com

♡ LIKE (5) 💬 REPLY

Brian  Brian Feb 16

I realized 6 years ago how it was all tied together I ask the Holy Spirit for Discernment Wisdom Knowledge every morning when I start my Day and HE and the living word of GOD have opened my eyes wide I was deeply depressed for 4 years after coming to this knowledge but the LOVE of GOD carried me through that, I was a History and Political Science Major in College and thought I knew what was right but I was wrong GOD opens your eyes to the truth if you ask him and let him. Read the Bible frequently and do not just TAKE PASTORS WORD FOR WHAT IT SAYS MOST TIMES AND IN THIS DAY WE ARE WRONG we are in the last days and time is short whether you believe it or not this is going on the world it is about to be judged. As a Christian I am to tell others what is going on be a light in these troubled times my job is not to convince others that JESUS is the Only your only HOPE that is the job of the HOLY SPIRIT to work in you hopefully HE is or has if you might need to worry about your own salvation anyway just my two cents nothing new these files to me just some more confirmation of the obvious

 LIKE (9)  REPLY (2)

Be Concerned  Be Concerned Feb 16 Edited

Well said. Now is indeed the time to learn about Jesus, & learn how to receive the salvation He freely offers. Time might be very short before the Rapture, & the horrors that will follow the Great Tribulation Period afterward -- for those who will be left behind, who didn't receive the free gift of salvation -- will be far worse than what is coming out now from the Earth. Anyone interested can call 1-888-NEED HIM or go to Billygraham.org. Or find a Bible pastor, but many these days are more like Joel Osteen, who are leading people AWAY from Jesus!

 LIKE (2)  REPLY

Mikhael Arnold Through My Eyes Feb 17

Interesting.

 LIKE  REPLY

Honeybee Honeybee's Substack Feb 16

I guess I'm lucky. When I red pillled on my own in 2015, I began reading voraciously. I was 77. None of the Epstein material surprises me.

Part of my luck involves the ability to consider viewpoints equally without knowing an answer. Because of this trait, when firm evidence establishes a direction toward truth, I can easily let go of former beliefs or possibilities for ones confirmed.

True: " One of the hardest things for me to come to terms with is that even the bad guys find truth."

The task ahead is called discernment. Much truth exists in lies. Much truth springs from information (mind controlled) stories. We simply have to get used to this fact. For this reason, I believe more firmly in Steiner's idea of consciousness evolving (for the progressing human being) intuition similar to clairvoyance but more highly structured and integrated into the fabric of materiality. A consciousness is developing in which people will KNOW.

Why "now?" Just my POV. Maybe I'm wrong. The Hierarchy (as you term them) did not want the public to persist in this fashion. Epstein was quietly removed (either death or Israel) with that no further curiosity or discussion ensued. With the advent of Trump (who promised "transparency"); increased citizen journalism; and--the really big factor--the enormous awakening of normies via "The Covid Pandemic," many more people are seeing the world from a different perspective. They miscalculated on Covid. (1) It didn't succeed in the expected death toll. (2) It awakened many people too soon. (3) They left far too many people disabled and unable to work or pursue life. Those around such people eventually ask questions even in the depths of denial.

The public's awakening is a surprise to The Hierarchy. It's much faster than anticipated. Their deadlines were 2030-40. Now they're 2025-30. For this reason, they currently emphasize censorship (look at Europe attempting to export their version of "web control" worldwide). AI...which will effect the censorship or narrative they want people to believe. This is why so much money is being put into AI--both facilities and R&D.

If your eyes are wide open and you've been observant, you can see instances of censorship and narrative building already on the internet. They're already falsifying data. For this reason, I own books. I own material writing.

P.S. By "telling us" and supposedly obtaining "implicit consent," they gain nothing. I assume their karma does not change and that they remain heavily weighted and tied into the sphere of material Earth at this point. "Implied consent" is not consent. They instill fear by equating concepts: people become terrified of their own intuition and ability to make decisions. They become "frozen." They'd prefer all people look like "deer frozen in the headlights."

Steiner calls their region of life the 8th Sphere. They are bound to this Earth. This Earth is for demise as evolving humanity cycles off into a more etheric existence. I'm encountering corroboration through a newly acquired introduction to the yoga of Sri Aurobindo and the fantastic reference. Once again...just my POV.

I find St. Germain a comfort for these times. The heart is the most essential route forward

▼ LIKED (3) ↻ REPLY (2)

Reader East of Albuquerque Reader East of Albuquerque Feb 17 Edited

Yes, the heart is the most essential route forward. And I too could say, "Part of my luck is the ability to consider viewpoints equally without knowing an answer."

♡ LIKE (4) ↻ REPLY

Donna Donna Feb 17

Ahhh. Steiner. I read him a lot during these times.

♡ LIKE (1) ↻ REPLY

Joseph A Gorski Joseph A Gorski Feb 16

This could be the year critical mass is reached to overthrow the global cult of control.

♡ LIKE (8) ↻ REPLY (1)

Jon Olsen Jon Olsen Feb 16

Yes, The dialectical process wherein the internal contradictions force a change, like a lid finally blowing its lid.

♡ LIKE (5) ↻ REPLY (2)

Freedom Farmer Freedom Farmer Feb 18 Edited

The Year of the Fire Horse! (And--at the conclusion of solar maximum--volcano literally "firing up.")

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6B2Sp260ko8>

♡ LIKE ↻ REPLY

Joseph A Gorski Joseph A Gorski Feb 16

Yes

♡ LIKE ↻ REPLY

Jeff Verge  Silent Letters Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Perhaps "The Thinning" is not a singular 'thing' that we can grasp and pin down definitive
Perhaps the situation is evolving and the future is as ever in flux and open to superpositional potentials?

Perhaps "The Thinning" was not a deliberate act of demolition, but seeing as it is in process regardless it could push the "vampire elite" (as Thiel puts it) into attempting a premature their techno-totalitarian slave state, which opens the possibility that they will try and yet :

Further, knowing now that people still worship Ba'al, perhaps Zarathustra wasn't wrong?

I don't know either, except to say that nothing good will come without a struggle.

♥ LIKE (4) 💬 REPLY

marcy french Feb 16

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

The connections are the most disturbing part. Thanks Josh.

♥ LIKE (3) 💬 REPLY

Adrienne Adrienne Feb 23

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

If the kids know, and the adults DON't burn everything to the ground, what will they think

♥ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY

Chevrus Chevrus Feb 20

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Great to have you back! The above piece does a great job and in a way that almost anyone relate to....

♥ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY

Will R Thomson Will's Newsletter Feb 17

♥ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Thanks Josh. Utterly brilliant article .and I don't give out praise. Wish everyone would rea grow a bit of humility. It's a real "now take a step back and look at this massive complex v fuck...".

♥ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY

Wolf-Steppen Wolf-Steppen Feb 16

It IS truly horrifying that children are being subjected to this, but you're right, it is part of i program, seeking to "normalize" it, particularly in young, impressionable minds, and to at make it so its not shocking to them. And the globalpedos are already rolling out the schoo curriculum teaching kids, down to very young, to have sex with each other, and to have se adults. So, you see, they're taking away the shock value and "normalizing" everything imr And evil and vile.

