"Vaccine hesitancy" is such a BS term. "Vaccine NOPE" would be the correct term. Because you are jabbed with anything you can't change your mind. Speaking just for myself, there is no one who could convince me to get jabbed for anything now. Why would I trust anyone? Can't be undone. As much as I admire all the doctors who are saying nope, I would not get jabbed now, for anything on their say so. That chicken has flown the coop. Probably has the flu.

My response to "vaccine hesitancy" is that I don't hesitate; I outright reject the whole paradigm. I am, along with a great many other people, desperate for the whole veterinary industry to be stopped in their tracks. What's also being done to our beloved pets is nothing short of genocide, as it is with humans.

And the more people say it, the more the idea weaves itself into society.

I know vaccines are not perfectly safe, but if you have a family tree going back to the have on both my mother's and father's sides, you will see a lot of children dying before 3rd birthdays, usually from childhood diseases. One of my grandmothers lost two children who were less than 3.

When visiting older cemeteries, you will see a LOT more graves of children dying before 3rd birthdays before the 1950s than after. When a baby dies today and is buried, it has probably been born prematurely or has died in an accident of some kind.

Vaccines, antibiotics, and prenatal care are the main reasons children today are living into adulthood.

More of the children living today are doing so with significant disabilities than did in previous centuries. Many disabilities did not exist because the children died at or soon after birth with those disabilities or soon after developing some disabilities the result of childhood diseases.

Children live longer because fewer of them get the diseases and are affected by them. Those disabled by vaccines can also be treated to live longer.

Again, if you are lucky enough to have a family tree that can trace each generation's lineage back to the early 1600s or 1700s, look to see how many children died.

You will also see a lot of women dying younger than their husbands with the husbands being a much younger woman and having lots more children. It was not unusual to have a child more with wives having 6-12 children.

Wives didn't always inherit their own homes. They might inherit some of the pots they used to cook with and they were expected to live with one of the grown children. Even their clothing was left to someone in their wills.

Just something interesting about life in the 1600s.

Children and people died back then from disease because of lack of nutrition, e vitamins and harsh living conditions. Deaths declined in time because of an awa the importance of a healthy living environment, a diet rich in nutritious food, and clean water, etc. not because vaccines were invented. I also have a family tree that goes back to 1600 in the US. However, you are not that modern medicine has made it better. Children in the past were dying due to hygiene, toxic exposures or lack of nutrition. All of which, older children or adult experience but survive. Safe and clean sources of water would have saved children no side effects. No exposure to unsafe use of chemicals, like arsenic and mercury household products, farming products and medicine could have saved children. These dangerous things were merely replaced by vaccines and pesticides! All of dangerous to us and the earth. And women dying young? How about the horrible obstetric practices that women faced? And the constant suppression of midwives knew how to support women through childbirth? Childbirth is not a medical condition. Even now, every medical intervention leads to the baby distress and results in stillbirth, to "save" the baby. This is not a better outcome for mother or child. Support in clean environment with no toxicities, saves both mother and child. I am sorry you are "well spoken" you are not well read. You appear to have no true understanding of what people have experienced despite your family tree. Further, to say that you have not experienced problems with vaccines, only indicates that your family has always had money and good nutrition. There are numerous studies in regard to native populations with high death and injury after vaccines. When honest researchers were involved the common issue was nutrition, specifically lack of vitamin C. When the same group was given vitamin C the rate of injury post vaccine was reduced. Many children are now vitamin C deficient today. Their body cannot fight the vaccine. Just like in the past, death is directly related to good nutrition, safe and not toxic environment, safe and not medical practices. Instead, we have a medical system which destroys our health and some humanity and humility. Do you not see the injuries? Have you ever seen the children who have multiple children with autism or other vaccine injuries?? If you have not, please pay attention to real science. Vaccines injure and destroy life.

You sure assume a lot. I lived on a farm. I remember moving into a house with plumbing and an actual bathroom! I also remember it snowing in the bedroom because the windows didn't fit very well.

I was the first to go to college. It was paid for by the wages I made chopping from the time I was 12 and a tiny scholarship for my first year's tuition for graduation. My mother was the youngest of 12 children, two dying before age 3 and the one before her born with speech and learning disabilities caused at birth. Her father died when she was in 8th grade.

I am not sure if she started working at a grocery store when she wasn't in school before or after her father died that year.

They were so poor they did not have sufficient food and she was so anemic that she had to take daily shots somewhere around that time.

I think that gives you the gist of how well off we were as children.

While I am not hurting right now, it hasn't been a bed of roses and if could be tomorrow, but I know I am much better off than many others and who I have spent most of my working career trying to help one way or another.

