

U.S. Life Expectancy Falls Again in 'Historic' Setback

August 31, 2022

Previous Next

In a record-breaking turn, U.S. life expectancy just surpassed its sharpest two-year decline in 100 years. In 2019 the average American could expect to live about 79 years; that number has plunged to just 76 in 2022.

"The reduction has been particularly steep among Native Americans and Alaska Natives, the National Center for Health Statistics reported. Average life expectancy in those groups was shortened by four years in 2020 alone," The New York Times reported.

While coronavirus is partially to blame, chronic conditions like obesity and diabetes, poor diet, lack of exercise and an inadequate health care system, as well as social ills such as "widespread access to guns" also contributed, researchers said.

No doubt there is a now a drop in life expectancy in the U.S. but as a superspreader of misinformation, the NYT is perhaps not the best choice to interpret official health statistics. The immuno-compromised and elderly have always been vulnerable to infections and co-morbidities. Gun ownership laws are not new. The new phenomena are gain-of-function lab engineered infections, increased exposure to electro magnetic fields which may potentiate these infections, intrusive medical interventions which may do more harm than good, including fake PCR "testing", inappropriate drug prescription, ventilation procedures and most importantly injection of bioweapons masquerading as vaccines. stevekirsch.substack.com/.../heres-how-the-vaccine-is-causing

There are no "immuno-compromised", because the "immune" system looks like a myth, become lucrative fraud for undue profit. Many elderly only struggle, because their bodies have significantly declined, because of bad diets and/or inadequate hydration, thus cellular "ageing" and a less energised body. Shrinking and wrinkling of the aged are apparently caused by cellular dehydration, not lack of Collagen; hydrating cosmetics are effectively mere symptom treating drugs because they don't treat the causes, which can include far too much skin "cleaning".

Decent nutrition and hydration, including minimal processing, can significantly reduce age decline. It has been suggested, that with an optimal diet and hydration, many humans could live to 400 years old; this optimal diet would probably be raw, wild, animal food, with preference for organ meat and fat, like wild, four legged, hunting, alpha carnivores prefer, with little or no plant foods. We should be eating offal, organs, and blood, not stupidly giving them to pets, and farm animals!

An anti gun biased comment by the researchers. I do know of dying person gun suicides. But missing from gun suicide statistics is how many had a terminal illness. Sort of like saying those who died within 2 weeks of getting a Covid shot were unvaccinated. If 75% of gun suicides are by dying people that puts a much different spin on gun death statistics. Also watch the wording of gun deaths to see if it is a homicide. Some are gun deaths during a self defense shooting.

Yes, the so called "researchers did indeed mix OpEd content into the research with inclusion of their politically slanted "...social ills such as "widespread access to guns" also contributed, researchers said." It's interesting how, these days, medical patient intake info forms include inappropriate questions such as, but probably not limited to, "are there firearms in your home?"

In one year the drop in life expectancy is shocking. While various posters have noted that diet and lifestyle issues contribute to shortened life expectancy this kind of sudden drop is almost unbelievable (maybe wars with huge battlefield losses could make a difference). The fact no one is investigating means the elephant in the room has opened the door to a whole heard and everyone is managing to pretend the heard just doesn't exist.

The cause appears to be the modern diet, especially sweet and processed "foods", polluted tap water, modern medicine, and other pollution, including many industrial chemicals, and strong, modulated RF pollution from Radio and AC power. Grains, Sugars, vegetable seed oils, hydrogenated fats, and the criminal frauds of "low-saturated fat", "low-salt", "low-cholesterol" have, had significant adverse effect on health! Most drugs and other interventions are worse than useless, because they are harmful and often merely dampen symptoms. The former created the "need" for even more toxic drugs, and the latter can make the underlying causes even worse, because it will stop or hamper the detox processes which are called disease or illness; a lot of this looks like criminal fraud for profit!