♥ LIKE (6) 💬 REPLY

Robert A Barricklow 🗑 Robert A Barricklow Feb 16

It's heading to The Dark Technocratic State

<https://davidahughes.net/iain-davis-on-the-technocratic-dark/>

Trump's billionaire techs have been imp[lementing it from Day One.

Musk's DOGE sucked up all the Federal Info For FREE!

♥ LIKE (6) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman 🗑 Feb 23

Author

Sadly this may be true.

David Hughes and Iain Davis both know what time it is.

Funny use of Day One, btw:

<https://techcrunch.com/2026/02/10/vc-masha-bucher-epstein-associate-and-day-c-founder-explains-herself/>

♥ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Robert A Barricklow  Robert A Barricklow Feb 23

 Liked by Joshua Stylman

Many were duped. Not only by Epstein Inc., but by their own governments and i

I'm now leaning towards the Trump Administration being the Epstein Network PERSONIFIED!

Love your work!

Love your keen insights!

Very few, I give "weight" to.

You are an exception.

You know the enemy, but more importantly: You know yourself.

AND, perhaps, most "unknown" - the power of "SELF-DECEPTION".

Looking forward to more of your posts!

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

BigBuckle BigBuckle Feb 16

I'm as sure as I can be that the Epstein Files follow on from the Wikileaks/Assange drama Awful things are revealed about 'them'. People are outraged & fearful. But nothing gets done it.

The message is clear:

'We are powerful. You - the cattle - are not. We - the evil ones - can do as we please & will continue to do so. Be afraid, cattle.'

It's all a manufactured drama. Why else would this be all over the controlled media?

 LIKE (5)  REPLY

Thumbnail Green  Oxymoron's Substack Feb 16

I think if it is a planned reveal they fucked up. Permaculture and the like have been busy in alternative system design, building, research and implementation for 50 years and we have counter cultural prior to these revelations, we did not need to see sex perverts, we saw a concentrated energy substituting for the beauty and efficiency of nature. We said 'this is An ornamental pear in a school with children instead of an edible pear? A lawn instead of nourishing vegies at your door. A split system over a rotating woodlot. Money instead of r

This system is not saveable.

Create the new and woodchip the old dead wood.

 LIKE (5)  REPLY

oliver marks Oliver's Substack Feb 16

I'm intrigued by talking heads who have been around forever like like Tucker Carlson, Alex Joe Rogan etc all of whom are heavily promoted on youtube and other platforms. Their po is always mutating. Compare Carlson when he was presented via Fox 'News' circa 2014 to youtube when he is over the targets and very on point.

Where/what will he be saying in 2 years, while still being prominently promoted?

So much feels like 'establishment' safety valves. Evgeny Morozov's 2013 book 'To Save E Click Here' discussed how people feel they have expressed their opinions successfully by on social media, and that somehow both solves problems and more importantly dissipate urgency to actually do anything....

Great post as usual Joshua.

 LIKE (5)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Again, your guess is good as mine about what's going on but I'm always curious abo who get amplified... even if I agree with their takes.

 LIKE  REPLY

Michael P  Feb 16

Great article.

No mention currently of the geoengineering/chemtrails in the Epstein files so far? I think what's going on above us in plain sight is the "thinning" and everything else is a distraction to keep masses attention elsewhere. Where is the money for this world wide spraying operation coming from? Just one man's opinion.

 LIKE (5)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

I haven't dug into this angle yet, however, given how intertwined he was with EVERYONE, I bet there's a connection.

 LIKE  REPLY

Emmy  Feb 16

This is absolutely outstanding...

Thank God people (normies) are finally waking up to this...I mention God because He IS in control, no matter what it looks like. And, as the bible says (365 times) "fear not" "do not worry" because we are truly headed for a golden era.

 LIKE (5)  REPLY

BigBlueSky  BigBlueSky Feb 16

All of our children that should have been held in loving arms and cherished who have been objects and hurt or murdered. And, now they want to turn humanity into objects to be used mindless, obedient robots--devoid of human emotion. The information that's coming out is a test for where we're at as a society. It's not just about depopulation for these evil people, dehumanization. People freak out about them sacrificing children, which is absolutely mind bogglingly horrific, but what do you think abortion is?? Do people realize Margaret Sanger was one of them, and had she been alive today she certainly would have been on the top of the Epicureans. What do you think paying these ghouls to tear a child apart in their mother's womb is? Or by while chemical executions are being performed in the name of "compassion" labeled as mercy killings or suicide? We're part of the problem and we're helping them perform satanic sacrifices. An eye for an eye. STOP IT and reverse course as a society, nothing is going to change. It's got to stop, and it's got to stop with us.

 LIKE (4)  REPLY

Mark Brody  Mark's Newsletter Feb 16

Very nice piece on the confusion we all swim around in from TMI. Glad to see you back, J. Your writing style is very effective. Guess you live up to your name. One might wonder how the data release fits in with the flood of disturbing civic events that keeps pouring over us - scandals, corruption, paid political protests, and lie after lie after lie. Is the point of this to exploit the emotional impact of "news" so that when the denouement finally arrives, we will be in a dither that no effective resistance will be possible? Is confusion the point, shock, horror and bewilderment the desired effect? Is this emotional grooming setting the stage for what is to be the coup de grace - the relegation of humanity to digital servitude? I really don't know, but it helps to be prepared, just in case.

 LIKE (4)  REPLY

Dr. K  Dr. K Feb 16

Josh, Thrilled to see you writing again...you have been missed. Was just thinking yesterday needed to drop you a note to see if all was OK, and then like magic this piece appeared.

As you will recall, I have been talking about this conundrum since we met -- I have seldom interested in what and far more interested in who and why? I could not answer those questions years ago and I still cannot, but they are the same questions.

You are among the most forward thinking in musing about this all. I hope you stumble on something that will make it all clear. I, like Diogenes, have been looking for a very long time and not come to the "honest truth" yet. Fingers crossed.

 LIKE (4)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Dr. K! Your timing is always impeccable... unlike mine (apologies for the slow reply).

We're both still asking the same questions and yet neither of us seem closer to the honest truth. Well, at least the company's good. Would love to catch up anytime. Best to you!

 LIKE  REPLY

Borka Radovanovic  Borka Radovanovic Feb 17 Edited

God. We need God in our lives and our children's lives. We need Jesus Christ. We need to stand against this evil darkness with the light of Christ. We must teach and live the word of God nothing else that can help us deal with such evil wickedness.

 LIKE (3)  REPLY (1)

jane ✨ jane's Substack Feb 17

I liked this comment: i believe that we need God, but we do not all need jesus. I have gripe with Jesus, about the claim that unless ye come by me ye shall not enter the ki God. What about the buddhists and hindus and taoists and muslims and countless p never heard of jesus? I believe their wisdom and compassion and surrender to God a can also lead people to God and the kingdom of God.

I told Jesus this one day a few years ago, and he kindly released me from that dogm: the only way. Then, i bowed down to him and turned to another path.