Ah! So you aren't from a wealthy family, with intimate knowledge of your family's past generations. You or someone in your family pieced together the evidence of the past and have assumed that early death was "lack of vaccines". Assumptions which are not supported by evidence. Do you not read AMD's regular reports? You do not see the breath of knowledge and education? You are lacking but glad to hear that you went to college. But what is your field? There is a big difference between passing tests and having functional knowledge.

So, in your mother's family - the only past relatives you have actually known of, why did two die before they were 3 years old? If there had been 12 total, it could be that their nutrition (they pulled from their mother) had been diminished. It also could be that they had been given vaccines! They probably had been nutritionally deficient and thus unable to survive the vaccines that your other siblings had handled with no or minimal issues.

The sibling with speech and learning disabilities, "caused by birth". Did you get the full story on that? I regularly visit an elderly woman who has a disabled child. One is a tech engineer in Silicon valley and extremely successful. The other is disabled. For many years, the tech engineer told people that his brother's disability was genetic. He believed that so much that he had a vasectomy, which got reversed after he was married and his new wife wanted children regardless of the risk (both children are fine btw). So, a puzzle. What was true? Was there a serious genetic risk in the family? Then I asked the elderly woman (who has a PhD btw) and she explained, "the doctor was in a hurry, there were no other women giving birth, he told me to slow down.... it was my first birth, I listened to the doctor". So, the disability was it "caused by birth" or by malpractice?

Why did your grandfather die when your mother was in the 8th grade? I would like to ask? Did he go to war and suffer trauma, coming home an alcoholic? Did he go to war and was given vaccines? Did he have strange illnesses and get sick after using pesticides while farming? You are giving us points but you don't seem to understand your own story. I had uncles who farmed. They carried pesticides in barrels with their bare arms. Strong but not wise. They got cancer.

I am glad you have spent your life helping others, but you still seem to lack a certain amount of knowledge of what people have experienced and the real causes.

My family has experienced lifelong financial reversal and emotional hardship due to vaccines. My grandfather was a modern person; he wanted to do the right things. He had all his children vaccinated. My one aunt suffered every time she was vaccinated. Because she was "saved" each time the illness was controlled by a vaccination, she wanted to become a nurse. She then suffered from encephalitis from the vaccine she received during her nurses training! At the age of 20 she had a temp of 107 and it cooked her brain. She was a vegetable. This is the second time today I have used that word. It is rude but it is the only word that reflects the person and their families experience. My father financially supported both his parents and his sister, for the rest of their lives. She never got engaged; her fiancé waited 5 YEARS to see if she would recover. She never grew up with an aunt that ate my crayons. That would steal and eat KIWI. Who didn't sing or play music, like she did before the encephalitis, instead she rocked and made 'eh eh eh' noises.

This is what I am talking about. You are taking an armchair view of vac believing salesmen over real people's experiences. The fact that you are on the AMD Substack indicates that you have the ability to read but I don't see that you actually understood this post. Respectfully, try reading AMD's posts again.

Just to point out a couple of things. First, I have a book on one of my families with one being more detailed with a copy of a land grant book in English, stories about an ancestor who refused to hold an office that he had been elected in Watertown, wills, one brother serving in the colonial army and getting his brother to take his place only for the war to end the next month and the one serving a month getting a pension while the other died broke....and the babies you think died because of vaccines were the teens or very early 20s. Ever heard of whooping cough? It was a common cause of death in very young children.

You seem to do an awful lot of assuming, and you give me no credit for following this Substack (I am very new to this app) and trying to learn something about the other side of the vaccine debate.

Maybe I picked the wrong forum to utilize for best available facts.

It probably is and certainly, we have better nutrition and medical care now which can be factored in for decisions inoculating children.

While it has been a few decades, however, I still remember how helpless a parent can feel seeing a child with an extreme temperature being treated as an emergency in the pediatric office and wanting to prevent such events if at all possible. That influences me to lean toward research and improve vaccines- if that is not impossible.

I am learning and I appreciate input- except when called out or told to fk off. It doesn't impress or offend me personally as it is unhelpful.

I will say that if I agree with anything on this thread without reservation- in the safety of vaccines pro or con- it is that 1) infant mortality rates in the US are high 2) it has little if anything to do either childhood diseases just as you said, and I probably would not be happy with any research because it is unlikely I would be thorough enough.

That doesn't mean the research would be valueless. They already know a lot about various factors causing infant mortality and even steps that would decrease it. We are still racing to the bottom.

We have many problems but here we have at least 3: 1) Infant mortality, 2) infant mortality, and 3) long term children's mental and physical health.

If we could make major strides addressing these problems, we would have a major societal change.

Agreed. Many vaccines do work now, even if they had a bad start. It seems to me that almost all medicines and medical procedures begin as experimental. Even if a procedure is found to work, exact dosages and many other factors need to be worked out in order for the product to be effective and mass produced. Unfortunately, sometimes that experimentation can lead to injury and death. I'm quite sure that the early smallpox and polio (and most other) vaccines were dangerous. But now smallpox has been eliminated and polio occurs far less frequently than in the past.