Too many people have been poisoned by bad teachings about Jesus or bad christiar merciless judgment of others, smug religiosity, pastors who have sex with parishione those who have been alienate by poor Christian example, the road to god through Je non starter, but they may be open to another religion or heaven forbid, new age spiri in his her its mercy comes to us in the way we can best accept. Great is the mercy of

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY (1)

Borka Radovanovic ⚔ Borka Radovanovic Feb 20 Edited

God forbid that any evil deeds of wicked humanity be assigned to the perfect si of God.

Jesus Christ IS the resurrected Messiah. He IS the eternal living God who can fc sins.

And whether you believe it or not, He IS the ONLY way to Heaven. 💖💖💖

I highly encourage you to read the New Testament so that you can fully underst: you are rejecting 🙏

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

TasteOftruth Taste of Truth Feb 17

Thank you Josh! This was an excellent piece and appreciate you taking the time to share of us. I re-stacked and read outloud to my husband in the other room so many parts of th You've put to words what many of us are feeling.

♡ LIKE (3) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Thank you, Megan!

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

KingMo KingMo Feb 17

Masterful essay. The Demons and Ghouls that control the world will not be flushed out or punished...they will be protected by a digital paywall. They going to ascend higher up hidden technology. They will control the rest of us with the BEAST System. WE need to go back to the center and get centered. we needed to get off the grid as much as possible. We need to create life from the Chaos to share resource with your neighbor. We need to not act in FEAR but in Level sound mind: CHRISTMINDED. Think Globally, but act local. we need to not fear death, because it could be our final NonConsent against the wickedness and EVIL.

 LIKE (3)  REPLY

MissLadyK  MissLadyK Feb 17

Exposing these grotesque perverts does not mean they no longer exist. Who and where have they taken their trafficking to? The compulsion still exists. Compulsion for power and perverse monsters and Frankenstein's among us controlling our institutions as if by one mind, huddled through the corridors of power. We cower in response, confused, looking for reality? We build our reality each and every day while perceiving the world as a threat. Paranoia is our reality. Again we learn from Jesus: Jesus did not entrust himself to any man, He only entrusted himself to God. Makes trusting a moot point. Create beauty, be kind, love freely and know you are loved. Evil has no power, only the power people give it.

 LIKE (3)  REPLY

Kathryn Cullison Kathryn Cullison Feb 16

Awesome essay! Thank you for clearly articulating how I feel. Like Debbie I suspect the system is designed to demoralize people so they will go along with the AI government. But as I said in my comment, the only thing I know is that I don't know what's going to happen. So I will live my life, spread love and kindness and focus on love; love of family, friends and the divine, as something the globalists can't feel or steal.

 LIKE (3)  REPLY

Frank Peri Feb 16

Took a glance at The Externalization Of The Hierarchy by Alice Bailey. WOW Pretty far out Unfamiliar language and notions. Since I'm technically trained (programmed?) waaay to a Need a basis to have any faith that is a reality. Besides AI is doing a great job at engineering and its only going to get better as in indistinguishable from "real"

But I still believe there is a REAL if you can find it. Getting harder. Keep asking the question

♡ LIKE (3) 💬 REPLY

Debbie Cloud (Chris & Debbie) Ⓜ Chris's Substack Feb 16

Always refreshing. In the Jungian VOID. Curiosity. Clear. And Becoming. Most excellent.

The ugly Truth has been there. Now many more see it. We are not alone.

Its the perspective and clear enough to shift in the moment.

Good job. Always enjoy your work.

This drop puts the deep connections of the manipulation in our face. And the scary part that must face is we have lost our own real connections. That takes work to fix. It shakes us up the VOID where we land is an unknown.

You son has lived THIS. Facing the reality of it is almost refreshing. The fear in the dark is Shining light makes things better.

The Alphas are looking at GenZ and see things like them that it must change. They are looking us to build those bridges and connect the missing gaps. They are waiting for us to WAKE UP

I am glad we are here. The work is far from done. More to come. Stay in the process.

♡ LIKE (2) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Ⓜ Feb 23

Author

Thanks, Debbie. It means a lot from you - I know you've lived this stuff forever. Some just catching up.

"The fear in the dark is exposed. Shining light makes things better."

Yep, that's it. Appreciate you being here.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Ronin  Ronin's Revelations Feb 16 Edited

They had to get Conservatives on board for the digital panopticon, and Trump was the pe vehicle. However!, they also need tech and military integration to keep pace with China (a James Rosone's excellent near future military books - he has 20 years spec ops and PMC experience, so he knows more than I do)

 LIKE (2)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

I hope that's wrong but it's certainly one of the possibilities we're looking at. Time wi

 LIKE  REPLY

inge jarl clausen inge-jarl 's Newsletter Feb 18

We are two-legged animals - today, some want to turn us into obedient hybrid machines. incorrect as it may sound, dualism's binary logic serves psychopathic elites, traditions, ar who thrive on division, suppressing collective resilience.

The antidote lies in reorienting around feelings as reality's ground, embracing non-dualist relational paradigms that restore self-regulation and empathy.

This awakening challenges dualism's grip. As one commentator puts it, "Mistrust came la Norway—but good." @Eppsorn

Power corrupts not just through greed but normalization: what was once unthinkable bec administrative routine. Norway's historical faith in the "kind power" and "a well-meaning l dualistic state" has shielded elites from scrutiny, but 2026 marks a pivot toward vigilance here is corrective, not cynical—essential for monitoring human fallibility in power structur Broader Civilizational Stakes: Toward a Paradigm Shift.

Dualism's dangers extend to existential threats: organized self-destruction through pande misframed as purely medical, ignoring social-psychological-ecological roots. It fosters de on corrupt systems, like medicine engineered by institutions for control rather than care.

<https://vegetativetraining.wordpress.com/dualism-a-fragmented-lens-on-reality-that-bre societal-decay/>

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

erin  erin Feb 20

Oh please. No more of this garbage. While the deeper reality is oneness, the reality where creating is possible, is dual. Fuzzing everything into a mush helps nobody.

Come back from your insight into the world we live in. Eh?

 LIKE  REPLY (1)

inge jarl clausen inge-jarl 's Newsletter Feb 20

This "dark dynamic", characterized by its inherent weakness, helplessness, suicidal tendencies, and insanity, suppresses the organism's natural intelligence, embed disturbances that ripple outward. A web of dysfunction

<https://vegetativetraining.wordpress.com/error-at-the-root/>

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

erin  erin Feb 20

We live and create amidst dualities. Land/ocean, earth/sky, man/woman, nature/nurture, planet/universe, inside/outside of a cell, and so on. None of interpreted as cartesian. Without it, a human being loses his/her orientation lost in the fog. Which some forces out there want.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

inge jarl clausen inge-jarl 's Newsletter Feb 21

the mistake is this being trapped already lost by simplification -only right wrong -inside-outside- it one organism - one nature - one universe-

Binary frameworks simplify complexity into oppositional camps. This is for machines; it is destabilizing for organisms and societies.

In healthcare, illness becomes either physical or psychological. In politics either right or wrong. In economics, growth is either positive or negative collapses into polarity. The dark and grey can roam free.