I agree that the current childhood immunization schedule is absolutely ridiculous. We have no problem reevaluating current vaccines for efficacy.

But I don't think that we should flush the baby with the bathwater....

PS.

The Covid mRNA treatments are not vaccines and there is no justification for their continued use.

I am sorry if you have seen bad reactions to vaccines, but it is difficult to put much stock in research and articles like this when one has had most of the vaccines available in the years and has not had a reaction nor known anyone who has had more than a slight fever and felt achy for a day- commonly known reactions.

I know that there are people who report reactions and the Covid vaccine had deadly consequences for a few young people who had previously unknown health problems but I believe vaccines have saved many more people than they have killed.

Going forward is going to be difficult though. Government has been stripped of experienced scientist who support vaccinations but believe in accountability. Those in charge now do not support vaccinations and are too closely tied to philosophies supporting profit making over government oversight of businesses.

When it comes to medicine, I support government oversight.

But consider vaccines poison if you want, I am in my 70s , my dad in his 90s and we have our extended family who have happily been vaccinated for polio, smallpox, and just about every vaccine available in our lifetimes including every booster for Covid. No reactions in any of us.

I did play with a Covid test a couple of years ago when it was supposed to have pretty much been over. I did test positive which surprised me. I had a horrible headache for one day other than that, I have had worse common colds. The flu last year was much worse than any other bad they picked the wrong strain to base flu shots on.

I am not saying the harm doesn't exist. I am saying it is not widespread, which makes it any less horrible for you and your family.

As I have mentioned elsewhere, no treatment and no vaccine works the same way for everyone. What cures one person may kill another. We use science to help make decisions on a safety level that does more good than harm.

You have TWO children who seemed to have been harmed by vaccines. I was worried that something in their genes or something else they might have inherited that might make them at risk for harm from something about a vaccine, vaccine protocol.

I certainly understand why you would not risk further vaccinations on them or other children you might have.

I managed to avoid Covid for 4 years by which time it had mutated into multiple strains which makes it impossible to correctly create the perfect vaccine for a strain.

So since evidence vaccinated individuals seem to not get as sick as unvaccinated individuals and early vaccines seemed to work with no ill effects for my family, I absolutely continue to be vaccinated.

I also have gotten a flu vaccine every year since 1990. A year ago I had my share of either a really really bad cold or the flu. I live with my 94 yr old father (he died for my mother who died from Alzheimer's 3 years ago). I am sure he brought Covid and flu home to me the past couple of years. He was tested for flu so I was guessing mine was flu too. He was told the vaccine was 40% (?) effective. He was sick several days to a week before me both times.

Even George Washington recognized the value of vaccinations.

He had the Continental army vaccinated for smallpox in the Revolutionary War.

George was no doctor and many of those soldiers were affected by some other mystery diseases. Our government has continually experimented on us without our consent because it is run by BigPharma. My son was injected multiple times by the military. They conveniently "lost his records" of immunization 3 times. As a result, he has battled multiple strange ailments. Why do we risk way to treat those risking their lives for "freedom".

The FDA doesn't test drugs, FYI. Instead, they rely on the manufacturer's results that fake safety and efficacy in order to get approval.

Have you ever read a vaccine insert with ingredients?

I have no desire to be injected with aborted fetal tissue of humans, dogs, etc., which is what ALL vaccines contain.

I am 65. There were no autistic kids in school when I was a kid. There were no peanut allergies. There were no fat kids. There were no autoimmune problems.

If you look at the rapid growth of the childhood vaccine schedule and correlate it with any of the above ailments, you can see very clearly, the almost exact correlation of dis-ease.

Why do vaccine manufacturers have liability immunity? Because they'd be in oblivion and, because they own our government.

I have witnessed first hand, the effects on my own grandchildren. I have friends, in their 30's, who chose not to vaccinate their children, that are the same age as my vaccinated grandchildren. The unvaccinated development milestones have outpaced my vaccinated grandbabies by about a year. Furthermore, the CDC has quietly modified those development milestones as the vaccine schedule has expanded.

I could go on.

Bottom line: they are poison, and, so is the media and government that says they're safe, effective and necessary.

There was a study done with Nuns in Europe (France? Spain?) where the diet was strictly controlled, and the population from diverse backgrounds and genetics. Because of the environment, they lived for something like 50 years.

The main indicator - to put it briefly - was not diet, genetics, background, poverty or wealth. It was curiosity.

The nuns who did not dement displayed interest in reading, writing, nature, painting, music = curiosity about the world around them from a very young age. The more articulate their writing, the longer they lived in clarity.