But organisms do not heal through opposition. They heal through integration

Binary logic loops around fallacy because it cannot incorporate paradox tension arises between lived experience and abstract categories, the system defends itself rather than revises its premise. Structured power insists illusions of control. It tightens protocols. It standardizes metrics. It amplifies surveillance.

This is not accidental. Binary systems reward self-validation. Once auto grounded in a specific framework, institutional survival depends upon that framework. Feedback that contradicts the premise is reframed as threat, or noncompliance.

Over time, self-validation progressively corrupts agency. Individuals in external categories. They doubt their own sensations. They outsource to systems that were built on incomplete assumptions.

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

erin ✨ erin Feb 21

This is all intensely abstract. Can you anchor it in some examples, medicine?

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (3)

inge jarl clausen inge-jarl 's Newsletter Feb 21

♡ Liked by Joshua Stylman

Reductionism Over Holism:

The biomedical model – THE DOCTORS – views humans as broken machines, breaking the body into parts (organs, systems, genes)

diagnose and treat disease. This approach, rooted in Cartesian dualism, separates mind from body and humans from nature, ignoring the integrated, nature-embedded reality you highlight. A child's "discovery" or "desire to know and research"—qualities of Horowitz (the playing, creating human)—are intangible and unmeasurable. Tests or imaging, so they're dismissed as irrelevant to health.

Example: A child with ADHD might be prescribed stimulants to suppress hyperactivity, without exploring whether their restlessness stems from a lack of play, exploration, or social connection—human needs that medicine rarely addresses.

Focus on Pathology, Not Vitality:

Medicine prioritizes sickness over health, as we discussed earlier. It's designed to identify and fix what's "wrong" (e.g., infections, trauma) rather than nurture what's "right"—the creativity, cooperation, and curiosity that define a child's nature. These qualities, central to a child's flourishing, don't fit into a disease-centric framework, so they're often overlooked.

Example: A child's natural drive to explore and interact is rarely considered in pediatric care, where the focus is on vaccination schedules or symptom management. The Vegetative Training Institute's emphasis on feeling and self-regulation suggests medicine neglects how these drives shape health.

Disconnect from Nature and Sociality:

You beautifully state that "humans are nature" and that breaking from nature is breaking with oneself. Yet, medicine treats humans as separate from their environment, ignoring how sociality and connection to nature—key traits of children—drive health. The biomedical model doesn't account for the "collaborative activities" or "moral attachments" formed through sociality, which you note create human character and personality.

Example: A child's anxiety might be treated with medication, without exploring how isolation or lack of cooperative play—core to their nature—contributes. Medicine rarely asks how "being seen and interacting" could restore balance, as the blog's focus on vegetative reactions suggests.

implies.

Cultural and Systemic Bias:

Modern medicine reflects a cultural bias toward control and a top-down-obey, rooted in industrialization and profit-driven systems. The child's playful, exploratory essence—Homo Ludens—characterized by this, requiring time, presence, and qualitative engagement that align with standardized protocols or pharmaceutical agendas. The blog's critique of a "corrupt" system serving corporate interests resonates here: medicine prioritizes measurable outcomes (e.g., reduced symptoms) over the self-regulated, creative reality of the human.

Example: Pediatric care often follows rigid guidelines, leaving little room to nurture a child's curiosity or sociality. This aligns with the "reality orientation" you described, where medicine suppresses individuality rather than celebrates human potential.

Loss of Feeling and Self-Regulation:

Children are born with an "understanding of other people's attitudes" and a drive for "closeness," as you note—qualities tied to feeling and self-regulation, which we've linked to the autonomic nervous system (ANS) and quantum-like complexity. Medicine, by focusing on objective and physical metrics, disregards these, treating feelings as secondary. This mirrors the blog's claim that the biomedical model "destroys the evidence and importance of feeling."

Example: A child's emotional outbursts might be pathologized as a disorder, rather than seen as a natural ANS response to stress or disconnection. Vegetative Training's approach—activating spontaneous movements to restore balance—offers a counterpoint, but it's not mainstream medicine.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

inge jarl clausen inge-jarl 's Newsletter Feb 21

The Child as the Measure. - The child is the most intact expressive organismic intelligence we will ever encounter.

The child remains the metric.

Does an intervention expand vitality and joy?

Does it increase relational depth?

Does it strengthen self-regulation?

medicine - the medical doctors - destroys all these factors to their business

<https://vegetativetraining.wordpress.com/dark-reality-orientation-attack-paradigm-self-regulation-and-the-war-on-feeling/>

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

inge jarl clausen inge-jarl 's Newsletter Feb 21

The evidence, from experience – of the feeling – of the self-r is mercilessly destroyed by the common human worldview – academic traditions and politics, our reality has been stolen.

Much of what is happening in the world is a natural and expected this. the expected growth in repression, wars, deception, con tyranny and suppressed rage. This worldview's roots are in metaphysical brutality: an export from Descartes' brutal split from matter, Bacon's rape of nature as a subjugable female, a clockwork cosmos that entombed living process in inert stuff

What started as intellectual hubris morphed into moral rot. TI ensouled -feeling world was declared dead, ripe for plunder. academia and tyrants swallowed this poison whole: the body machine, illness as glitch, repression as a great business, the wrench-wielding overlord supported by predatory business/c protected by the judiciary.

This is an open door for psychopathy, repression and senseless "Recognition refusal" thus becomes not just a psychological but an epistemic one. It protects the fragile coherence of the whether personal or institutional—from collapse. In this light, to see or integrate new realities, whether emotional or scientific merely stubbornness. It is the persistence of shame and psych as an organizing principle.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Brandy  Brandy Feb 17

It seems pretty logical that institutions will fundamentally create a structure of power that enable and encourage sociopaths and psychopaths that go on to wreak havoc on humanity. Obviously some of these people have built their own institutions and organizations outside institutions, but they have definitely infiltrated ALL governments, institutions, and industry. It seems unlikely to ever change since it's a strong pattern throughout all of history. And it just generally makes sense that this would happen.

To make things worse, modern technology offers these sociopaths and psychopaths tools rulers could never have imagined.

After having witnessed most of humanity go crazy during Covid, wanting to force isolation and injectable gene therapies on their neighbors, (because their tv told them it was the right thing to do) I'm wondering how we would possibly build something better? collectively, or maybe I am just lacking creativity or something but I can't think of a way forward that could work. And volunteerism (ahem, anarchy, cough) seems pretty unrealistic as well, although that's a preference to all other forms of government at this point.

Seems like the nature of humankind in general is pretty sad.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

erin  erin Feb 20

It's not our nature that is sad. Our history is 200 000 years long or more. Our "craziness" began with the advent of advanced civilization. Just the last several thousand years. It's outlined in Quinn's Ishmael, and Schmoekler's Parable of the Tribes and subsequent books. Don't give up! What went bad so recently can be righted.

 LIKE  REPLY

Reader East of Albuquerque  Reader East of Albuquerque Feb 17 Edited

It's all so surreal. Really appreciate your efforts to articulate the surreality. I've been awake since the lockdowns, which to me (I wasn't born yesterday and I took notes in Biology) made zero sense minus a kumquat. And what can I say, over the following years, covid never did start making sense— if the health and well-being of the citizenry were the goal, it never did. Yesterday one of my oldest and dearest friends took a covid booster. What can I say.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Mrtambourineman Mrtambourineman Feb 17

Began following you back in the summer and have followed you and your incisive insights expository writings since and missed your input over the last several months. Great havin back!

In light of your current post ironically written a week after the greatest of all American div The Almighty Super Bowl, I share this passage from

George Orwell from his novel 1984

"So long as the masses continued to work and breed their other activities were without in Left to themselves, like cattle turned loose on the plains of Argentina, they had reverted t life that appeared to be natural to them, a sort of ancestral pattern.....

Heavy physical work, the care of home and children, petty quarrels with neighbors, films, beer, and above all gambling filled up the horizons of their minds.

To keep them in control was not difficult."

This was written post WW2 late 1940s before mainstream media, internet, cellphones, AI and the rise Of the NFL.

Amazingly prescient!!!!

The events you cite are all part of the great Diversion and cover up to divide, conquer and the masses ie cattle.

It's all one big Gamble!!!

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Orwell is more relevant than ever. I used to think it was a warning... then, I learned at Tavistock, etc and realized it was largely a playbook.

Anyway, thanks for the note.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

CT Loyd  CT Loyd Feb 17

"But I also can't embrace a framework that requires TRUSTING that THE SAME UNSEEN STRUCTURES RESPONSIBLE FOR THE COVER-UP ARE NOW ENGINEERING THE DISCLC of benevolence. That's a pretty big ask, in my opinion."

"You (Most) can't handle the truth!"

Col. Nathan R. Jessup a.k.a. Jack Nicholson

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Amanda King ND  The Metabolic Nutritionist Feb 17

Excellent!

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Pham Khanh 范卿  HoChanhNghia Feb 17 Edited nice long read. there is a thing called knowing too much too little. not about you, but about general issues with people and their opinions on this issues.

my neighbor would die on the hill defending trump and all the murders ICE carried out or out. he is as pure maga as you can get. anyway about the slow release and bigger plan. it obviously a control release one area i want to touch on. if people know who raped and killed children society will break this should only works on five yearz old but currently it is also effective against adults 18-old.

i know for a fact it is not true. i can rebuild society just fine after all the people above are i My experience with US government and UN validated this many times in the past.

this is an appeal to emotional weakness and intellectual weakness. fear say, yeah maybe i for me. weak mind say, yea maybe i will outsource my thinking to these guys. who are the rapist, cannibals, plotters of pandemics (biological war against humanity)

i have heard many similarities before. see if you can spot the pattern:

there is a method to the madness trust me bro

national security

this is in the best interest of the US

you don't need to check, i already checked it what is the pattern?

dont use your critical thinking, we got you bro. let us think for you

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

PK, I hear you.

And you're right that 'society would break' is itself a narrative that serves the people breaking. I didn't mean to validate the Q framework so much as present it honestly by poking at it. All I know is I don't know.

Also...

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Operation_Trust

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Pham Khanh 范卿  HoChanhNghia Feb 23

i am with you on not believing my own thinks. the operation to control my thought much more funding and a decade of operation. what hope do I have against such funded and well organized psyops

 LIKE  REPLY

Fadi Lama Fadi Lama Feb 16

Awesome..... as usual

Quote:

"My kid came home from school the other day and told me the Epstein files are lunchroom conversation... What a crazy thing for a child to be talking about."

When the files were released, I called my 30-year-old daughter asking her to avoid reading the files or watching any of the videos.

For the past week I have been immersed in studying the last 7 publications of Escapekey <https://escapekey.substack.com/>

Clearly Epstein was much more than a sadistic pedophile blackmailer, he was an exceptional intelligent "agent", that had a key role in coordinating the construction of the new global surveillance, monetary, financial and mass control system being put in place. The work or system is pretty much complete now, hence referencing your statements:

Quote:

"I think the most important question is: Why are they telling us now?"

"Or are we watching a controlled demolition that clears the ground for something worse?"

If the alternate governance system is ready; wouldn't it be time to dismantle the "old system"?

And yes, it is worse, much worse than the post WWII criminal "Democracies". Whereas it is somewhat possible for a few to somehow escape the previous system financially, mentally, medically, etc. The new system is by far more difficult to escape, if at all possible.

What our present brainstorming sessions are focused on is how to escape the new system; we haven't found a way out. Perhaps your team can discover ways out?

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Feb 23

Author

Fadi, on point, as always.

If the alternate system is ready, the disclosure makes more sense as decommissioning and restoring accountability. We may not have found the escape hatch but I think the search is important.

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Fadi Lama Fadi Lama Feb 23

"the disclosure makes more sense as decommissioning than accountability"

Exactly! We haven't seen any FBI mobilization to investigate the tens, hundreds of suspects. Only the temporary arrest of poor Andrew Mountbatten in England.

I agree the focus now should be searching for an escape hatch, at least on a small level. Much more difficult on a society at large scale.

An eye-opener is Colonel Jacques Baud's (Swiss native, resident in Belgium, re-sanctioned by the EU, former Swiss Strategic Intelligence Service and author of books) interview:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=A9NGwk5h7BI>

He warns of digital currency implementation & makes clear that the power of the supersedes power of governments & judiciary:

Belgium authorized limited access to Baud's account in Belgium. The Belgian bank to implement regimes decision.

Switzerland did not accept the EU sanctions on Baud, nevertheless the Swiss bank his account.

Quote:

"Those who think they have their money secure in Switzerland, they make a big

"Don't trust the Swiss banks. I used to trust them. I'm Swiss and I used to trust them but they definitely are not trustworthy"

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Me  Feb 16

"Or are we watching a controlled demolition that clears the ground for something worse? and forth on this daily. Hourly, sometimes."

Think about this regarding the "something worse" option of thinking. What in history or in nature, re power and money, would make you think anything good is coming? Doesn't the family have crypto operations ready to profit from what's coming,? That's one tiny example what's to be expected.

Jesus said that His kingdom is not of this world. That only leaves what has been witnessed of history, which is war and turmoil and oppression upon war and turmoil and oppression.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

theodore Mainzer  theodore Mainzer Feb 16

Hey, don't pull on that thread! You don't want the stock market to go down, do you? Look over 50,000 and the S&P is pushing 7,000! How about your IRA? Your retirement? IF you pull that thread the whole system could come crashing down. See, ITODASO! ITODASO! You could do well enough alone! This is all your fault! Now we're going to have to roll out the great reset to implement biometric ID's, digital currency, social credit score voucher system and Palantir trace and target systems. Good thing the ubiquitous 6G mesh network is in place so we can take you out with an EMF frequency pulse and take you out, and blame it on Covid, you dissident capitalist theorist! ITODASO! ITODASO!