I found this to be enlightening and enlivening, and aim to stay curious (and articulate).

George Washington died before vaccination even reached America. We were variolating the soldiers. Vaccination and variolation might appear similar but are actually very different. Vaccination was based on homeopathy while variolation was based on germ theory. These days they are basically promoting variolation ideology and misnaming it vaccination when in fact people had rejected variolation 200 years ago. Confusing the two creates a really bad ideology.

An early form of immunization. I am sure people died from this which more became immune to smallpox by having a milder case that was somewhat safer than an epidemic version or maybe it was just as it improved their ability to fight later full strength.

The point is that immunization creates a milder response to a disease actually being infected by the virus 'in the wild' and the practice has been around for centuries.

I'm not sure we can believe the data on either side of the issue. I cannot don't have access to ask questions about how the work was done and confidence any was done in strict compliance with official protocols relied thus far on what I have seen in my extended family and larger communities where I have lived.

I started getting vaccinated because I became a single mom with a 5 yr old moved about 400 miles away from our closest family members and he ended up with pneumonia. I realized if I got sick, who would take care of him. He and I got the flu every year after that.

Two years ago was the first time I got the flu since I started getting the vaccine. In fact, I haven't had a cold since sometime around 2000- and the flu I got most recently was not fun, but wasn't as bad as I remember my pre-vaccine flu bouts.

To measure the true impact of vaccines (or any other toxin like artificia nano-stuff like SiO₂ (if bred with industrial excipients even if they were out completely!) etc. or poisons like PEG (poly ethylene glycol) and it's synonyms) :

- measure Immune system profile (CD profile) before and after some ir eg shot

- measure biome before and after, and follow up 1/3 yr later

(eg symbiosis degree combined with other parameters; Dr. Hazan prop multiplied score of symbiosis degree, bifido species count and proport biome). We need parameters easily measurable by sensors there.

Done.

The metabolic researchers will be able to add simple measurements ar do for assessing mitochondrial health.

As I made up the thesis that a distorted biome (dys-biosis) is synonym metabolic disease so mitochondriopathy.

Did not find any hint so far disproving this inference in both directions mathematical \Leftrightarrow .

Therefore, all therapies for one can be re-purposed for the other, and i overlap hugely. And constitute the perfect treatment to get rid of any "vulnerability" but also both post-the-vax as long haul, for flu also.

Yet to find out if you face a fraudster med sys servant or an honest sou hippocratic oath, do 8 questions for anything. To discuss, apply, also in eg local community board.

So do interventions only if 8 conditions are met:

- transparent (protected against (structural) corruption),
- early,
- multi-modal ie multi-"drug"—multi-target (due to intoxicated world, n for all conditions!)
- individual dose-finding and individual allergy test, for oral things on c mucosa eg, not on arm's skin: immune system reacts per tissue type (body!),
- safe,
- effective,
- available and
- cheap (at least worth the price).

Examples:

I will refrain to CoV vaccines.

You will notice there are publications PROVING that any mRNA vaccine in PEG-LNP nano-bubbles disrupts the Immune Profile and it does so epigenetically, so inheritable over 6 generations in mouse test.

<https://journals.plos.org/plospathogens/article?id=10.1371/journal.ppat>

Demanding physiological trauma therapy.

Proving that vaccinated in omicron DID infect themselves with 130% o unvaccinated, so „effectiveness“ was -30%, and that is a mild measure valid (70k Danish people study).

<https://www.medrxiv.org/content/10.1101/2021.12.20.21267966v3>

Proving that on day 10 of the „break-through“ infection, the viral load was higher than for unvaccinated.

<https://www.nejm.org/doi/full/10.1056/NEJMc2202092>

Proving that spike lingers for months only after vaccination so it is not vaccination but rather some „de-sensitisation“.

Also the plasmid, the production vector used to breed mRNA in fermenter tanks in e. Coli, somehow went into the vax's PEG-LNP “cellular syringe” 1/3 of mass content by mRNA as base. Enough to convert 0.1% of human vaccine factories - per shot.

See anandamide.substack.com for measurement instructions, papers to understand explanations of the problem and how manufacturers were hinted on the problem by EMA and could have easily solved the problem seemingly did not care.

And guess what was also found in said plasmid: the SV40-vector: the cancer-breeding molecule humans have found.

Btw the plasmid inside a PEG-LNP that fuses with a cell is then “replicatively competent”, so both daughter cells will be mRNA producing, which can be detected by the immune system. They just wear off a bit faster, so all we can do is encourage autophagy dynamically. Eg. by (intermittent) fasting, spearmint and resveratrol. And: Constant spring cure.

So in summary the vaccinated do not have symptoms, but suffer higher on organs of MORE probable infections: the vaccinated are the “super-spreaders”. Per measurement of scientists.