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Bill Pound  Bill's Substack Feb 16

Welcome back Joshua. Your musings are a little esoteric for me. But I enjoy reading them thinking. Debbie Lerman on Covid has been an eye opener. Political comments:

1. "This isn't just an information war; it's a perception war and the difference matters. The files just dropped into a population that's already been shattered into a billion different re The fragmentation isn't a side effect of the disclosure; it's the whole point. It is the contrac mechanism. How can you build a proper coalition to organize against a system when mos can't even agree on what they're seeing?" I believe at a point in time there is only one rea may know what it is, but then there are we humans. Some of us are rich beyond Croesus. majority are poor. I'm a conservative finding myself in agreement with Robert Reich on the REDUCE INEQUALITY. He favors antitrust action, overturning Citizens United to get Big $ c Federal politics and limiting share buybacks intended for executive compensation. (The fa favors direct taxation and I do not is irrelevant). If he and I can agree in part, why can't Cc the Executive, and the Supreme Court. Inequality constantly motivates voters to elect Ma Wilson, Bass, Newsom, Pritzker, and Walz. These people are incapable of improving the l constituents. Inviting illegal immigrants to sanctuary makes their job more impossible. At may enrich themselves and a few cronies, then repeat. We need results slowing enrichme 1%, including Bezos, Gates, Thiel, Zuckerberg, Huang, Musk, and others. Hard to do if the funding your campaign. The goal is vital.

2. "...— [our] division isn't a side effect of a broken system; it's the governing infrastru functioning one". Here I'm back to our WORTHLESS CONGRESS. We vote them into gridl preventing tyranny by either party, then they behave like they are in the Superbowl. The cheerleaders yell, "Fight, Fight, Fight", and nodding to Vince Lombardi, say "Winning is th thing", which has NO place in government, witness California. At a COST of more than $5 year, they create shutdowns during which they receive pay when TSA, Coast Guard, Secr and other employees are asked to work without. They pass last minute, unread, vague bil highly credentialed bureaucrats to interpret and enforce regulations on us in the proletari ask is the BENEFIT? We need to THROW THE RASCALS OUT and move to term limits. Fai so points toward a future Dictatorship of the Proletariat. Bernie, was that your phrase or s Socialist?

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Hey Bill, the fact that you and Robert Reich can find common ground is exactly the p Appreciate you thinking through it.

And glad Debbie's work resonated - she's a real deal journalist (and, a lovely human

 LIKE  REPLY

No One Knows  No's Substack Feb 16

can't help but think EPSTEIN is just the modern follow-up to those great messiahs of the SABBATI ZEVI and JACOB FRANK,, so loved and honored by their people who believe in t of sin, breaking every law of god and nature. Can't be someone giving 100s of millions fo got to be some profound ideological or religious motive behind it this...

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

dan herrick  dan herrick Feb 16

"and no perpetrators face any consequences" -Debbie Lerman

No one is behind bars yet, except Epstein himself, but that process takes years in the Western countries.

How about the British ambassador to the US, now persona non grata here and toxic in London about the princess, heir to the throne in one of the Scandinavian countries (Norway if I recall correctly)? The British prince stripped of several titles and practically disowned as a Royal about both of the Clintons giving up their resistance and consenting to appear for public questioning under oath in response to Congressional subpoenas? These are consequences have been several Hollywood and media names, a few CEOs. The second to the British Prime minister resigning in disgrace amid speculation about whether the PM will be dragged down to him (or maybe without any help from his number two)?

Jeff Childers, in his "Coffee and Covid" substack keeps writing about another rich or powerful having his life overturned by things someone found in the Epstein files.

These are consequences. Kinds of consequences that play out much more quickly than Criminal Indictments and Charges and trials and persuading a jury and getting a judicial sentence.

The wheels are grinding!

dan

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Kathryn Cullison Kathryn Cullison Feb 16

These aren't, and there won't be any, consequences. These people you mentioned will stay in one of their mansions until the smoke clears. Then they will gradually worm their way back into society. The circles they run in are all in cahoots so nothing will change for them socially except no media exposure. They absolutely aren't suffering

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

dan herrick  dan herrick Feb 16

Oh, but the arrests and trials have to be in the headlines in the latter part of September and all October until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. The timing seems quite carefully timed.

 LIKE  REPLY (1)

Kathryn Cullison Kathryn Cullison Feb 16

I guess we'll see, but I'm not holding my breath

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Quill Cross Quill Cross News Feb 16

Bravo! It feels like something I've been writing in my head for months. Ever since I read Ja Nordangarde's "Rockefeller" book Alice Bailey's uncanny prediction has been forefront of Almost nobody understands the importance of this. I also keep thinking about Sage Hana Day Tapes." That was 1968. "Everything is in place. Nothing can stop it." 🤔

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Feb 23

Author

Sage Hana's piece on The Day Tapes reframed so much of the way I look at the world like a punch in the gut that I needed.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Lookatit Feb 16

Wait until everyone figures out we don't live on a fictional spinning ball of water and the sun and moon are small and local!

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY

Pamela A Everett Goodman Pamela A Everett Goodman Feb 16

I'm at the last sentence Josh, although it feels almost scripted the way it's being dripped knows, I'm also at another point where it's all so insane I have to ignore it all to keep my s

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY

david fookes  david fookes Feb 16

Here's my brief take on what's going down. You mentioned, Josh, that it's no longer insane to believe what's occurring emanates from a small cabal of money/power addicted psychopaths. For me, this became an increasing reality over the past 3 years and as it stands, until someone tells me otherwise, there's not a shred of doubt in my mind that the people calling the shots are Christian/Jewish Zionists. Their objective has been to accumulate enough wealth to enable them to influence governments and their departments, learning institutions, local and global NGO's, the media and military industrial complexes, the global financial system - and importantly mainstream and leading, respected journals.

This began over a century ago with the Rothschilds and Rockefeller families being dominant within the financial and medical industries. If you have the deepest pockets, capturing power within government agencies, learning institutions, the media etc. can be achieved because private interests are readily accepted into public governance. It shouldn't be, but I think that was the plan.

I'll tell you what I believe the definition of insanity is. Believing elected governments, make decisions that directly effect quality of life for their citizens. I think most people have worked out the fact that the USA is firmly under the thumb of the Israel lobby. And I imagine having the most powerful country in the world under your control, would have been a priority for the Zionists many moons ago.

Take a look at who the people are running global finance, the military and medical industrial complexes, big tech, social and mainstream media and you'll see a plethora of Jewish names. Please don't think I'm anti-Jewish, or an 'antisemitic' for crying out loud. I have Jewish and non-Jewish close friends who are Jewish - but not of a particular Zionist variety. It's no secret that Jewish people are extremely clever, capable of outstanding achievement in any sphere of life. They can of course create problems when that outstanding ability is focused on evil objectives that incorporate bribery and blackmail with no regard for humanity.

BTW, Josh, good to have you back - and how old was your child who brought home the E Files?

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

A Black Sheep  Phil Van Dissel Feb 16

"It is from us that the all-engulfing terror proceeds. We have in our service persons of all of all doctrines, restoring monarchists, demagogues, socialists, communists, and utopic dreamers of every kind. We have harnessed them all to the task: each one of them on his account is boring away at the last remnants of authority, is striving to overthrow all establ of order. By these acts all States are in torture; they exhort to tranquility, are ready to sac everything for peace: but we will not give them peace until they openly acknowledge our international Super-Government, and with submissiveness." [who knows, maybe Henry F right]

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Quill Cross  Quill Cross News Feb 16

He wrote some prescient stuff, no doubt. Just stumbled across this. Adds some new "perspective."

<https://youtu.be/9c8SVljpxf8?si=iGCwloxQOitx3X1l>

 LIKE  REPLY (1)

A Black Sheep  Phil Van Dissel Feb 16 Edited

Hi mate

Saw that. Liked most of it. I've read lots of stuff about how the "original" was a f written by whoever, anti-whoever. ie. <https://expose-news.com/2026/02/14/the-of-the-learned-elders-of-zion-2/>

This is largely just changing the 'who to blame' focus [as always]. Does it matte came out if it ticks just about every box in real life?

 LIKE (2)  REPLY (1)

Quill Cross  Quill Cross News Feb 16

My main "discovery" in that video was about the "continuity" of banking. Fr usury Tartarian protocol to "sinful" and egregious usury. Perfected by the R Apparently. Hadn't encountered that before.

 LIKE  REPLY (1)

A Black Sheep  Phil Van Dissel Feb 16

Yes. Beware the Usury Cult. I think you might like this article about its
The answer is a debt "Jubilee" as per ancient times. A quote from it:

"We need a Jubilee, forgiveness of debt. But proclaiming a Jubilee in a complex society is not as easy as it was the Bronze age, when population tiny and societies simple. Nevertheless, it is sorely needed to prevent an oligarchy from enslaving the rest of us even more. Sorting out this mess interdependence and extortion will entail radical restructuring of the whole financial system; a system which was hijacked by powerful private interests ago. That requires knowledge and skill, but above all, it requires honest political will – and that is lacking.

<https://humanjourney.us/economy/forgiveness-of-debt-and-the-creation-of-money/>

 LIKE (2)  REPLY (1)

jane  jane's Substack Feb 17

i have not read chapter and verse about the jubilee in the bible but the jubilee year was more a theory and ideal than a practice even couldn't do it in the bronze age either. Would you give a loan to a 48th year of the 49 year cycle, when it would be voided in the next
And the ancestral land a freed man was entitled too would have been and farmed, and no longer available.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (2)

erin  erin Feb 21

I don't think it ever worked as a scheduled event. But in Mesopotamia occurred regularly in the city states there -- the people preyed on the workers and craftsmen etc would just leave the city and go outside and refuse to come back until the debt cycle was reset

 LIKE  REPLY

A Black Sheep  Phil Van Dissel Feb 17

Hi Jane, you could well be right. I'm certainly no expert in this do however believe the elimination of usury is the only real way the war declared against us by the moneyed cult. Richard Weir is interesting on this topic: <https://youtu.be/StTKHskg5Tg>

 LIKE  REPLY

TBW Feb 16

Be proud. This world is horrifying. One can choose to be a moron believing into invented : one can be a realist.

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Johnny Flynn  The Mandela Dilemma Feb 16

Another fantastic article! "The Stage of the Forerunner": "They're all scaffolding on a large infrastructure built over decades, maybe longer... What if the veil was always designed to fall at a particular moment? What if the "awakening" is itself part of the architecture? "

I think you've highlighted the most important thread that warrants the strongest pulling. 'Power' doesn't need to show its face, and it surely doesn't need middle management or upper management - they can be replaced. Even the likes of Gates, Musk and Trump are probably not aware of their positions of influence and don't even know it. If you assume that this is a long term strategy for legacy power, then having a multigenerational middle/upper management that has a track record of 'getting away with it' is the perfect set-up. They will always think they're safe right up until the hammer drops on themselves. The bad news then becomes what you've alluded to, "are we watching a controlled demolition that clears the ground for something worse?"...

And we'll probably beg for the 'something worse' option once the carcasses have been dumped through the street because that 'something worse' will obviously be packaged as something better. I'm going full-retard with you!

 LIKE (1)  REPLY

Iridescent Iguana  A Desert of Mirrors Feb 16

Regarding the sudden change in the atmosphere:

<https://www.patreon.com/posts/hinge-of-ages-20-150048624>

 LIKE (1)  REPLY (1)

Kathryn Cullison Kathryn Cullison Feb 16 Edited

That was an interesting and potentially hopeful read. Thank you.

♡ LIKE (1) 💬 REPLY

Simon Allen Simon Allen Apr 17

Hi Joshua, I just listened to your conversation with Bret Weinstein and was already intrigued. My ears really pricked up when you said "I can't believe you still believe in viruses!" I've been reluctantly yet compulsively exploring the same rabbit-holes as you and your crew since the Covid™ Operation, so I really identify with your position. I love Bret and consider him an idiot, but for years now I have been desperate to hear him talk to someone like you who would tell him he's "full retard". I was hoping he might connect with Mike Yeadon (the valiant British former physicist and motorcycle enthusiast whose eyes were opened by the Scamdemic) and that the resulting conversation might push him a bit further into outrageous truthspace.

I feel like a bit of a nitwit feeding the Borg with a digital footprint by commenting here, but I'm human and I want to connect with like minds before the lights go out.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

TurquoiseThyme TurquoiseThyme Mar 13

It doesn't matter if you don't believe in magic. These people do, and my understanding is that they believe the magic doesn't work without letting people know who have eyes to see.

I do oscillate between if all the messaging in our media has been conditioning or if someone is actually warning us from people in the know that didn't like it.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Sara Young Feb 28

"The most sophisticated manipulation doesn't lie to you. It gives you truth through a lens makes you feel smart for seeing what others miss." So many great quotes I found in your this is the most poignant. Jesus himself gave MANY warnings about the end times and as us "Do not be deceived," "Do not deceive yourselves," "Do not be led astray." This is the and prayer I have that EVERYONE should have right now. Because deception is real and e of "God's elect" will be led astray. How? Because the enemy of our souls has been at this time. He twists truth, manipulating us through appeals to our pride. "Makes you feel smar seeing what others miss." He's been doing it since the garden with Eve wanting wisdom a God (recipe for death) and he's still going strong. He presents something to us, a morsel sometimes a trail if breadcrumbs, and then we have to make the choice of whether or not the bait and come into agreement with it or deny it as a lie. Truth being God's Word, Jesu the truth, and the life) and revealed to us through the Spirit of Truth, the Holy Spirit. The c no new tricks, he's only gotten more sophisticated in how he performs them. If he can't d you- get you to agree to the lie he's feeding you, and thus control you- then his only alter destroy you, whether quickly or slowly. This is what we are seeing now, all these people c working with the devil and we will continue to see. God's word has warned us about ALL c read Revelations. The only question is what chapter are we currently living through? Do n searching for Truth, asking for Truth, praying for Truth at any cost. In the end it is all we h devil has already been defeated in Christ. We have the means to withstand him and defer ourselves, but we can't do it apart from Christ. Thank you, Joshua for sharing the wisdom that you've dug up. We need it now more than ever. Remember- Joshua means the Lord c Biblical Joshua was God's order taker. He's been guiding you into all truth. But there is no real salvation of any kind apart from Christ. The Lord bless you.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

S. Anderson S. Anderson Feb 27

I just got around to reading this since it initially landed in my junk folder. I'm kind-of happy delay because the weird thing is, I've been pondering the exact same things and coming same conclusions, without having read your piece first. It's eerie!