Especially as nK is reduced by the nano properties of PEG-LNP bubble every cold is hitting deep and can not be kept on mucosal site. Explain time of illness in population.

Easily yet painfully and slow to be cured by immune therapy.

This also explains “turbo cancer”, as said PEG-LNP reduces CD4 and CD8 are also necessary to prevent old “viruses” from re-bouncing, and explain many herpes and zoster flare-ups since cov vax.

And it reduces CD34+, which explains the 62% reduced success rate in clinics for in vitro fertilisation. And reduced birth rates that were covered taking monthly birth rate statistics in DE from servers of de-statis, yet I analysed this thoroughly. I assume 15-30% was reduction by vax, not I See

You can have simple links to papers for most of what I said.

Also, you can look at mRNA vaccine toxicity pdf there:

<https://doctors4covidethics.org/mrna-vaccine-toxicity/>

Yet lucky you that you did not perceive side effects. I did and it was an earth.

Since then I wole up and did my homework.

But that is the past. I now focus on simple things giving me back vitality training not to attach to such thoughts and rather letting go is perhaps important thing to try.

TheyLied TheyLied Substack Apr 30

Yes, many people seem to have no problems through their lives, but i would still watch the videos and read the articles that are on this page

<https://theylied.ca/Vaccines.shtml>

It isn't that some people do okay with a vaccine, it's that an unacceptable number of people don't do okay with a vaccine.

There are many other questions as well.

Considering your age, you may have 6-8 vaccines total. Children today get injected 80 times, most of those when they are very young. I would encourage you to do research, your great grandchildren will appreciate it.

I was also vaccinated for swine flu as a young adult, Covid and every boost recommended, pneumonia, flu every year since 1990, two different shingle and a few booster tetanus shots over the years.

I know no medical treatment or vaccine is perfectly safe for every individual the same for every individual. We are taking a chance every time we are treated medically. Science doesn't guarantee treatments are 100% safe- not if they are honest. At best, they are guaranteeing that the treatment is safe for a certain percentage of people to the best of their knowledge.

Some people think any risk is too much when it comes to their bodies. Measure the level of possible side effects vs the risk of death or disability if the treatment or vaccine isn't used. We all have to come to our own decision unless the risk is too great.

Thank you for your tolerance. To help understand my quirks, motivation might help to tell you about a work experience that I realized at the second time I had actually done years before.

This involved team building workshops. The first time, participants were asked to complete a task ahead of the workshop and send it to be reviewed and used in the workshop.

They called me after I sent my completed work to them because they thought I had taken it seriously.

When it came to work, I was very serious. I was in charge of the finances and facilities of a 10 county organization with a budget of $20+ million 25 years ago.

I was confused. How did I not take the task seriously?

Apparently, it was to evaluate personality traits. Most people - almost everyone - has a dominant and subordinate trait with a few answers indicative of two other personality styles.

After I explained why I answered several of the questions the way they told me to never mind, I was fine.

It turned out that I had two dominant traits that were exactly equated but not supposed to happen.

What I got out of their analysis was that I liked to follow the rules (and will love to berate me on that one).

But my other dominate trait sees that the rules don't always work triggers me to fix them. I will advocate changing those rules if I am in charge until they are changed and produce the correct outcome - then continue to follow the rules.

I guess that is what I am doing here. I have been following the rule that everything is as good as it gets with vaccines, but here there are people pointing out issues that are different or bigger than I thought. They seem to need to be changed but I want to be sure I/someone understands the problem and the right solution eventually is used to change them.

Maybe the answer is already here but I have to KNOW that. In reality I have nothing to do with making or adopting the changes, but I will influence the discussion if I disagree with any element if possible.

This double dominate traits makes me two different people which balances me but some think makes me a pain. I understand.

AMD spoke of America's health having declined over the past 250 years. I absolutely agree with that observation. Because we don't feel the immediate effects of damage to our bodies, it doesn't mean that it's not occurring. My last vaccine was when I was a child. Some 10 or so years later, I decided that I would no longer participate in that nonsense. I am 75 now. I watched my Dad, on his laundry list of drugs for older people, spend 10 or so years of his life declining into dementia, heart attacks, hypertension, and diabetes. He died at 89. He embraced all the vaccines, drugs, and surgeries that the medical mafia had to offer. My Mother's health was compromised as well. She died. Health does not come from the end of a needle or a drug from the mafia.

Life expectancy increased every year until just recently.

In 1776, life expectancy was 35-38, but if you made it out of childhood, you chance to make it to 50-60.

Life expectancy for someone born this year is 79.8-82.2. Some people cert 100 and even older now.

I know heath id not the same as life expectancy, but if you were not healthy you didn't live.

You might live longer now and not be healthy, but you still don't live as long healthy person your age.

I am 74 and have had basic immunizations recommended including two polio and two smallpox vaccinations before 18. Seems my university required one before enrolling. In addition to all the recommended Covid shots, I have had flu shots every year since 1990, pneumonia, and two different shingles vaccines.

I am sure there are people who have had adverse reactions to vaccines and they have taken that I have not. That is just the nature of biology and medicine.

Working on a cattle farm everyday is a great way to avoid disease. The part of why your dad is still healthy at 94, despite all the allergy-inducing poison-containing injections he's had over the years.

I love anecdotal information, by the way, and I don't discount yours or your brother's. In the same vein, there are millions of anecdotes of people who have become permanently damaged or killed following injections. I don't discount those either. To paraphrase Stalin, one vaccine death is an anecdote, but a million vaccine death anecdotes is a statistic.

For myself, I am 67 years old, working on the farm everyday, never had a flu vaccine or an influenza vaccine, and never suffered from COVID-19 or influenza ever. At the same time, hundreds of people around me who get every vaccine going and catch every infection going. Then they tell me "it could have been worse if I hadn't had the shot."

In this same context, I remember that when COVID came around in 2020, as vaccines were being rolled out, I warned several friends not to take it because it was not yet proved safe and effective, and two of them, both college teachers, responded, "I have to travel on the train everyday and breathe the same air as hundreds of students on campus, and what may just be a sniffle to me could kill me. It's OK for you; you work on the farm everyday."

If for nothing else the COVID pandemic showed us all beyond a shadow of a doubt how far we have drifted from being beholden to We the People.

The Govt is a simply a corporation (see 1927 McFadden Act for info) and no longer exists since 1927) as a Representative Constitutional Republic.

The high ground was obtained long ago and far too few are willing to sacrifice what it would cost to regain the ground.

If people don't understand the level of epistemological capture of all education —and medical education, and the probability that the entire allopathic medicine industry works to suppress symptoms (and not cure anything), then it would make sense they would not trust their training.

My research has shown that the overwhelming majority of chronic illness, including heart disease and cancer, likely stemmed from vaccines (and other forms of poison). And medical tests have simply categorized groups of symptoms as diseases or 'syndromes' and medications are created to suppress those symptoms.

Talk about a brilliant business model! Create chronic disease and invent drugs to suppress symptoms.

Unfortunately, degree holding is not related to intelligence. An intelligent person recognizes patterns. The pattern with vaccines is that those selling them lie, and those taking them get injured. I work with a PhD who ran to an appointment yesterday, to get both a Hep A vaccine. She is brilliant and holds tonnes of data in her brain and produces incredible results. But she cannot connect the dots. I grieve for her, as I do for all who have been misled.

 LIKE (10)  REPLY (4)

I agree. In fact, I would take it a step further and say that degree holding is a disservice to the person who paid for the degree. The more education they have, the less likely they are to think outside the box. It's a huge hindrance in my experience. I have healed things that doctors told me were impossible to heal. That just goes to show that their education limited them and kept them inside of a very small box. Another reason why I am homeschooling children is because they are not put into a box. They're allowed to think outside the box. I believe that homeschooling is the wave of the future. Public education is where the brainwashing begins.

Yup. Higher education is not the same as higher intelligence. Even education is something that for some odd reason just occurred to me recently. If a class test, and there are As and Bs and Cs and Ds and Fs - what if only people who were the only people who actually understood the questions, and everybody else was just giving it their best guess? Personally, I have worked with folks who just have a degree in programming and literally could not write a program - from scratch unless an extremely similar program was in the answers section of their textbook.

Yes I believe this is done on purpose. Having an education actually hinders people's ability to use their own brain and their own mind and connect their soul to find the true real answers. Another problem of deference to "experts" that we saw throughout Covid was the amount of doctors either didn't understand (hard as that is to believe, increasing in it is the case) fundamental statistics, (Absolute Risk Reduction vs Relative Risk Reduction, IFR v CFR, etc.), or were complacent to the responsibilities of their Hippocratic Oath. Instead they followed retarded and harmful mandates/recommendations coming from governmental bodies. The Oxford Vaccine Project says

"Inactivated flu vaccine

The inactivated flu vaccine does not contain the live virus and cannot cause flu. Flu v have a very good safety record. The most reported side effects of flu vaccines are:

pain, swelling, bruising, hardness, or redness at the injection site

slightly raised temperature (fever)

aching joints or muscles

feeling generally unwell"

I don't know what planet they are on but these are standard 'flu symptoms.

There has been a steady decline in science and medicine over recent decades and the standards and integrity has only gotten worse.

Not only does the P/Harma industry control allopathic medicine it controls the training of medical students so we churn out experts in vaccine schedules and medication prescriptions, pseudo-experts, who have little knowledge of anatomy, physiology and are incapable of diagnosis without a myriad of tests, and even then.