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Laurie A. Couture Helping Kids Thrive -- Protect,... Feb 26

Joshua, Now that you know all of these horrors, and how public schools have both contrived and indoctrinate children in the mindset of being passive, I would deeply recommend that you consider homeschooling or a child-centered alternative school for your child. It will be the best thing you could ever imagine for your family!

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Insight healing Insight healing Feb 24

Parents can still attempt to curtail online access where these stories are. Involve kids in more outdoor physical activities, go with them with another family on walks, volunteer together, listen, not talk about worrisome topics in front of them or on phone. Don't give your power to machines.

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Howard Switzer Howard's Newsletter Feb 22

How can you build a proper coalition to organize against a system when most people can't agree on what they're seeing? I think the key to organizing is changing the money system. Money is the governing factor, it is how power was derived for all this shit to be happening. Without power derived from money none of that could happen. That is why money is not taught in schools and why people need to know. The political divide was constructed through schools and media to hide the machinery and true source of power causing all our problems. Thomas Massie was like Toto, pulling back the curtain. Changing the money requires legislation. The Constitution gives the money power to Congress so we need to elect a Congress with integrity of Massie who will chase the wizard out. I realize there will be a lot more to that but I feel there is a shift happening. greens.money - monetaryalliance.org

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Daniel Williams The Reactionary Observationalist Feb 22

This is an awesome article. It sounds like something that could be coming from me. I'm so glad I found you and am happy to share. Everything mentioned was so on point. Thank you!

♡ LIKE 💬 REPLY

Julianne Julianne Feb 21

Josh, thank you for your insightful writing and connections across great spans of informa
Please correct one item in your writing:

- Alice Bailey created the Lucis Trust and the Lucis Press and Publishing Company.
- You wrote "the Lucifer Trust" - a very different title. Please correct! Thank you.

LIKE REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Feb 21

Author

Thanks for the kind words.

It was originally the Lucifer Publishing Company - Lucis Trust confirms this on their c website. Renamed in 1925. I used the original name intentionally.

Source:

The Esoteric Meaning of Lucifer

There are comments on the World Wide Web claiming that the Lucis Trust was once Lucifer Trust. Such was never the case. However, for a brief period of two or three ye early 1920's, when Alice and Foster Bailey were beginning to publish the books publi under her name, they named their fledgling publishing company "Lucifer Publishing ("
By 1925 the name was changed to Lucis Publishing Company and has remained so e since.Both "Lucifer" and "Lucis" come from the same word root, lucis being the Latir generative case meaning of light. The Baileys' reasons for choosing the original nam known to us, but we can only surmise that they, like the great teacher H.P. Blavatsky, they had enormous respect, sought to elicit a deeper understanding of the sacrifice Lucifer. Alice and Foster Bailey were serious students and teachers of Theosophy, a tradition which views Lucifer as one of the solar Angels, those advanced Beings Whc Theosophy says descended (thus "the fall") from Venus to our planet eons ago to br principle of mind to what was then animal-man. In the theosophical perspective, the these solar Angels was not a fall into sin or disgrace but rather an act of great sacrifici suggested in the name "Lucifer" which means light-bearer.

https://www.lucistrust.org/arcane_school/talks_and_articles/the_esoteric_meaning_

LIKE (1) REPLY (1)

Julianne Julianne Feb 21

Liked by Joshua Stylman

Thank you for the clarification!

LIKE (1) REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman Feb 21

Author

I'll be sure to add a note about the name change regardless. Thanks for flag confusion.

LIKE (1) REPLY

Jordan Dixon Feb 20

Great and insightful article thank you

LIKE REPLY

VF Feb 20

Grounding is found in the Ten Commandments and the Gospels.

LIKE REPLY

Biff Thuringer Biffogram Feb 20

With all of these mofos dropping like flies in a plume of DEET, maybe it's time once again dudes to listen to this cautionary tune:

<https://on.soundcloud.com/Lki8Elv4wy0WgPUw0I>

LIKE REPLY

Gloria Waslyn Feb 20

Clear, powerful and truth expressing how we collectively feel.

LIKE REPLY

An K.  An K. Feb 19 Edited

I could not agree more and I feel the same.

What do we know?:

A rapist, convicted felon is president.

money is being hoarded by some (wealth shift).

Ice is illegitimate and criminal.

Big Pharma/ industry in general are a detriment, so are insurances.

Banks are involved, so are police and courts.

Our rights and freedoms are vanishing.

Elections are a sham. Right and Left are not really doing anything. (with a few, not enough exceptions) that is why nothing has changed for decades and it is getting worse for the year after year.

Digital control and oppression are at the gates.

Kids are being abused, raped and killed.

It is global/ international.

It seems there should and could be a simple solution.

England just arrested a royal...

We will find out how deep the moral corruption in this country really goes.

Misogyny, hypocrisy, racism, hate, dishonesty and corruption seem rampant. Not just in Washington.

We may need to focus on something higher than money and power.. LOL

Values instead of arrogance, ignorance and greed.

Will we wake up and make those changes in time?

Those of us that have been aware for years if not decades have realized that this mess (or another) will cause a awakening. We just don't know how far down this country will have before that happens.

History repeats itself until the lesson is learned.

 LIKE  REPLY

Celia Farber  The Truth Barrier Feb 19

Brilliant article.

What I want to know is if anybody else feels a choking depression following the Epstein a
To me it feels like Beckett on steroids, but darker, and way more unresolved. The unresol
THAT HIDEOUS frequency—that is what turns up in me now as a reverberating numb dep
And it feels like spiritual failure. I wonder if anybody else has this. Also a sticky flu lasting on three weeks now, not responding to any of the usually effective remedies.

How can we live in a world so seemingly bereft of beauty, of love, of valor?

Damned if I know.

 LIKE  REPLY (1)

Joshua Stylman  Feb 23

Author

Thanks for the kind words, Celia. It means a lot from you.

I mostly talk to the trees these days, however, from what I can tell, I think a lot of pec feeling exactly this. The weight of it is real and it's not a spiritual failure to feel crush From my vantage point, it's an appropriate response to something genuinely dark - v to agree on what "it" is first, however.

The flu on top of it doesn't help. Be gentle with yourself. The beauty and love and va there, IMHO... they're just harder to see right now. The fact that you're feeling it this means you haven't gone numb. That's something, right?

BTW, if you're still feeling shitty here's what my family takes...

Vitamin D + Vitamin C + Zinc + Quercetin + NAC + nasal spray. We use this one but a

And, my wife's super potent tea recipe...

Hot water, apple cider vinegar (I do 1 or 2 caps), squeeze of lemon, raw or manuka h turmeric powder, cinnamon stick. Can add sprinkle of cayenne pepper too.

Feel better!

 LIKE  REPLY