Allopathic or modern medicine is Fear Based Medicine sourced in profits and power. The most dangerous thing anyone can do in this age is see a doctor. One qualifier is that modern mechanistic materialist medicine does have invaluable skills. Beyond that, because you will never get good health from modern medicine and are more likely to be harmed than healed or made healthy.

Consider when people were tripping over themselves, waiting in line to get injected with a bioweapon, Pfizer was raking in $1,000.00 per second! Do the math, the people on the receiving end of such a massive income stream will go to great lengths to preserve that funding source.

Not just vaccines.

The medical mafia was enabled in the 1900's when Rockefeller/Carnegie commissioned the report 1910 which was deliberately aimed at trashing traditional medicine at the time. Around all med. institutions were shut down as a result of them failing to comply with the new allopathic recommended regime.

This gave the Rockefellers exactly what they wanted as their immense wealth had been threatened by the break up - by the US government - of Standard Oil, and so they reverted to the far more traditional tradition of Snake Oil salesmen. (Big Bill Rockefeller's best seller was a guaranteed cancer cure for a staggering 20 dollars a bottle, creosote/petroleum mixture). Nothing changes one might think. And so thus was born Allopathic medicine.

Incidentally it may surprise you that bigpharma consumes around 3% of the world's total production to make its present day drugs.

It is indeed a Mafia, it has to protect a racket that is now worth nearly 2 trillion dollars per year.

Whilst on topic, please take a look at The Health Foundation's analysis on healthy life expectancy. The US comes in at a staggering 62.9 years in 2022, down from 66 in 2012, the Amish who are at 75 and who generally decline all vaccines - although that may in part be due to the fact they don't watch TV - or read The Guardian (a notorious leftoid UK newspaper not to be read by Head Girls and read only by teachers).

Even though I used to believe in the safety and efficacy of vaccines, I'm needlephobic, so ones I've had in the last 40 years were 2 tetanus shots. When I was a kid, we didn't have a ridiculous vaccine schedule they have now, for which I am grateful. Covid opened my eyes to the dangers of vaccines, and I don't even jab my dogs or cats at this point, except to err on the side of caution and at least give my pups the first parvo/distemper jab. My adult cats and dogs don't get jabbed, but that was mostly me not wanting to pay the outrageous vet bill, and not having the stomach to do it myself (which I have since gotten over, I gave my pups their one and only jab). I know about CDS and MMS1 at the time, I wouldn't have even bothered.

My guardian dog has been jabbed once for rabies, but I have it on good authority that one jab protects her for years. No need to have her jabbed repeatedly at 75 bucks a pop.

Hubs got "no jab, no job" at work, and got the J&J, a poster on ZeroHedge recommending the J&J MUST have one, as the least toxic/damaging of the three. I am very grateful to that person for what's come out about the other two. And at least he only got the one to shut up the upper management at work. They tried to pressure him into more, but he refused. And that one jab bled over didn't get one, and I ended up with shingles attacks 2-3 times a week for 6 months, whereas I might have an attack a couple times a year. We both went on a week long fast, and did all the protocols I could find that might have a chance to blunt the effects of that horrible vaccine.

And why on earth get a flu shot? It's a crap shoot, as far as I'm concerned. Every single person I know that has gotten the flu shot has gotten the flu shortly thereafter. That may not always be the case, as I don't know every single person who has gotten a flu shot on this planet, but still I don't get the flu when it comes, and trust in my immune system and my supplements to protect me from the issue.

At this point, I am so disgusted with Big Medicine, Big Pharm, the FDA, and the rest of the medical establishment. I refuse medications (except my bio-identical hormones), and mostly go with DMSO, CDS, and herbals. I try to keep as clean a diet as I can, and do cardio and yoga regularly. Screw the establishment.

Sorry for the long blather, I guess I should have just written my own article. :)

For vast majority of population cold or flu is nothing more than a minor annoying inconvenience for a few days, maybe every couple of years. All these "safe and effective" vaccines have deluded people into thinking that we must never ever get sick or that it's some kind of scourge to have a cold...or that you've failed as a human if you get sick or - GASP!!- if someone else sick with a minor cold. Sheesh, people are scared stiff of just getting a cold. In fact, our immune system needs to be challenged to stay in tip top shape, so it can fight off deadlier things like cancer

My wife had a 'flu jab in 1989 before I met her. She said she was promptly very ill for a week. Even I knew in the 1980's the 'flu jabs were pointless as I read about those who were killed by the jab. Now I know all vaccines are pointless at best, harmful at worst.

I got shingles twice, once in my 40s and again in my 50s. I treated them as wakeup calls. The first was that I wasn't healthy, and needed to do something about it. The second time the things I was doing for health weren't translating into a healthy innate immune system. I needed to do something different.

All I have learned from these past 6 years is that the vaccine industry is an earthly outcast and Hades and it will enlarge itself as big as needed to fulfill its mission of hastening people to this mortal coil and to cause misery for the still living. It's about the vibe I'd expect from a Hell towards the children of Men. Lucifer was a murderer and thief from the beginning and is now seeking to increase his vile reach.

Thanks for publishing this account Doc. I note, however, that the actual origin and intent of "vaccine" mandates for Covid 19 are NOT ACCOUNTED for in this article. Perhaps you could consider openly indicting the folks who decided to poison the world's citizens and depopulate the planet by killing off the elderly first, the sick and obese, then the pensioners, next those vulnerable for pensions, then younger people who would be filling the emptied places of those killed and then as a coup de gras, eliminate the birth rate by decimating pregnancy and motherhood "vaccination". As insurance against population growth, the "vaccines" were made mandatory on any of the folks decline or become "hesitant" about the "vaccines". It would be reassuring that you will mention the involvement of military, the corporate CEO'S, the medical associations, the politicians, and of course, last, but not least, the philanthropies involved, and the entrance using Public/Private/Partnerships in collaboration with the very wealthy "elite" and motivated eugenicists. Perhaps you could mention, in passing the motives for all of this, including global warming hysteria, the foundational fraud hiding the FACT that unfunded liabilities are the reason the population cannot be allowed to continue unchecked, and throw in a brief segment on the extraordinary preoccupation with greed in the profits surrounding pharma, and the "scandal" of providing fake data, censorship of the truth, and the harsh regulation of doctors who were railroaded for spilling the beans. People quite naturally think that vaccines are compared to a placebo. I mean, isn't that supposed to be medical science's self proclaimed gold standard? They would be shocked to find that rarely true, and not just for childhood vaccines. While my primary med was in the midst of an annual physical he remarked in passing that I needed a tetanus booster, but was "up to date" on pneumonia vaccines. I asked if he would be interested to know that none of the pneumonia vaccines had ever been rigorously tested against a true placebo. I've seen his look before, like after the second patient to give him a copy of Malcolm Kendrick's book, "The Clot Thickens".

All governments lie most of the time; very few are ever honest about such important things people's health. So, if my government says that something is 'healthy' or 'good for me', it's bright flashing red flags! I immediately ask who benefits and then try to follow the money. I invariably refuse it.

With vaccines, I simply don't agree with the principle, except on rare occasions - for example, travelling to a place where certain dangerous diseases are easy to catch, then taking a vaccine might be a wise precaution. But these types of very specific targeted vaccines are different from mass population ones, where there is real cause to believe they are also being used for other purposes.

It's no secret that poor third-world countries were [still are?] targeted with vaccines that contained anti-fertility sterilising ingredients to reduce the population.

If that can be done to them, what can be done to us?

....I appreciate Sen. Johnson and Hawley who have been working so hard to uncover this and I cannot even listen to that Big Pharma Prostitute Blumenthal...who makes me want to However...I think all of these "investigations" start at the wrong point. The first question there really was a virus...why was the PCR test chosen to identify it? The creator of the PCR stated that the PCR wasn't designed to diagnose an infection...and then conveniently died months before these Crime Against Humanity were initiated. Why then...did they continue PCR as a method of diagnosis...even after they admitted that it was useless for the task? continued using the PCR because they knew they would get billions of false positive reactions allow them to continue the fear campaign. The second investigation would be the falsification of actual COVID deaths...using the Remdesivir , Midazolam & Ventilator protocol which murdered millions. Everyone knew that the Remdesivir would kill the kidneys of patients within 5 treatments which caused fluids to back up into the patients heart and lungs...(which the Medical Industry Complex / MIC called "COVID pneumonia...which doesn't exist). After the fluids started backing up they used Midazolam to keep the patient sedated and then put them on a ventilator. The MIC expanded the lungs, allowing for more fluid back up...until the patient died. After the patient died...the hospitals and MIC called that a COVID Death...and collected their $480,000 govt payout per dead patient. Start with that fraud and murder...and you'll find that the people's money was simply a byproduct of the desire to murder billions and to reduce fertility. A depopulation agenda in line with UN Agenda 21, 30 & 50....all planned by the globalists who want to control the world.

Also, in all the years we have become clearer and clearer on the harm of the covid vaccine help but think there is too much information scattered in too many places.

The one thing that would make the difference in conversations, and government and courts both in the US and abroad, with those still aligned with the idea that it was safe, is if we could get them to one or two places where they could find the bulk of the evidence.

Not have to build our own libraries and send people twenty links. Not just videos or articles with few or often no references to support them. Not sources three steps away from the actual evidence.

Here in Canada our government has zero accountability. I hope one day we can make our government accountable and our families safe again from this happening again.
